Knowles Vows School Aids of $13.4 Million

Tax Hikes Hinted by Legislators

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — Gov. Warren P. Knowles and Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee staged a political debate in the Milwaukee Arena Thursday night, and the school children of Milwaukee won.

Speaking before 4,000 members of the Wisconsin Educational Association, Maier begged the teachers, educators and citizens of the state to support Milwaukee's "inner city" and named education as the greatest single weapon for winning the battle of the central city.

An emergency piece of legislation to provide a crash education program for Milwaukee will be prepared in the Legislature today, Knowles promised. The package contains $13.4 million for education with additional school aids for all districts of the state on an equitable basis and emergency measures for the special problems of Milwaukee's inner core.

Direct Aids

Knowles' tax package includes direct aids to Milwaukee schools totaling $3.4 million and $10 million added to the school-aid formula, of which Milwaukee will get $3 million in the next biennium.

Fully cognizant of the calculated political risk in the face of incurring the voters' wrath and threatening a state budget which is balanced for the first time in 14 years, Knowles said the funds will be sought through a shifting of funds in the state budget or by new tax legislation.

Knowles said he felt confident that the new legislation would be enacted within the next two weeks. He declined to elaborate on the method of raising the additional revenue.

Tax Hike Hinted

Democratic legislative leaders said today Knowles plans to boost beer and cigarette taxes to meet his school aid program.

A spokesman for Knowles, however, asserted the taxes were only among a number of possible taxes being considered to finance education needs.

Democratic leaders held a news conference to discuss what they described as Knowles' plan to increase beer taxes by 50

Humphey Talks, Golfs In Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Malaysian officials got in a round of golf course diplomacy today. Humphrey said the talk was "very fruitful" but he and his aides lost the match. "We went down to defeat, but we went down in honor," Humphrey said. The vice president arrived Wednesday night from South Vietnam and goes to Indonesia Saturday.

The Malaysian team, which included Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak and Information Minister Senu Bin Abdul Rahman, won only because Rahman had been to "school in California," Humphrey joked.

Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman did not play because he has a badly sprained ankle. An avid golfer, Rahman customarily takes his visitors to the links and employs the relaxed atmosphere there to resolve disputed issues. There was no indication, though, of any points in dispute between Humphrey and the Malaysians.

After watching one of Razak's good drives, Humphrey said: "I'd like a little bit of technical aid from Malaysia." The remark may have been a reference to a promise by the prime minister that Malaysia, although it won't send troops to Vietnam, will go "all out" in assisting rural reconstruction programs in South Vietnam.

Humphrey's schedule today also included a visit to an agricultural college and the local institute of public health.

Invaders Near Capital

Congo Talks Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The government of the Congo has asked for a U.N. Security Council meeting to deal with an invasion by white and African soldiers from neighboring Portuguese Angola. Some U.N. diplomats expected the council to meet today.

Government sources in Kinsasa, the Congolese capital, said the invaders seized a train and some trucks and were bearing down on Lubumbashi, formerly from Lubumbashi.

Congolese troops were ordered to intercept the invading force, which diplomatic dispatches reaching the State Department said was made up of about 150 soldiers of fortune mustered in Angola.

Expresses Alarm

In Washington, Deputy Undersecretary of State Foy D. Kohler called in the Portuguese ambassador to express alarm and a U.S. spokesman said his government took a "grave view" of the developments.

Some observers believed the invasion's purpose was to relieve pressure on the force of about 130 white mercenaries, led by Col. Jean Schramme, and 950 Katangan soldiers allied with them who are besieged by 22,000 government troops at Bukavu, 600 miles north of Lubumbashi.

The mercenaries were reported to have suffered losses in a Congolese attack on their stronghold.

Schramme's men revolted in July against their employer, the Congo government, after Moise Tshombe, exiled former Congo premier and Katanga leader, was kidnaped from a plane and jailed in Algeria.

Reports of the invasion caused a stir among Asian and African delegates at the United Nations. They have repeatedly accused Portugal, which still rules three colonies in Africa, and other white governments of supporting Schramme's mercenaries.

After charges four months ago by the Congo that Tshombe was hiring mercenaries in Europe to be used against President Joseph Mobutu, the Security Council unanimously approved a resolution calling on all countries to bar such recruitment. Mobutu's government singled out Portugal, Spain and Belgium.

Laird Demands Spending Cut

LBJ Dared to 'Go to People' For Support on Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's appeal to the public to help him fight inflation by pressuring Congress for a tax increase is evoking a "let him try it" reaction from Republicans on Capitol Hill.

In an address to a consumers' convention Thursday the President asked the people to "make yourselves heard" in support of the tax increase and to join him in fighting against higher tariffs on imports.

Promise Veto

Johnson in effect promised to veto any tariff legislation that comes his way when he thumped the lectern and declared, "These bills must not become law—and they will not become law as long as I am President of this country."

Congressional Democrats were mostly silent about the President's remarks but Republicans expressed confidence Johnson would get burned if he tries to bring the wrath of the voters to bear on Congress in support of a tax increase.

"Let him go to the people with that issue," said Chairman Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, of the House Republican conference.

"We'll go to the people with our side of the same issue. We want to be sure any money raised by a tax increase is used to reduce the deficit and not for more spending. Then we'll talk about a tax increase," said Laird.

Economics Issue

Even among Democrats there is apparently still widespread doubt not only that voters favor a tax increase, but that they would forgive those who vote for it.

Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., author of one of several pending moves for a mandatory spending cut, said the basic issue is still economy, rather than a tax increase.

Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, senior Republican member of the Appropriations Committee, replied to a question about Johnson's appeal with another question: "Did he also appeal to people to demand cuts in spending?"

'Threaten Country'

In his remarks to the consumer group, the President said inflation and the possibility that tariffs may be raised "threaten our consumers and our country."

In the past, he said, it has been possible to lower taxes.

"But now there are pressures on the economy which demand that we ask for a portion of that tax cut back, in the form of a surcharge," he said. We estimate that it would take one penny out of the average American's dollar." He has asked for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

Raising tariff barriers to foreign goods, the President said, would invite almost certain retaliation by other nations against American exports.

"Prices would rise," he said. "Our world market would shrink. So would the range of goods from which American consumers choose what they buy."

Implied Consent Debate Delayed

MADISON (AP) — The state Senate delayed action Thursday on a bill to require motorists arrested for drunken driving to submit to chemical intoxication tests.

The bill was scheduled to be debated again on the floor Tuesday after the upper house became entangled in confusing amendments to the proposal.

The measure would force tipsy drivers to be tested for alcoholic content or face an automatic 90-day suspension of their driver's license. It would also set penalties for drunken driving up to six months in jail and a $200 fine.

N. Carolina City Hit by Violence

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Peace returned to downtown Winston-Salem this morning following a night of racial violence blamed on "hoodlums who have taken advantage of a situation." During the night, 34 persons, including seven policemen, were injured and 51 were arrested. Three Negroes were treated for gunshot wounds.

City officials said it might be several days before an accurate estimate could be made of damage caused by looting and fires. Fire Chief C. L. Williams said damage from about 55 fires alone probably would run "into the tens of thousands of dollars."

The violence began late Thursday following the burial of a Negro man who died after being struck by a policeman.

'Bunch of Hoodlums'

Mayor W. C. Benton said the trouble was started by "a bunch of hoodlums who have taken advantage of a situation. This is the excuse they have been waiting for."

Negro leaders had urged that the rioting stop.

About dawn this morning some 400 National Guardsmen and helmeted police encircled eight blocks in the downtown section of the city, widely known for its major cigarette factories. All persons entering the area were screened before being admitted.

Most officers were withdrawn later as businessmen and employes began going to work. By 8 a.m. the area was open to normal traffic.

Fire bombings and reports of sniper fire kept police and firemen busy in various sections of the city before daybreak. There was looting downtown and at two shopping centers.

The Guardsmen, from a Winston-Salem unit and a company from the nearby city of Statesville, were mobilized on the orders of North Carolina Gov. Dan Moore Thursday night.

The violence had erupted some four hours earlier following funeral services for a Negro who died after being struck by a policeman. Murder charges against the officer were dismissed but solicitor Thomas W. Moore Jr. said today the case would be revived because of "other evidence."

The trouble apparently started when a small group of Negroes gathered on a downtown street and began shouting and cursing. Then junk in a trash can was set afire and other Negroes joined the demonstration.

Wednesday Strike Possible at Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers bargained today under a Wednesday strike deadline to work out a contract based on the union's record settlement with Ford Motor Co.

The UAW announced Thursday it would strike Chrysler if a new pact is not agreed on by midnight Wednesday.

Pope Bans News On His Operation

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today ordered a news blackout on his operation, but Vatican medical sources said the surgery would be performed Saturday morning as planned unless there are unexpected complications.

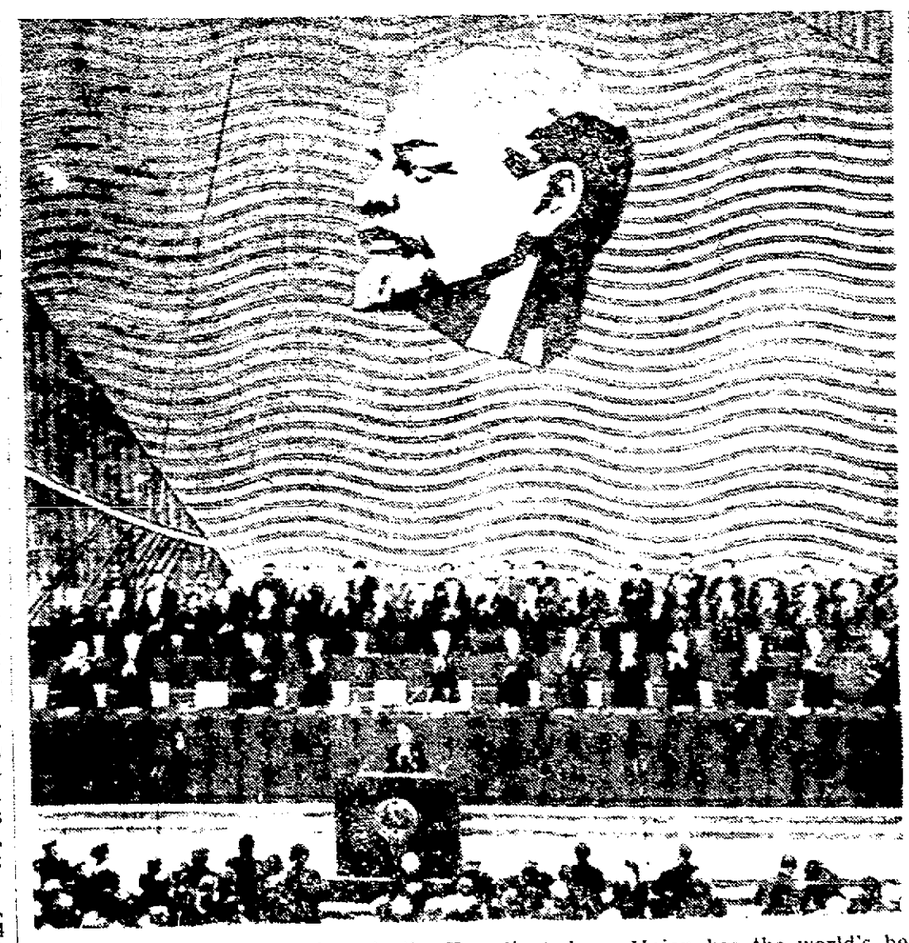

Word of the information blackout was announced by Raimondo Manzini, director of L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, as the Pope began a spiritual retreat of prayer and contemplation in preparation for the operation to correct an enlarged prostate condition.

Snow Flurries Possible Tonight

Soviets Celebrate Strength

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist Party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev claimed today that the Soviet Union has the world's best weapons and said Soviet assistance to the Vietnamese Communists will continue until U.S. forces leave Vietnam.

Speaking at a Kremlin meeting celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, Brezhnev also attacked Mao Tse-tung's leadership of China and renewed the Soviet party's call for the world Communist conference the Soviet leaders want to hold to condemn Mao's policies.

Leave Assembly

As Brezhnev accused Mao of a "chauvinistic and great-power course," Chinese Charge d'Affaires An Chi-yuan led his delegation out of the hall. The Chinese boycotted the opening anniversary ceremony Thursday.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, although invited, was not in the diplomatic gallery for attacks on the United States.

Brezhnev spoke to some 6,000 persons at a joint session of the Soviet party's central committee, the Supreme Soviet Parliament of the Soviet Union, the Supreme Soviet of the Russian Federation and Communist party delegations from 95 other countries.

His speech was billed as the main address of the six-day anniversary celebration, which opened Thursday with the unveiling of a statue of Lenin and closes Nov. 7, the anniversary date, with the traditional Red Square parade and Kremlin reception.

Highlights of Brezhnev's speech included:

"The Soviet Army has the best weaponry in the world."

"In a clash with any aggressor the Soviet Union will win a victory." "Soviet assistance to Vietnam will continue until the American imperialists get out of Vietnam."

Another Conference

"The Soviet Communist Party supports the idea of convening another international conference of Communists and is ready to do everything for its success."

"The chauvinistic and great-power course of Mao Tse-tung's group runs counter to the interests of the people's revolutionary struggle."

College Coed No Longer Feels Her Mother's Advice Funny

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother used to say, "Always wear nice underwear. You never can tell when you'll get into an accident." I thought that was pretty funny. Yesterday I stopped laughing.

A college friend and I went bike riding. We are experienced cyclists and neither of us had ever had an accident. Della's bike suddenly hit a hole in the cement. She went sailing head first and landed in a clump of bushes. Fortunately, a squad car was within 100 feet of us and the police officers rushed her to the hospital. Of course I went along.

The first thing the doctor did was cut off Della's blouse and slacks. Soon she regained consciousness and called me by name. Although she was in pain she seemed much more concerned about her underwear than her injuries. And well she might have been. I never saw such a filthy brassiere — torn and faded — and her pantie girdle was in even worse condition.

Luckily she suffered only a broken shoulder and a dislocated hip, but she told me later that her embarrassment over her underwear was more painful than her injuries.

I learned a lesson at Della's expense, Ann. Maybe others can profit by it as I have. — Neat All the Way Through

Dear Neat: Thank you for sharing. O.K. girls, take a fast reading. Are you wearing undies you wouldn't mind modeling in a emergency room? How's the lace on your slip? Is your girdle a wee mite shredded? Did you hurriedly pin that busted bra strap this morning instead of sew it on? Upgrade your underwear, Sisters. You never know.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My next door neighbor has read every word you have ever written. Before you get to feeling flattered let me tell you that the idea behind this is to catch you in a mistake. She checks out every fact, gets on the phone and calls the newspaper, the public library, legal aid, welfare agencies, clinics, veterinarians, doctors, clergymen, police, firemen, the post office — anybody she can pump for information.

I would judge that this nut spends anywhere from two to three hours a day trying to trip you up. She thought she had you the day you said a pregnant WAC is not kicked out of the service and dishonorably discharged. Her face fell a foot when she was told by the recruiting office here, "Ann is right. Pregnant Wacs are simply separated from the service."

This woman used to be the town's worst meddler and most vicious troublemaker. Since she has made you her hobby she hasn't had time for troublemaking and gossip. So thank you. — RCO

Dear RCO: I am delighted that I am providing a harmless outlet for the woman's energies. If she catches a mistake, I'd be delighted to hear from her.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

New Deduction Rules For Divorced Parents

BY SYLVIA PORTER

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

If you are typical of America's divorced or separated parents, you can take the $600 dependency deduction for your children. Now, as a result of a 1967 tax law change which has received virtually no national publicity, you will with proper yearend tax strategy, be able to avoid this.

Porter

The problem up to now has been the requirement that the husband or wife must have contributed more than half of the child's total support for the year to be eligible for the dependency deduction The husband knows how much he contributes for a child's support but he doesn't know how much more his divorced or separated wife adds to the child's total support for the year unless she tells him. If she refuses to tell him, then he has no way of proving to an Internal Revenue agent that he contributed more than half of the child's total support for the year and that he is thus entitled to the dependency deduction

Who Gets Deduction

The new law largely eliminates this problem and goes beyond it. It allows you, the parents, to agree between you who should get the deduction for each of your children, and the Treasury will honor your agreement. Specifically:

The parent who has custody of the child for the greater part of the year (usually the mother) will generally get the $600 dependency deduction, except that the other parent (usually the father) can have the deduction if either 1) he contributed at least $600 to the child's support during the year, and the divorce or separation decree or written agreement provides that he gets the deduction, or (2) he contributed $1,200 or more for child support during the year (regardless of how many children) and the parent having custody (wife doesn't prove that she contributed more. If she claims she contributed more than he, each parent is entitled to the other's itemized statement of expenses.

These new rules apply only where the parents together furnish more than half of a child's total support for the year. Thus it wouldn't apply if grandparents contributed 75 per cent of the total and the child is in the custody of one or both parents for more than half the year (thus it wouldn't apply if the child was in the custody of grandparents for seven months).

The change in the law takes effect in 1967 and opens the way to important yearend tax strategy steps

Written Agreement

If you, the divorced or separated parents, can work out the dependency deductions sensibly between you, then you can agree in writing which child or children the father can take If you, the father, contribute at least $600 for each of the children during the year, you can take the dependency deductions without any trouble from the Treasury.

This written agreement can be a separate new document and need not be incorporated in the decree or previous agreement.

While the Treasury hasn't yet issued its official regulations on such details as whether an agreement made now will apply to all of '67, the likelihood is the law will be liberally interpreted so that you'll be under the new rules even though you don't make your written agreement until after you have read this column.

If you, a divorced or separated husband, can't agree with your wife on who should get the dependency deductions for your children, you'll no longer be up against the problem of being unable to prove you contributed more than half the support. By contributing a total of $1,200 or more before Dec. 31 for all the children, you will become entitled to get your wife's statement of her expenses.

Before making any agreement about dependency deductions, you should be thoroughly aware that any medical expense deductions and child care deductions depend on who gets the dependency deduction.

Mrs. Hope Palmer, art teacher at Brake Junior High School, Taylor Township, Michigan, has been criticized for her school wardrobe. Although high boots and relatively long dress almost completely cover her leg above, the 24-year-old former model, has worn miniskirts to classes and been the victim of parental wrath. (AP Wirephoto)

Parents Raise Roof on Teacher's High-Rise Hem

TAYLOR TOWNSHIP, Mich. (AP) — About 200 parents of children in Brake Junior High would like to see just a bit less of Hope Palmer.

It's not that Mrs. Palmer isn't attractive. She is.

And it's not that the 24-year-old former model who teaches art isn't talented. Her superintendent, Simon Katchaterian, says she's one of the best around.

But Hope wears miniskirts. To school.

And the 200 parents demanded to be heard at an executive session of the Taylor School Board.

Administers Kick

The board told the group's leader, Mrs. Carolyn Kalnins, that only she and six others would be heard on the issue of the exposed knee. The board told them, too that they would not be heard in public.

It was Mrs. Kalnins' mother, Mrs. Lorraine Thurman, who several weeks ago spotted Hope, in miniskirt, in the halls of the school and told the pretty teacher she deserved "a kick in the behind." Then Mrs. Thurman administered same.

Says Mrs. Kalnins: "The kids report to us what she's been wearing, and they say some of her skirts are shorter than they were before."

Katchaterian has remained noncommittal, but has said he'd talk to Mrs. Palmer about the length of her hem.

"It wasn't a miniskirt," the superintendent says of the striped dress Hope wore when she went to see him. "Maybe six inches above the knee."

Said Hope: "I'll continue to wear what I please."

A Lovelier You

Bright Make-Up

There's a saying among professional make-up people that makes sense for non-professionals. It goes like this: A woman does not have to be the first to adopt a new beauty fashion, but she must not be the last to discard an outmoded one.

If you completely ignored beauty trends you would come to look bizaare — like a character from a bygone era As an example, consider the teen who persists in wearing ghostly white lipstick. She's not turned on, for sure, to the new glossy pastel shades that are setting the lips of her friends aglow.

Now consider the women still wearing blobs of neon-bright eyeshadow. The look is aging because it's passe. For several seasons the trend in eye make-up has favored delicate, translucent shades.

As of today both lass and lady might benefit from this check list of turned-off beauty trends:

Masky powder base
Floury powder
Theatrical eye make-up
Anemic lipstick shades
Teased towers of hair

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, The Eyes of Youth. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Ailing House

Mailbox Has Own Protection

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

We intend to put up a new aluminum mailbox with a gold-tone finish, and would like to prevent oxidation. Someone suggested a coat of lacquer, another said varnish. What's your recommendation?

A: I'm surprised you'd need anything. After all, doesn't the manufacturer know very well a mailbox lives outdoors? If you feel like double precautions, however, I suggest clear marine varnish.

Our basement floor gets damp when the weather is warm and humid, as it has been this past summer. Other times it's perfectly dry. Is there any type of paint or other finish which will cure this condition?

A: No finish I know will do this. It's a case of insulating the cool masonry so the warm, soggy air can't condense on it. Here it means laying a raised floor, resting on 2 by 4's, to provide a dead air insulating space between. Be sure the 2 by 4's are well soaked with odorless wood preservative, to protect against decay. A coat of aluminum paint on the underside of the raised flooring will act as a waterproofing vapor barrier.

Q: We have a terrible odor in our walls. After checking many things, we've concluded it must be rock wool insulation in walls. However, after removing small patches of plaster, I find insulation is clean and dry. Could the walls be sealed? Why this odor after 17 years here?

A: Sorry, know of no such coating. Also disinclined to believe the insulation is at fault. Sounds more like a rat or squirrel entombed in there. Best and pleasantest remedy is a long vacation trip. If impractical, call a local company which specializes in deodorizing jobs.

Q: While painting the living room walls my poor husband fell from the ladder and knocked over a quart can of white enamel. It landed on our avocado colored wall-to-wall carpeting. How can I remove the splotches without damage to the color, please?

A: Sure hope husband didn't get hurt. As for carpeting, you should have called a good rug cleaner immediately and let him try, before the paint got set. Now, I have grave doubts. Any liquid paint remover will probably affect the rug fibers. A good example of why sheet plastic drop cloths could save the day.

Perhaps some kind friends have constructive suggestions? They'll sure come in handy here!

A helpful friend sends in this mousechaser:

"You said in today's paper you would like to know something to chase mice out. If you put just a few drops of oil of wintergreen in drawers or where they run, the mice will leave. They don't like the smell.

"I have used this effectively for years."

Emotions Can Cause High Blood Pressure

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes high blood pressure? I always thought it was from a person's temper, resentment, criticism, etc. — N.N.

Emotional pressures can be important and are fairly common but are by no means the sole cause of high blood pressure. There are many causes. Some people, after retirement, benefit from a moderate reduction in blood pressure because they are relieved of the strain and anxiety of business problems.

Dr. Molner

Certain types of hardening of the arteries are one important cause of high blood pressure, and this is particularly true when small vessels of the kidneys are affected — a great deal of blood must flow through the kidneys, so if blood flow is impeded in these vessels, pressure rises as a result.

A narrowed main artery leading to the kidneys also can increase the pressure; this is one type of high blood pressure which can be corrected surgically.

Coarctation (narrowing) of the aorta, which is the main artery leading from the heart, can be responsible for high blood pressure in young people.

Kidney disease, such as nephritis, is still another cause.

And there are some cases in which we are unable to isolate a specific cause.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been taking a laxative almost daily for seven years. Can phenolphthalein become habit-forming? Is it related to benzene drugs? What effect can prolonged use have? — C.L.

If you've been using it almost daily you've answered your own question — you've gotten into the habit of taking it. (Habit and addiction are quite different things, remember.)

Phenolphthalein is an effective laxative but repeated use can irritate the bowel membrane. It usually produces a loose, watery stool which is not normal.

Occasional use of phenolphthalein would not be objectionable, but I wish you would read my booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation," which you may obtain by sending 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper.

The booklet not only discusses a variety of ways to overcome constipation but also how to overcome the laxative habit.

(Phenolphthalein is a derivative of phenol, not benzene.)

Dr. Molner: The articles I read in magazines and newspapers admonishing husbands to be patient and considerate when their wives are going through menopause make me sick!

What about the unmarried women who must go through this period without a "loving and understanding" husband to cater to their whims?

Most of these women have to stand at a machine in a factory all day, teach a roomful of lively children, or sit at a typewriter in a room full of men.

Perhaps she has parents to care for and cater to. She must get up every morning regardless; she cannot lie down when she feels like it or resort to crying and complaining. She must carry on; there is no one to feel sorry for her. — A.B.C.

Who said anything about catering to whims? Some understanding of the problem, and making use of such medical help as is needed can prevent any necessity for "crying and complaining." Your physician can provide such treatment.

Note to J. McD.: The county medical society will be glad to give you the names of qualified allergists in the city. The same is true for other specialists, of course.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, send for my booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

LBJ Putting Faith in Center People on War

May Curtail Bombings but Sees No Favorable Reaction From Ho Chi Minh

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is hoping to outflank both the hawks and the doves between now and the Presidential election campaign, and convince the great middle ground of voters that the only way to win the war in Vietnam is to wear out the enemy.

A war of attrition is not a recipe that a President running for re-election would deliberately choose, but Mr. Johnson has to deal with some of the sternest political realities any incumbent president has faced in this century. Grappling with the political reality at home and the war reality abroad, the President's advisers have reached certain conclusions.

Evans

The first of these is that the hawks on the right and the doves on the left comprise a minority of the electorate. The center, which is against both sharp escalation and a pull-out, may be confused and uncertain about the war, but it will support the President when convinced there is no easy or quick solution.

Center With Him

This, at least, is Mr. Johnson's election-year assumption. He must keep the center with him. Otherwise he not only loses the election next year but the U.S. position in Vietnam could become wholly untenable. And Mr. Johnson today is more convinced of the rightness of U.S. policy in Vietnam than ever before.

Thus, the recent escalation of the bombing has a double purpose.

Its first purpose is to break the will of Ho Chi Minh and persuade him to talk peace. Even in the most optimistic administration quarters, however, it is regarded as wholly unlikely that the North Vietnamese will react that way. Thus the second and more realistic purpose of the bombing comes into play to convince the great middle ground in the U.S. that endless escalation, advocated by the hawks, cannot win the war.

Can't Predict Extent

By the same token, President Johnson is being strongly advised that he must make one more serious effort to start negotiations by ordering another pause in the bombing, some time after the current bombing escalation has run its course. Again, there would be two purposes: the obvious (and almost certainly futile) purpose of encouraging Ho Chi Minh to talk, and second, to demonstrate to the middle-ground voters, if that doesn't happen, that the doves are dreaming when they say that a cessation of bombing will bring a settlement.

No one can predict today at what point Mr. Johnson might order the pause or how extensive it might be. The President is known to feel, however, that he cannot order a halt in the bombing just north of the Demilitarized Zone along the 17th parallel if the North Vietnamese continue their artillery attacks on the exposed Marine positions just south of the DMZ. Moreover, Mr. Johnson is extremely reluctant, for obvious reasons, to halt all bombing of the infiltration routes into South Vietnam from the north if Hanoi once again exploits the pause to move large quantities of supplies into the war zone.

But within these limitations the President is certain to try another bombing pause, possibly sometime in early winter. And if, as seems probable, it does not lead to negotiations, he hopes to be in a stronger position at home to deal with the doves.

This election-year plan has many other facets. The President is insisting, for example, that members of his cabinet start taking the offensive on the war. Thus Secretary of State Dean Rusk warns against the long-range dangers of a billion Chinese armed with nuclear weapons and Vice President Hubert Humphrey sounds the alarm about militant Communism directed from Peking. The President's point: the administration hasn't been making its best case.

Watches Defectors

Spadework is being done, too, on potential defectors among party leaders. Before Representative Morris Udall of Arizona announced his break with the President on escalation of the war, he got a telephone call from the White House asking him to reconsider.

But these tactics are routine. Far more interesting is the President's developing political strategy for dealing with the most unpopular war in the country's history. If he can show that neither the doves nor the hawks have the solution, then the voters may come to accept his own, far less dramatic solution of wearing down the enemy, slowly, tediously, but finally.

School Buddies Trade Commands

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Lt. Col. Kermit W. Andrus passed command of Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 365 to a high school buddy, Maj. Richard M. Cooke, Tuesday at New River Marine air facility.

Andrus and Cooke have seen their paths cross several times since they became friends 20 years ago at high school in Lakewood, N.Y. and enlisted in the Marine Corps in the early 50s.

Although Andrus gave up his command Tuesday to Cooke, the two men won't be separated. Andrus moves across the air strip to become a staff member with Marine Aircraft Group 26.

Calls Home Counted Up to Pretty Penny

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A young woman employe of Los Angeles County called home oftener than most, but nobody said anything until she telephoned a friend in Saigon.

Authorities said they discovered she ran up a telephone bill of $1,264 by calling home—to Jackson, Miss.—since June.

The young woman was fired, County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said Tuesday.

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Ed Williams apologized Tuesday night when a young Halloween trick-or-treater knocked at her door in this Dallas suburb. She was out of treats.

Mrs. Williams, 22, said she had given away pounds of caramels, lollipops, cookies and fudge during the night—"just about everything in the house."

"I just told the little girl I was awfully sorry—that I just didn't have a thing left in the house," she said.

"That's all right, honey," the little girl said, "you just take this" and handed Mrs. Williams a sack of candy.

How wonderful you like the idea of Wisconsin Game Dinners! We have had so many inquiries, and assure you that it will be very special. You will have three choices this week, plus our a la carte menu in The Bellevue Dining Room. It will be difficult to choose, however — Roast Pheasant, Winemaker Style, Elk Ragout, Saint Hubert, or Venison Loinsteak, Lucculus, and all served with fine accompaniments for wild game. The first one?

This Thursday, November 2nd, and also serving the same menu on Sunday evening, November 5th, from 5:00 until 10:00. What a nice way to entertain friends! And do remember, The Les Schmidt Trio plays in the Bellevue Dining Room and the Lost Dauphin Cocktail Lounge, from 5:30 to 9:30 on Sundays.

This week we welcome the Wisconsin Parks and Recreation Association: and on Saturday have a very unusual occasion — The Oshkosh Motor Truck Company will be honored by the United Auto Workers Union. How refreshing in contrast to the usual news!

Our new entertainers, Evan Charles and Dixie Lee, will start their engagement here on Wednesday, November 1st, in The Caboose, playing there every Tuesday through Thursday, and on Mondays in the Lost Dauphin Cocktail Lounge.

Service Taken Off Trains

Century-Old Mail Run Ends

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

More than a century of railroad mail service to northeastern Wisconsin will be terminated today in favor of a more extensive truck carrier service and sectional center distribution facilities.

The Chicago and North Western Railway Chicago-Green Bay Railroad Post Service (RPO), which was the only method mail was transported to this area up to the late 1930's, is following the route which more than 9,000 rail post offices have since the 1930's — elimination.

However, according to postal officials, unlike the majority which died because of termination of the rail line, the Chicago-Green Bay RPO was stopped by the U.S. Postal Department.

Change System

Once revolutionary in postal transportation, RPO's are now giving way to air travel, trucks, and a recently-established distribution system.

LeRoy Anderson, Minneapolis Postal District representative, said the growing volume of mail has necessitated a change in the transportation and distribution system.

Anderson noted that 260 million pieces of mail are handled daily in the U.S., and Appleton Postmaster Francis Sumnicht indicated his office handles 55 million pieces a year.

"The transportation concept has changed from the use of a network of rails and enroute distribution to sectional center distribution," he explained.

"The transition began slowly in the early 1960's with the institution of the sectional centers and the zip code," he said. He added that the sectional centers are "the guts" of the system based on the zip code.

The postal department began phasing out the Green Bay Chicago run about a month ago when the decision was made to eliminate the line's RPO after a recommendation by the office of the Chicago Postal Region.

The final trip for the line (No. 149 — Chicago to Green Bay and No. 216 — Green Bay to Chicago) will be completed at 10 p.m. today at Chicago. This ends a 103-year-old service.

According to the Nov. 26, 1864, Appleton Crescent, the Chicago North Western timetable indicated the start of a winter schedule mail-passenger train running north. The service started Nov. 28 but there was no schedule for southbound mail.

Postal officials report that only three trains with RPO service are left in Wisconsin: all are on the Milwaukee Road and run from Milwaukee to Minneapolis.

Use Direct Sacks

Anderson said mail service will not be hindered, even in a city like Appleton which is not a section center. He explained that several major cities use the direct sack method so that the mail stops only mementarly at the section centers — Appleton's is at Oshkosh.

"The mail makes a dock transferral, which means it is only switched to another truck at the sectional center, not handled and re-sorted," he said.

Sumnicht said the Appleton Post Office works up about 300 direct sacks daily to allow speedier mail service to densely populated areas.

Anderson emphasized that mail service must be thought of "in terms of a time relationship, not a spatial relationship."

"This is why the postal service has made the transition to the sectional center facilities," he said. "Our only interest is efficient and fast mail service."

The steady decrease in railroad-mail facilities has seen a similar increase in the non-rail transportation of mail. "The U.S. now has about 161,000 government-owned and privately leased vehicles delivering mail," Anderson explained, adding that the government-owned vehicles distribute only within a city.

He said that a unit-for-unit

Priorities Assigned To Appleton Bridges

Memorial Drive Span Set For 1975-80 Completion, Oneida Date Is 1980-85

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Two proposed bridge projects for Appleton — widening of the Memorial Drive bridge and construction of a high level span over the Fox River at Oneida Street — have been given priority assignments in a special report revealed today.

The report to the Legislature and State Highway Commission gives first, second and third priority ratings to bridge projects throughout the Fox Valley and other parts of the state.

Widening of the existing Memorial Drive bridge has been given second priority with the work to be done between 1975-80, according to the report, at an estimated cost of $1,550,000.

The widened structure would be to six lanes with sidewalks.

Discussion Stage

The high level bridge over the Fox River in downtown Appleton, which has been in the discussion stage and is listed on the city's long-range capital improvement program for start in 1972 or later, has been given third priority by the state and programmed for 1980-85 at a cost of $2 million. It will be four lanes and have sidewalks, the report indicates.

City officials said today they felt there was a mixup in price estimates, declaring that without a bridge study even undertaken the best estimate of cost has ranged from $4 to $5 million. They indicated the entire report "was not realistic" and they could not understand it.

The report has been given to the Interim Bridge Committee of the Legislature, with Sen. Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, and Assemblyman Willis Hutnik, R-Ladysmith, as co-chairmen. La Fave has recently met with officials of Fox Valley communities to marshal support for increasing the state's bridge building budget which has been criticized as seriously lacking by many state and local officials.

The report lists 73 bridges throughout the state, with construction costs totalling an estimated $123,613,000. Other bridges proposed for construction locally include:

Listed in the third priority period, 1960 to 1965 are two proposed tri-county expressway spans across Little Lake Butte des Morts, one at Porspect Street and the other in the

Airport Group Holds Line on Bond Proposal

The $1.9 million 20-year bond issue would be used to finance the completion of the airport. Extension of both runways and additional taxiway construction is included.

Air Wisconsin Sets New Mark

Carries More Passengers and Air Freight

Air Wisconsin during October set a new record for the number of passengers carried in one month with a figure of 3,448, topping the previous high of 3,337 set in August.

The airline also set a record in the pounds of air freight carried, with a figure of 23,072 against the September high of 22,399.

An Air Wisconsin spokesman said the total route miles flown in October war 66,240, less than the August record of 72,320. This indicated the airline carried more passengers on fewer flights in October.

Better Known

The corporation's report also shows 12 flights were cancelled during October, 10 on account of weather and two because of equipment failures. A spokesman said the flights cancelled because of bad weather were below the normal October level.

A company official attributed the increase in passenger service to the airline's becoming more well-known in the area. He predicted another good month in November.

WEA Aims High

Post-Crescent Correspondent

MILWAUKEE — By resolution in its delegate assembly, the Wisconsin Education Association (WEA) put Wisconsin teachers in better position at the bargaining table, sanctioned strikes as an ultimate recourse and threw its hat into the political arena.

However, the results of the WEA action will depend on the support of local affiliates.

The new WEA president, John Hafenann, West Bend, committed 41,000 members to political action in 1968.

"Education in Wisconsin is in the throes of change and all of us in this assembly today are studying more innovations, taking more course work, teaching more students and making more far-reaching decisions than any group assembled here in the past," he said, in the second general assembly Friday afternoon.

Carry Message

The teachers in Wisconsin will be urged and helped by the state association to carry the message to all communities in Wisconsin and will invite all political candidates to state their positions on funding education, Hafenann said.

"New services cannot be performed without new money," he continued. "Overcrowded classrooms are alleviated when there are buildings and enough teachers. There will be more teachers when the teachers' pay is adequate."

More than 800 delegates to the convention in Thursday's all-day session strengthened the teachers' bargaining role in Wisconsin by its resolution to support any affiliate association, which after reasonable negotiations feels the necessity of a strike.

$8,000 Salaries

The adoption of starting salaries for qualified degree teachers of $8,000, extended to the masters of arts degree range of $16,000, is another tool to assist local associations in this year's bargaining.

The salary pattern will be a criteria for all school boards to follow, or the association will file a report with placement bureaus that the salary schedule in a particular community is considered substandard.

Wisconsin teachers also gave their support to the initiation of new legislation for the fiscal independence of school districts, a fair dismissal law, a tenure law for teachers and a daily duty-free lunch period for all teachers.

9-Year-Old Needs Parents

Counties Seek Home For Retarded Children

Imagine the frustration of a nine-year-old who wants to go to school, but isn't able to "because of where I live."

Two counties — Outagamie and Winnebago — are cooperating in a search for a foster home for this lad who finds it just a little hard to learn, but who wants to learn like the other kids do.

The boy is now in Outagamie County, but must be placed near Appleton so he can attend orthopedic school here.

The lad is slightly retarded but, except for help with exercises about 15 minutes a day, he is able to care for himself.

He can feed himself, dress himself and brush his own teeth, and he is used to having younger and older children around him. He enjoys color painting and television, as other children do.

His speech is clear enough to understand, and he walks with crutches and braces.

Anyone with a heart and a home big enough may call Miss Nancy Patterson, foster home coordinator, Outagamie County (Welfare Department), or Winnebago County Department of Social Services.

Arrangements for cost of care will be made through either of these departments.

YMCA Meeting For Fathers

Fathers interested in finding out about the YMCA Indian Guides Father-Son program are invited to a special meeting at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday at the YMCA.

The purpose of the program, according to Wendell H. Smith, youth and camp director, is to foster a companionship between fathers and sons. They are organized into small groups, called tribes, for meetings, which are scheduled twice a month. Boys should be in the first, second or third grades.

Fathers presently involved in the program will have a special program Tuesday and slides of the spring encampment will be shown.

Appleton Will Not Have Referendum on Vietnam

City Officials Rebuff Desires Of Lawrence University Student

Appleton won't be having an election referendum on the Vietnam War question.

The idea has become a popular one on campuses across the country with Lawrence University no exception.

Recently, a Lawrence student from Lockhaven, Pa., approached city officials and said his group was prepared to circulate petitions.

The purpose would be to have the council order a referendum vote on whether the U.S. should pull out of Vietnam.

City Atty. David Geenen and Clerk Elden Broehm outlined the statutes and requirements leading to referendums being put on the local ballot.

It was discouraging to the university student, and the threat of having the left-wing Civil Liberties Union make a legal test was leveled at the city.

Not Up To City

The incident happened a few weeks ago and city officials said they haven't heard a thing since.

In the meantime, some students and other anti-war movement leaders have gone to the courts in other parts of the nation in an atempt to force referendum votes.

The latest typical decision was handed down by the Appellate Division of the New York State Supreme Court Thursday. It open barred the Vietnam question from the Nov. 7 city ballot, upholding the city clerk.

Municipal officials across the country, including Broehm and Geenen, have indicated the Vietnam issue is not a city government matter.

Discouraging News

Broehm explained to the university student the legal requirements for circulating a referendum question petition, which are stricter in Wisconsin than some states.

The first requisite, the student was informed, is that a circulator of a petition shall be a

Council Will Decide Move For McKinley

Mayor Refuses To Waive Building Rules for School

Mayor George Buckley said today he wants City Council authorization before he signs contractual agreements and waives building requirements for a new high school as requested by the Board of Education.

City officials received letters from the school board urging that all matters concerning the proposed McKinley school on the southside be expedited.

Under terms of the City ordinance, the building inspector cannot okay the start of the building until the site is on an improved street complete with all utilities.

This is not the case with the proposed McKinley School site, and the board is seeking a waiver.

Buckley Urged

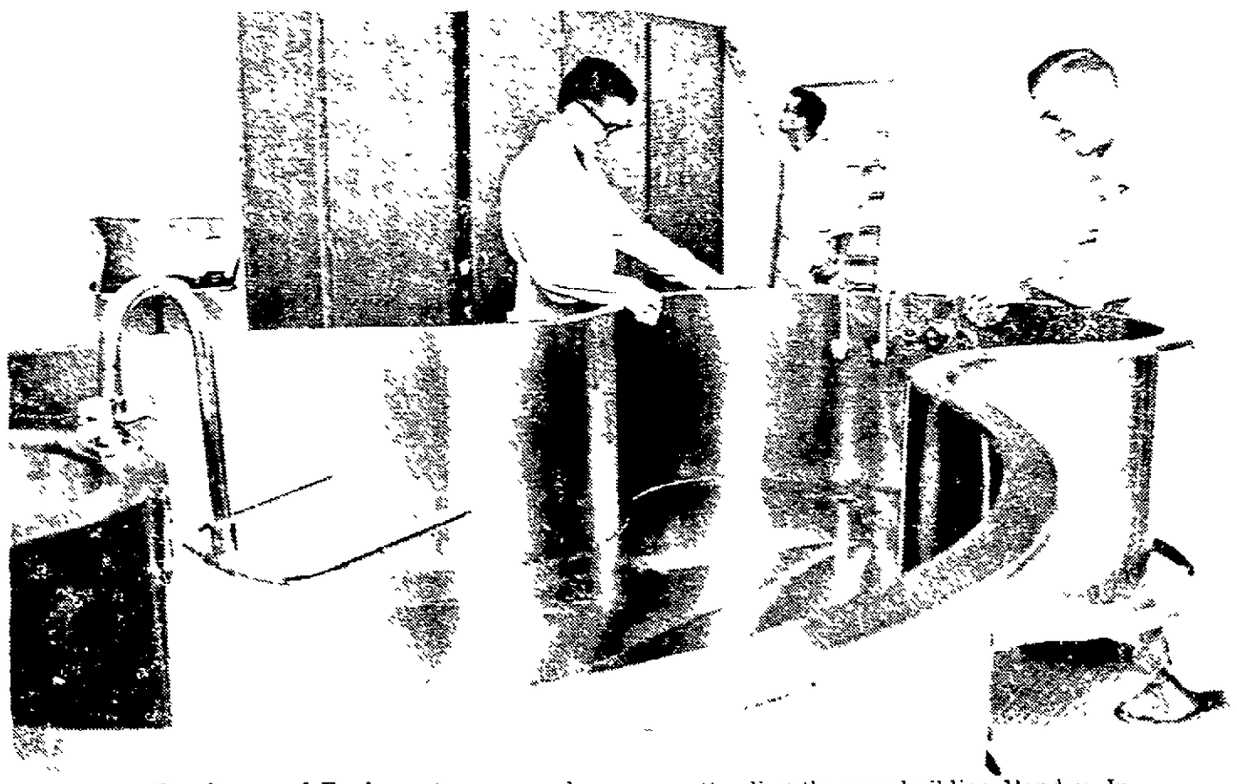

It has also urged Buckley and other authorized city officials to sign letters of intent which would permit the contractor to begin construction.

Bids for the new school were opened Wednesday. Charles Buchanan, school board president, said the target date for opening the new school is Sept. 3, 1968.

Buckley said he would be happy to cooperate with school officials to expedite the project.

However, the Mayor said he felt the council would have to approve the contracts and the building code waivers before he could sign letters of intent.

Little Lake Bridges Have Low Priority

2 Spans Now Placed in 1980-85 Part of State Construction Plan

MADISON — Two bridges crossing Little Lake Butte des Morts are among 26 long bridges that a special bridge consultant to the state highway commission says rate third priority in a four rank schedule of needs.

The two bridges are grouped in the 1980 to 1985 priority period, in a schedule of five-year priority lists beginning in 1970 and ending in 1990.

The list, which includes 78 bridges carrying estimated prices totalling $123,613,000, has been submitted to the interim bridge committee of the state legislature, of which Sen. Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, and Assemblyman Willis Hutnik, R-Ladysmith, are co-chairmen.

Updated Study

The study was conducted, according to highway commission sources, as a result of recent jostling by Fox River Valley communities for state approval of bridges in their local communities. The report has attempted to list all bridge needs throughout the state, however, and updates a similar report given to the commission in February.

The Fox Valley Council of Governments has proposed the two Little Lake bridges as integral parts of the Tri-County Expressway system.

The so-called Ninth Street bridge, currently the subject of a location dispute between the city and town of Menasha, is listed in the priority report as constituting part of a "potential" state trunk highway, located in the "vicinity of Ninth Street."

Two structures each carrying two lanes of traffic are shown at an estimated cost of $5,596,000.

The second expressway bridge at Prospect Street in Appleton is listed as being of similar dual two-lane design, at an estimated cost of $2,169,000, also on a potential state highway.

Local officials have advocated rerouting local state highways over the proposed bridges. One advantage would be that the state would thus provide about one-third the construction costs.

H. B. Schultz, a retired bridge engineer with the state commission, compiled the report after surveying bridge proposals across the state.

In his introductory remarks, Schultz said that large numbers of existing bridges that are deficient in basic considerations, while new bridges are needed elsewhere to relieve congestion on others. Therefore, "many of the bridge projects placed in the later periods of the timetable should be constructed earlier if the funds were available to do so."

Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, said he believed public officials "should work toward the approval of bridge construction in the Fox Valley area with an eye toward moving the priority up" for construction of bridges in this area.

Budget Higher By $1.5 Million In Winnebago

19 Per Cent Levy Boost Would be Required if Passed

OSHKOSH — The finance committee Thursday completed its draft of the record $8.4 million county budget for 1968 and headed it for final adoption at a late afternoon session today.

The budget is up $1.5 million over 1967 and calls for a $2.9 million tax levy in the county. This levy is $456,000 over the 1967 levy, or nearly 19 per cent higher.

As it now stands, the levy means a tax rate of $3.39 per $1,000 of equalized valuation. This compares to $3.00 in 1967 and $3.23 in 1966.

Helping to lower the tax levy substantially was a surplus fund of $300,000, compared to $180,099 in 1967.

Supv. Robert Skalmoski, finance committee chairman, said that Winnebago County had an exceptionally good year and $300,000 surplus funds could be applied.

One notable rise in this budget, he said, was due to state special chargebacks and an ever increasing demand for salary increases which "we have very little control over."

Skalmoski added that the committee hopes a large surplus fund could be applied every year, but he said that the committee did not want the county to think that a precedent has been set for large surpluses.

Total revenues in 1968 are $5,229,396, as compared to $4,290,810 in 1967.

State special chargebacks for charitable and correctional institutions of $422,866 were up $271,786 over what was earlier budgeted for 1968.

The biggest chargeback increase was Winnebago State Hospital, from $10,882 budgeted to $180,925.

Resolutions passed that raised the budget substantially were $100,000 for a bridge across Little Lake Butte des Morts; $65,000 to add to a fund for courthouse air-conditioning; and $27,540 for a juvenile shelter home expense and the addition of two social workers.

Cuts were made in the architectural fees for the proposed airport terminal, from $50,000 to $15,000; the proposed county park from $100,000 to $50,000, and by knocking off of $16,400 from fairground grandstand improvements.

The largest increase of the budget was due to a $279,452 increase in the Department of Social Service budget.

Earl Arnold, Third from left, Appleton, general chairman of the committee for the dedication of the new Lutheran Social Services of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, centered in Milwaukee, discusses the visit of Bishop Hanns Lilje, president of the United Lutheran Church of Germany, with his committee. New Green Bay Parks Director Is President-Elect OSHKOSH — Donald B. Brick, Walworth County recreation agent, was named the new president of the Wisconsin Park and Recreation Association (WPRA) at its annual conference Thursday.

President-elect is Chester (Chet) Miller, Green Bay recreation director, who also on Thursday was appointed Green Bay parks and recreation director as of Jan. 1, 1968. Vernon Krieser, present director, is retiring at that time.

Hayward Street, employe of the Milwaukee County Park Commission was elected vice-president. Treasurer and secretary will be appointed by the new officers and the board.

When the Wisconsin Park and Recreation Society and the Wisconsin Recreation Association merged two years ago to form the WPRA, the new group divided the state into six districts.

District representatives elected were: Glen Holzemer, director of parks and recreation, Eau Claire; Dwain Corbin, superintendent of Marathon County and City of Wausau parks; Mrs. Patricia Pingle, director of parks and recreation, Shawano; Miss Alice DeBower, professor of recreation, University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse; David Kessler, director of public works, Janesville and Donald Wirth, director of recreation, Brookfield.

Area professionals and lay persons who participated in all-day sessions at the Pioneer Motel Marina were Starkie Swenson, chairman, Neenah Park and Recreation Commission, on a boards and commissions panel; Robert Vaneven-hoven, director of recreation, Menasha, and Jack Logue, special activities coordinator, Winnebago State Hospital, therapeutic recreation; and Dr. Fred Mundt and James Brehm, both of Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh, audio-visual aids.

Dr. George Walter, director of teacher education, Lawrence University, was banquet speaker Thursday night.

Fagan Criticizes Resistance of Unions to Negro Apprenticeship

NEENAH - MENASHA — One element of the "disheartening truth" about 1967 racial problems is the resistance of unions to Negro membership, Joseph C. Fagan, head of the newly created state Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations, told Neenah Rotarians Thursday.

Fagan who will be one of the members of Gov. Warren Knowles' eight-man operational cabinet recommended under the Kellett plan, said, "Labor unions seem to find ways to systematically exclude black youths from apprenticeship programs."

Elaborating after the speech, he said union leaders may want to liberalize the membership procedures, but run into heavy resistance from the body of union workers.

He said he sympathized with union leaders who could do little to eliminate discrimination because they had to be responsive to existing union membership.

Many members of minority groups have lost hope in the American system, he said. "The senseless and destructive riots of last summer which occurred from coast to coast were an eruption of a grave disorder and they will not cease as long as the wound remains uncleansed."

Fagan

In addition to closed union doors, Fagan ticked off other factors contributing to the racial disorders.

"Equal opportunity notices in ads have not prevented the rejection of black applicants because of their skin color."

"Black home dwellers watch while bulldozers level their rat-infested residences, only to have expressways or new and limited apartments built which are way out of reach." Fagan, who has been at odds with Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier on the handling of racial problems, specifically referred to the Milwaukee housing renewal program as an example of minorities being shifted out of their old homes without provision for new dwellings they can afford.

"Those residences left (after renewal) are terribly high-priced in rents and little maintenance or repair is contributed by landlords.

"There is no relocation aid; there is actual or de facto segregation, there is no low cost housing to assist in moving to certain neighborhoods," he said.

He also said Milwaukee suffers from lack of communication between the races and from isolation of Negro pupils in their neighborhood schools.

He called for a greater awareness of the problem so the spirit of the law will be supported, as well as the letter; for greater attention to the urgent problems of housing, education, employment and consumer protection for use of existing programs without more federal programs, and for shared power instead of black or white power.

Fagan used the word "outreach" several times to describe the kind of effort needed to draw the members of minority groups into the community structure.

One example he described was CITE, a program initiated by his department to provide "Community Involvement Toward Employment." This "charm school" spends two weeks on the disenfranchised to make them more acceptable when applying for jobs.

The model program, which pays the student $50 if he is married and $25 if single, plus free lunches, has graduated 159 into jobs and has another 50 still in the program.

Another program coming under the department's auspices uses four of the "commandoes" who have been marching for open housing in Milwaukee to help "sweet heads" — persons released from prison who want to go straight — keep sweet through counseling and coaching.

Man Admits Guilt In Sex Offense

OSHKOSH — County Judge James V. Sitter Friday granted a motion by Dist. Atty. Thomas Fink to amend the statutory rape charge against Carl H. Schaefer, 24, of 1049 Holly Court, Neenah, to read taking indecent liberties with a minor.

Schaefer pleaded guilty to the offense that involved a three-year-old Neenah girl Oct. 25.

Neenah police arrested Schaefer Oct. 26 after an early morning complaint by the girl's mother.

Judge Sitter Friday committed Schaefer to the sex deviate facility at Waupun for 60 days. Schaefer will be sentenced after social, mental and physical examinations at the facility.

Gets 95 Days for Bad Checks Counts

OSHKOSH — Harold E. Ganzel, 45, formerly of 405 Broad St., Menasha, was sentenced to 95 days in jail after he pleaded no contest Friday in County Court Branch 3 to five counts of issuing worthless checks.

According to information filed with Judge James V. Sitter, Ganzel cashed the checks in Neenah and Menasha during the months of July, August and October.

Judge Sitter dismissed a disorderly conduct charge against the defendant.

Ganzel will have working privileges under the Huber Law and has been ordered to make restitution for the checks.

One of Four Visits

Iowa String Quartet Comes to Lawrence

The Iowa String Quartet pays its second visit of the season to the Lawrence University campus Monday for a Chamber Series concert at 8 p.m. in Harper Hall.

The program, one of four planned by the ensemble this year at Lawrence, will feature the Haydn Quartet in C Major, Opus 74, No. 1; the String Quartet No. 5, by Walter Piston; and the Schubert Quartet in G Major, D 887.

Members of the Iowa Quartet are Allen Ohmes and John Ferrell, violins; William Preucil, viola; and Charles Wendt, cello. The four are resident artists and faculty members at the University of Iowa.

Music Graduate

Ohmes is a Bachelor of Music graduate of the Baldwin Wallace Conservatory, Berea, Ohio. He received his Master's degree from the Eastman School of Music. He has served as concertmaster and soloist with the United States Air Force Orchestra, and was an organizer of the Washington Chamber Society. He formerly taught at Brooklyn College, New York City.

Ferrell is also an Eastman graduate. He taught violin at the University of Redlands, Calif., before joining the Iowa faculty in 1964.

Preucil received both his Bachelor and Master of Music degrees from the Eastman School. He served for three years as a member of the United States Marine Band, and at age 24 was appointed principal violist of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra — the youngest artist to hold this post in a major American symphony. He has played in the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico, and at the Peninsula Music Festival at Fish Creek, where he was principal violist for eight consecutive summers.

B. S. In Music

Wendt earned a Bachelor of Science in Music degree at the Juilliard School, and received his Master's degree at Indiana University. He also holds the university's Performer's Certificate. He taught for two years at Georgia State College, and from 1964 to 1966 was principal cellist of the Pittsburgh Symphony.

Members of the Iowa String Quartet perform on a set of Stradivari instruments loaned by the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C. The instruments date back to the 17th and 18th centuries.

City Projects Interest Earning At $400,000

Treasurer Reports On Investments Made During 1967

The city has been putting its money to work . . . resulting in an estimate that interest on investments will amount to $400,000 by the end of the year.

Ray Feuerstein, city treasurer, has informed the city council in his annual investment report that total earnings to date total more than $350,000.

When the city receives large sums of money not marked for immediate use, the treasurer invests it in government bonds and bank time deposits.

Feuerstein said with the tight money situation existing most of the year, the city has been earning from 4.5 to 5 per cent interest on its investments.

Most Practical

Time deposits seem to be the most practical investment for our requirements, Feuerstein said, adding that they are usually short-term.

He said in this way all local banks participate in the investment program as well as the city's checking account activities.

Interest earned on the Appleton High School-East building fund, which was a $5 million bond issue, amounts to $228,855, and there is still a balance of $800,000 earning interest, he said.

The Highlands School fund, based on a $1.2 million bond issue, earned $35,689 to date, with an investment balance of $350,000.

Revert Back

Interest for the police and firemen pension funds revert back to those accounts.

Feuerstein stressed that all interest accumulated on school building funds is used to reduce the schools' bonded indebtedness and does not go into the general fund.

Only interest derived from general fund investments is used to offset the following year's tax levy.

Earnings referred to in Feuerstein's report have already been included in the 1968 budget revenue projections.

Bigger Menasha Voice Sought in Bridge Matter

MENASHA — Mayor Kenneth Holmes has written letters to the city's six supervisors on the Winnebago County Board asking for equal representation for the city in the Little Lake Butte des Morts bridge controversy.

Suggesting better communications between the city's supervisors and city hall officials, Holmes also proposed to the supervisors that either Chairman Roland Kampo of the Town of Menasha be removed from the county board's special bridge committee or that the city should have a representative added to the committee.

The mayor asked the county board earlier this week to review the position of the bridge. The Fox Valley Council of Governments, with support from Kampo and state officials, has proposed to locate the east end of the bridge in the Town of Menasha. Holmes, acting on a recommendation by the city's master planning consultants, has urged a simplified set of approaches to the bridge to eliminate cloverleaf ramp structures.

The mayor added that if this plan were adopted, the bridge could also be moved south to Ninth Street within the city limits without requiring excessive purchase of developed property.

Furniture and Equipment which will be moved from Morgan School into the orthopedic section of Highlands School sometime this week is being refurbished and cleaned. Martin Gauerke, one of the maintenance men for the school system, paints a cabinet. The children also will be moving to the new school within a week and Morgan will become the administrative center for the system. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Hitchhikers' Vocabularies Result in Fines of $25

Two 17-year-old hitchhikers this morning talked their way into twice the fines they normally would have had to pay.

Daniel H. Bogan, 718 E. Dennison St., and Gary N. Miller, 1607 N. Rankin St., both high school students, appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on hitchhiking charges brought by an Appleton police patrolman.

The court was told that the boys were observed hitchhiking in the roadway in the 1400 block of S. Oneida Street about 4 p.m. Oct. 25. The patrolman stopped and told them to move off the street. They then moved onto the curb, and one of them reportedly shouted to the officer and then took one foot off the curb. The patrolman then returned and issued them citations.

Judge Gustave J. Keller asked for explanations from the youths, who appeared in court with their mothers. Bogan said the police report "wasn't true," and Miller asked the Judge which of them was charged with taking his foot off the curb.

Judge Keller, visibly ruffled, told the boys they were "too smart for your own good," fined them each $25 and costs or 12 days in jail. Ordinarily, the fines would have been $10 each.

The judge also said he thought there was "too much of this hitchhiking going on." He told the youths, "You're not the only ones, police should be bringing more of you in."

Author Alex Haley

Noted Negro Journalist Will Speak at Lawrence Convocation

Negro journalist Alex Haley, author of "The Autobiography of Malcolm X," will speak at a Lawrence University convocation at 11:10 a.m. Thursday, in Memorial Chapel.

Haley, whose story of the Black Muslim leader received several major book awards, is one of this country's most widely published free-lance writers.

A frequent contributor of interview stories to Playboy Magazine, he has written of such diverse personalities as Dr. Martin Luther King, George Lincoln Rockwell, Phyllis Diller and Sammy Davis, Jr.

He has had scores of articles in such publications as Harper's, Atlantic Monthly, Cosmopolitan, Sports, True, This Week and The New York Times Magazine. He has also been a regular writer for The Saturday Evening Post and Reader's Digest.

Guild Selection

Haley's "The Autobiography of Malcolm X" was a Literary Guild Selection, and in 1966 received an Anisfield-Wolf Award from the Saturday Review. A distinguished committee judged it "the best book concerned with racial problems in the field of creative literature published in 1965."

Critics hailed it as "brilliant" and "one of the world's great books."

Born in 1921 in Ithaca, N.Y., Haley is the son of a college professor and the brother of a Kansas State Senator and a Washington, D.C., architect.

He attended North Carolina Teachers College, and later enlisted in the U. S. Coast Guard, which subsequently created for him the rating of Chief Journalist. He began his free-lance career upon his release from the service.

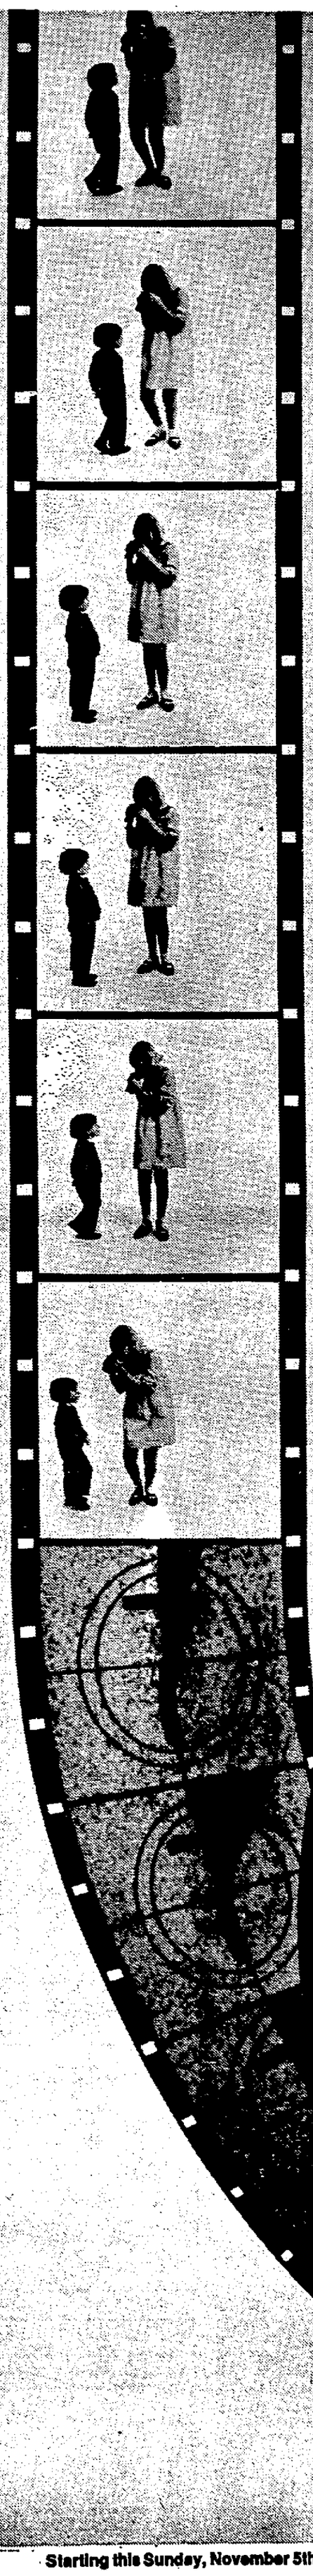

Haley is presently writing a new book, to be called "Before This Anger." He speaks of it as "a universal story" in which he has endeavored to trace his family history back to Africa, from where his ancestors were brought as slaves.

According to one advance commentary, "Haley has achieved what no other American Negro has ever succeeded in doing. He has found himself a background that leads further than the plantations of Alabama or Carolina."

A Game Based on Names Is Fun to Play at a Party

BY CAPPY DICK

"Complimentary" is the name of a game that's fun to play at a party. The necessary equipment is easy to provide — just pieces of paper and pencils.

Give each guest a paper and tell him to print his name at the top (Figure 1). A slight space should be left between the letters.

Descriptive

All guests then pass their papers to the persons to the right. Upon receiving a paper, a player must study the person who passed it and write down that guest's attributes, using descriptive words that start with the letters of the name.

Figure 2 shows the result. Six complimentary words have been printed beneath the letters of Alfred's name. For "A" the descriptive word chosen was "alert." For "L", the second letter of his name, the descriptive word was "lovable," and so on.

When the guests have completed their work on the papers they are once again passed to the right. The players receiving them must read them aloud. As an example, Mary, upon receiving the complimentary comments about Alfred, would read as follows: "Alfred is alert, lovable, friendly, reliable, energetic and dependable."

Priorities Assigned For Appleton Bridges

vicinity of Ninth Street at Menasha.

Fourth priority period, 1965 to 1990:

Expressway bridges at French Road across the Fox River, at a cost of $1,919,000, and another span replacing the State 55 bridge across the Fox River in Outagamie County, $2,680,000. Each is listed as a pair of two-lane spans.

A major bridge construction project listed for Green Bay during the period 1970-75 is that of a four-lane Mason Street span estimated to cost $12 million. Other Green Bay bridge projects are listed for 1975-1990.

Also given first priority is a two-lane structure carrying State 57 traffic across Sturgeon Bay in the City of Sturgeon Bay.

Fremont Bridge

Another bridge of interest to Fox Valley residents is one proposed to be built at Fremont, carrying U. S. 10 traffic across the Wolf River at a new site from the present bridge location.

A two-lane span is recommended for construction in the 1975 to 1980 period, at a cost of $625,000. A second two-lane span to create a pair of bridges is recommended in the final priority period from 1985 to 1990, at an estimated cost equal to the first bridge.

H. B. Schultz, former bridge engineer with the Highway Commission, was brought back from retirement to prepare the study for the legislative committee.

(Walter Rasmussen, Appleton planner-traffic engineer, said he thought the estimates given in the report, called to his attention by a newsman, represented only the state's share of the bridge construction cost. Bridges are built on a formula with the state paying one-third, county one-third and the municipality an equal amount.)

Bishop Plans Festival Talk

Dr. Hanns Lilje To Attend Dedication Of Service Building

The Rev. Dr. Hanns Lilje, Bishop of Hanover and president of the United Lutheran Church of Germany, will be the keynote speaker for a public Festival Service at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Milwaukee Arena.

He will be present for the dedication of the Lutheran Social Services of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan building which will begin with a processional at 2:30 p.m.

A leader of ecumenical work for 40 years, Bishop Lilje serves as vice chairman of the Evangelical Church in Germany and is a member of the central committee of the World Council of Churches. He has served as president of the Lutheran World Federation, representing 50 million of the world's 70 million Lutherans.

The bishop's appearance will highlight the week-long series of events from Saturday through Nov. 11 in connection with the dedication ceremonies. Open houses and tours of the new building will be conducted throughout the week.

The dedication committee is headed by Earl Arnold, Appleton, general chairman.

Police Query 2 Teen-Agers

Youths Suspected Of Burglaries After Loot Found in Car

Two teen-agers, one from Hortonville and the other from Appleton, were being questioned this morning by Outagamie County sheriff's investigators about several recent burglaries, including one at 41 Bowl early Thursday and one early today at Appleton Auto Wrecking Co.

The youths were taken into custody about 7:45 a.m. by two county policemen responding to a report by a citizen of a car parked along Two Mile Road, near the county airport, with two persons sleeping inside.

Find Change

Police found a tin box loaded with change, and radiators, in the youths' car.

Within a minute after the citizen called, police were notified of a burglary at Appleton Auto Wrecking Co. on Bluemound Road in the Town of Grand Chute. Tools, guns, and auto parts, including tires, were stolen.

Burglars took money from 11 game and vending machines after breaking into 41 Bowl about 4 a.m. Thursday. The youths also are being questioned about other burglaries, including several in recent weeks at The Paradise Club, and at United Archery Lanes.

Tipsy Driver Fined $155

Menasha Driver Arrested Thursday By Kimberly Police

Duane A. Krueger, 20, 812 DePere St., Menasha, was fined $175 and costs or 90 days in jail today after he pleaded guilty of driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Arrested Thursday by Kimberly police, Krueger appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, Judge Gustave J. Keller revoked the man's driver's license for one year.

Appleton Man Forfeits $54 on Conduct Charge

Theodore J. Nabbefeld, 41, 1031 W. Parkway Blvd., this morning forfeited a $54 bond in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on a disorderly conduct charge brought by Appleton police.

Authorities said they were summoned to the Nabbefeld home about 1:15 a.m. Sunday by members of his family. Police said the man had ripped the telephone from a wall and was causing a disturbance.

Final Finishing of the crude tables and setting of candles into discarded wine bottles was the task of left to right, Dan Flynn, Denis Roycraft, Dave Egan, Don Wutys and John Hoffman as students at Kaukauna prepared for the opening of their new coffee house, "Kaleidoscope," this evening. The coffee house will give young people a place to meet to exchange ideas, hear speakers and relax in an atmosphere designed by youth. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Pillows to be Strewn about the new coffee house at Kaukauna attracted the attention of Nick Kuhn and Jan Schultz as students worked desperately to prepare for tonight's opening. To be known as "Kaleidoscope," the coffee house was a project adopted and seen to completion by students who spent hundreds of hours cleaning, painting and working toward the project.

Youths Open 'Kaleidoscope'

Kaukauna Coffee House

BY ED VAN BERKEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KAUKAUNA — "Kaleidoscope," the city's first coffee house will officially open its doors at 6:30 tonight after months of planning and work by interested students and adults.

Located at 156 W. Wisconsin Ave., the coffee house will be open to high school students from throughout the Fox Valley upon payment of an annual membership fee of $2. Helping to dedicate the new gathering place will be The Phil Dutcher Trio and The New Wine Singers, Madison groups.

David Egan, Kaukauna High School student, was one of the leaders who sought out Peter Jolin to assist in setting up a coffee house for Kaukauna students. Jolin, a young married man, had some background experience in coffee houses and agreed to assist in the project.

Suitable Location

Walter Schmidt, principal at Kaukauna High School, was acquainted with the program and granted permission for the program to be explained at an assembly of junior and senior students.

First major obstacle was finding a suitable place for the coffee house. After two months of investigation, a building which formerly housed Aldo's Pizza was secured. Use of the building was delayed, but eventually the young people were free to move in and approximately 40 persons showed up for work on the first day.

Despite lack of materials, cleaning and painting of the new quarters were begun. Realizing the need for incorporation if the project was to succeed, Neil McCarty, local attorney, agreed to draw up papers for the Kaukauna Youth Services Inc., a non-stock, non-profit, charitable corporation under which "Kaleidoscope" will operate. This was done without charge.

Adults Participate

Adults listed as corporation members were Jolin, McCarty, Joseph Walsh, James Bambery and Denis Kral. Next problem was money. A city-wide fund drive was held in which $600 was raised, short of the $1,500 goal set, but enough to continue work.

Materials were purchased and youngsters continued to provide volunteer labor to make the coffee house a success. As students showed interest, adult interest also continued to grow and it was not long before many adults volunteered services in various capacities.

Student leaders in the project were Egan, Joseph Verhagen, Terry Kobin, Pat Roberts, Gordon Van Lieshout, Mary Pat McCarty, Margie Bambery and Tom Wieseler.

"Kaleidoscope" was selected as the name since it causes objects to appear in symmetrical patterns and it is hoped the exchange of ideas by young people will develop into patterns of purpose, meaning and beauty.

Young People Operate

Although an adult will be present at all times when the coffee house is open, the adults will not supervise in the strictest interpretation as this will be a young people operated institution. Coffee and soft drinks will be served and arrangements have been made for a local restaurant to cater food, thus eliminating the necessity of a restaurant license.

The coffee house is to be open after school until about 10 p.m. on weekdays and until 12:30 a.m. weekends and Saturday and Sunday afternoons. It will be a place for young people to gather, listen to outside speakers, exchange thoughts and ideas and help minds to grow.

Adult memberships will be made available for those interested in learning how the coffee house operates. It is estimated the cost of operating the coffee house will be about $225 per month, including rent, heat, light and water, but the students are confident they will be able to meet demands.

Two Large Rooms

"Kaleidoscope" consists of two large rooms in a former business building, tables are former telephone company cable spools, seats are covered wooden nail kegs and pictures include work done by members as well as printed portraits. New paneling has been installed in one room and a service counter built.

Much work remains, but the young people feel confident their project will be a success once the coffee house is in operation and more young people and adults become acquainted with its purpose.

County Traffic Deaths Tie All-Time High

Six traffic deaths in Outagamie County last month tied an all-time high for a single month.

Six persons also were killed on county roads in October, 1958; February, 1959 (when five died in a single weekend), and June, 1964, according to Coroner Bernard H. Kemps.

Four times since 1951 five persons have died in a single month in Outagamie County traffic accidents. Included were October, 1951; May, 1952; May, 1954, and July, 1965.

Toll Now 23

The traffic toll for the year in the county is now 23, seven more than on Nov. 3, 1966. The death toll already ties the total for last year and is only four under the record 27 in 1965.

Two double-fatality accidents were recorded in the county last month, all involving young people. Two died near Freedom and two others were killed in an Appleton crash. A nine-year-old Milwaukee girl died following a crash north of Appleton and a young motorist died when his car struck a tree in Shiocton.

Appleton Art Teachers Gain New Honors

Four art teachers in the Appleton Public School System recently received honors for their work. Three of them have had work accepted for the Wisconsin Designer Craftsman Show, now on exhibit in Milwaukee during the Wisconsin Education Association convention.

Joseph Perez, Appleton High School-East, had three pieces of forged silver accepted and a forged red brass necklace. Mrs. Sue Wollwage, elementary art, entered a silver pin and a cast link bracelet; Robert Schultz, industrial arts instructor at East, has two pieces of woodwork in the show. These were among 170 pieces chosen from 600 entries throughout the state.

Ron Habeck, AHS-E instructor, recently won an award in the crafts division of the annual Wolf River Art Show, sponsored by the Appleton Gallery of Arts.

county board," said Supv. John Dietz, Appleton, a committee member. Dietz and other committee members present felt the bond issue, including $600,000 which would go towards paying off airport debts, was needed to complete the airport on schedule.

Inadequacy Cited

Kostka also said he had received a letter from Air Wisconsin concerning the inadequacy of present fire fighting procedures at the airport. The letter noted the need for a separate fire station.

A fire station is part of the airport plan drawn up by Ralph H. Burke Associates, airport consultants. It was not, however, among items listed in the bond issue.

Kostka said this and a terminal building, which he said would be needed within the next two years, could be financed from money the county receives from the sale of the old airport property to the city of Appleton.

Report Cards to Be Issued Monday At Holy Cross

KAUKAUNA — Report cards will be issued Monday at Holy Cross Catholic School and there will be no classes on that day to permit teachers to confer with parents.

Coffee will be served in the school library by the Home-School Association Membership committee members will be stationed at the Doty and Kaukauna Street entrances to collect dues for the 1967-68 season, according to Mrs. Robert Weyers, membership chairman.

Heading the hospitality committee will be Mrs. Richard Van Schyndel and Mrs. Frank Muthig.

Superb University Production

Gay Oshkosh Audience Agrees to Stop the World...I Want to Get Off

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — When Anthony Newley co-authored, with Leslie Bricusse, the musical, "Stop the World — I Want to Get Off," he created one of the toughest challenges in modern theater. The character of Littlechap requires sound talent to be a triumph.

Newley was superb at his own creation, but the subtleties of Littlechap more often prove the downfall, from a prestige standpoint, of less imaginative actors.

Joey Edmonds accepted the challenge for the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh WSU-O production and his stock raised several points after opening night in the Little Theater Thursday. The Oshkosh native is listed as a sophomore, but he is an experienced professional entertainer who has played around the world in the last few years, and just recently returned to school.

In the WSU-O speech department presentation, Edmonds appears opposite Billi Dawn Wolf, a pretty blonde whose various characterizations (she portrays four separate women) were studied and competent.

Adept at Delivery

Edmonds was adept at delivery of the funny barbs which scored English society thoroughly and had no mercy on Americans, Germans and Russians, either. The satire is the best kind as far as an audience is concerned — even though the meaty lines are often aimed at their sensitive middle class beliefs about money and morality.

While Edmonds and Miss Wolf were near perfection as actors, they both had minor snags in singing, although neither's performance was particularly clouded by the flaws. In Edmonds' case, problems with the lower registers caused lost lines, some of which (from having seen the play before) I know to be great (particularly in the spoof of political campaigns, "Mumbo Jumbo"). But Edmonds, being the professional, worked his way around most potential pitfalls, and when he kept his voice above the problem area, it was quite satisfying.

Miss Wolf, on the other hand, had less troubles with range, perhaps because many of her songs required a shorter range. Her voice is fragile, but clear, and suffered only from inadequate projection.

Less Acoustical

In fairness to the two leads, it should be noted that the newly-remodeled Little Theater is even less acoustical than before. Sitting halfway back, it was difficult to catch a few lines, and it was not all the performers' faults.

Edmonds has a felicitous understanding of what he is doing in this role, resulting in a more enjoyable time for the audience. His major solos trace Littlechap's development from his early days as a tea boy in a factory to his later life as a successful politician. He wins the election 99,999 to 1, not a bad margin. Starting with "I Wanna Be Rich," Edmonds delivers, in workmanlike fashion, Littlechap's philosophies of marriage ("Lumbered"), goals ("Gonna Build a Mountain") and political campaigning ("Mumbo Jumbo"), among others. It all builds to the dramatic climax when Littlechap asks himself the now-famous question, "What Kind of Fool Am I?" That is a powerful moment in modern theater, and the WSU-O production missed little of its possibilities of emotional impact.

Miss Wolf's dialect songs were quite stunning. She, in sequence, became a "Glorious Russian," "Typische Deutsche" and "All-American." And all this after her Evie had declared herself to be "Typically English."

Outstanding Chorus

The two daughters were played very well by Katie Knoernschild and Kay Jones. The nine-voice women's chorus was outstanding. It was composed of Sandra Fiertje, Rachel Attenberger, Toni Behnke, Faye Graham, Sandra Huguet, Elaine Peterson, Ellen Shaw, Peggy Sousek and Roberta Stevens. Aside from Edmonds, the only other male in the cast was a cute little chap named Jon Nielsen.

Dr. Nancy Vunovich, the director, and scenic designer Robert Heise have combined to present one of WSU-O's typically thorough and skillful productions. Heise's sets properly created the fantasy mood the authors intended. Conductor James Sohre's 15-piece orchestra could stand a little smoothing, because "Stop the World" is not enhanced by clinkers.

The play will be repeated at 8 p.m. tonight and Saturday in the Campus School's Little Theater.

War Referendum Runs Into Legal Difficulties

qualified elector in the county and city in which he or she resides, must be 21 years of age and a resident of the state for a minimum of six months.

This came as discouraging news to the university student who then went to the city attorney's office to delve further into the legal aspects in search of possible loopholes.

"I told him that a referendum question on the Vietnam war was pretty far out as far as the statutes are concerned," Geenen said.

"Blew His Stack"

"The subject matter, for one, is something over which the city council has no jurisdiction."

Geenen said he quoted other provisions of state statute and excerpts from election laws.

"I got the impression he (the student) thought if he got enough signatures and a favorable referendum vote it would have the city council stopping the war," Geenen commented.

At any rate, the student with his patience apparently at the breaking point and project up against a stone wall, virtually "blew his stack" and left city hall after pounding on Geenen's desk and muttering some off-color language at the city attorney.

Geenen, a veteran served two years in the U.S. Army with an armored division.

Charged With Annoying Calls

No One in Outagamie Courthouse Wants Kaukauna Man's Phone

A rural Kaukauna man whose telephone has gotten him nothing but court appearances and jail sentences lately, thought he had the problem licked Thursday when he disconnected the telephone and brought it to the courthouse.

But then Patrick Kerrigan, route 2, had another problem. No one wanted the telephone.

He started with the sheriff's department, but not finding any takers, he went upstairs to the district attorney's office.

Kerrigan, 36, had the same trouble there. He wanted to see Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer, who had not yet returned from lunch. He then explained to a secretary that, at the advice of police, he had taken out his phone. He said he wanted to leave it, but wanted a receipt.

The young secretary did not want the phone, nor did Schaefer's other secretary, who proceeded to tell Kerrigan so. She suggested he take it to the telephone company, which owned it.

Kerrigan then left and went back downstairs, in hopes the sheriff wanted his telephone. The sheriff still at lunch, Kerrigan talked to two clerk-stenographers who referred him to a records clerk — who told Kerrigan in no uncertain terms that he didn't need a telephone either.

Like the district attorney's secretaries, the records clerk suggested Kerrigan take his phone to the rightful owner.

Kerrigan then left, as Sheriff Norbert Marx was coming through the office door. Nothing more was seen of the rural Kaukauna man or his telephone.

Kerrigan is free on $1,500 bond, awaiting trial for making annoying telephone calls to the sheriff's department on Sept. 25. He also is charged under the repeater statute on the last count.

He was sentenced to 30 days in jail last July and again a month later for making annoying telephone calls.

Hortonville Balloon Soars to New York

GREENVILLE — A Hortonville High School student who sent a message aloft in a helium filled balloon received an answer from a boy in Lancaster, N.Y.

James Julius, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Julius, route 1, Appleton, released the balloon during homecoming activities at the school. The 12-year-old New York boy said his brother found the balloon in a field while hunting.

7 Injured After Two-Car Crash In Appleton

Seven persons were injured, none believed seriously, in a two-car accident about 1 a.m. today at S. Oneida and W. Seymour streets.

Drivers involved were Robert W. Glasheen, 23, 334 S. Joseph St., Kimberly, and James J. Recker 27, route 1, Menasha. Police said the Recker car had started from the stop sign while northbound on Oneida when his auto was struck in the rear by the Glasheen auto.

Most of the injured either walked or were carried to nearby St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment. The injured included Recker, who suffered bumps and bruises, and four members of his family, Judy, 4, James, 2, Tony, and Barbara, [illegible] months. All suffered bumps and bruises, and Judy had a small face cut.

Also injured were Glasheen and Sharon Sycan, 18, 468 W. Sixth St., Kaukauna, who also had bumps and bruises.

Century-Old Railroad Mail Service Terminated Today

analysis was not possible in the Green Bay-Chicago RPO Line but mentioned that two additional air taxis which will handle first-class mail, and two star routes, have been phased in.

He claimed 70 per cent of RPO eliminations were the result of the railroads terminating lines, and cited the decrease in postal money being spent for rail transportation.

"We spent $357.6 million with the railroads in 1962 compared with $62.6 million with air transportation," he explained. "And in 1966, the figures show $313.5 million with rail and $96.3 million with air."

Since the 1930's RPOs have dropped from about 10,000 to less than 850, more than a 91 per cent dip.

The postal representative indicated, though, that the postal department will still transport mail by freight train in bulk form and on scheduled freight runs. However, the Chicago-Green Bay Line will not handle any mail.

O'Neill Play Confusing, But Acting Fascinating

Ingrid Bergman, Colleen Dewhurst Superb in 'More Stately Mansions'

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ingrid Bergman show, otherwise known as Eugene O'Neill's "More Stately Mansions," arrived Tuesday night at the Broadhurst theater.

Miss Bergman, absent from Broadway 21 years, and her co-stars are infintely fascinating. The play is ponderously confusing. The production, in short, is a triumph of bravura style over bombastic substance.

The Nobel Prize dramatist thought he had destroyed it along with several other unfinished works several years before his death. But one copy escaped the editorial bonfire and has gone through several permutations since.

Original Revised

The O'Neill estate permitted one adaptation to be done in Sweden in 1963, to small acclaim. Revised further, that version was published in this country. The present script edition is a still different extract from the source, prepared by Jose Quintero.

Having staged seven other O'Neill works, Quintero ranks as the author's chief contemporary interpreter. But in trying to shape a lengthy, unclear work-in-progress into a viable theatrical experience, the director has been unable to escape a morass of philosophical platitudes and awkward plotting.

The theme concerns the struggle of two women, a rich and righteous mother versus an earthy and ruthless wife, to dominate their son-husband. The locale is New England of the 1840's, right after the events depicted in O'Neill's "A Touch of the Poet."

Acting Brilliant

The performances are uniformly brilliant. Miss Bergman radiates her particular Scandinavian charm as the mother. Colleen Dewhurst is equally persuasive with shadowy brogue and lusty vigor.

As a brisk merchant who wavers between wanting both or neither, Arthur Hill manages difficult challenge with considerable credibility.

In addition to the focal three, Fred Stewart, Lawrence Linville and Kermit Murdock fashion impressive vignettes.

The multiple settings by Ben Edwards are darkly appropriate, lighted with reverential glow by John Harvey. Jane Greenwood costumes for Miss Bergman and Miss Dewhurst are in the requisite flowing period robes.

One of the most eagerly awaited events of the season, "More Stately Mansions" has been generating boxoffice enthusiasm for weeks. Now that it is here, with Miss Bergman as chief magnet, ardor isn't likely to be damped by its limited dramatic quality.

What Others Say

What other press critics said:

Clive Barnes, New York Times: "What we have here is Jose Quintero's adaptation and completion of a play by O'Neill that O'Neill in all sincerity destroyed. O'Neill was right. (Miss Bergman) makes less of the strangely desperate character of Deborah Harford than you might have hoped."

Richard Watts, Jr., New York Post: "'More Stately Mansions' offers two spectacular performances by Ingrid Bergman and Colleen Dewhurst. . .but (it) is far from top grade O'Neill."

John Chapman, Daily News: ". . .a solemn and impressive production. . .there are fine performances by Ingrid Bergman, Colleen Dewhurst and Arthur Hill. . .meticulous direction and editing by Jose Quintero."

'Britten' Hour For Bell Is Rewarding

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channel 5) — A most rewarding hour for lovers of serious music is the Bell Telephone Hour's unique production of "Benjamin Britten and His Aldeburgh Festival." Mr. Britten and an international group of world renowned musical figures gather at the small British seacoast village for the annual festival which this year was climaxed by the dedication of the new 800-seat auditorium, by Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Mr. Britten, a composer-conductor - pianist, is everywhere, except when the Vienna Choir Boys offer "The Golden Vanity" (which he composed) or when guitarist Julian Bream seeks the solitude of a church to rehearse "Nocturne," another Britten composition. There is also Russian pianist Sviatoslav Richter who joins Britten in Mozart's "Sonata in D Major for Two Pianos." Britten conducting the English Chamber Orchestra in one of his latest works, "The Building of the House" and the vocalization of his "Spring Symphony" by Peter Pears, Heather Harper. The English Opera Company and the King's College Chapel Choir.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — Off To See The Wizard, which seems destined to be either very good or very bad, is the former, especially for documentary lovers who will long remember the Wolper production of "Untamed World." Basically, the program looks at the very lowest strata of civilized, or uncivilized human life on our planet.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7) — You have to be pretty good to face a flame thrower in a small room and still get away, which is what Robert Conrad does on this Wild Wild West. It is the beginning of a counterfeit story during which West and Artemus not only get burned but burn up a lot of dollar bills.

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7) — The two features of tonight's Gomer Pyle USMC, are Roland Winters in the role of veteran Broadway producer Dan Merrick, and the United States' Marine Corps Band. The plot is built around a Navy Relief Show in Washington D. C. with Merrick and Sgt. Carter battling over staging techniques. Gomer is to be a part of the show, scheduled to sing "Impossible Dream," but his nervousness brings on an attack of laryngitis.

7:30-8 (Channels 11-9) — Forrest Tucker guests on Hondo in a classic TV western. Are you ready for this? An ex-Confederate colonel named Quantrill calls together a group of notorius badmen including Frank and Jesse James, Johnny Ringo, Charlie and Bob Ford and Cole and Jim Younger, all of whom served with the colonel. If that isn't enough, how about the cast including Rick Nelson and John Agar as Jesse and Frank James.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 5) — Roger C. Carmel, who has gained more fame as Roger on the Mothers-In-Law, than as Henry Mudd on Star Trek, is back in that role tonight with a good story about a band of female androids.

8-10 (Channels 2-7) — The story of "McLintock" on the Friday Night Movies required two stars who are both handsome and wholesome as well as tough, toothsome and sometimes touching. John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara certainly fit all these requirements.

9-10 (Channels 11-9) — Another hippie happening comes our way. This time it is Judd for the Defense and the plot (originally called "The New Morality Murder") is centered on a young flower-type who kills a man whom she says she mistook for a prowler. Judd takes the case but is ignored by his client who doesn't trust him because he is over 30.

Civilians Used as Shields In Red Assault at Loc Ninh

Propaganda Coup Object In Hard Fight

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Herding civilians in front of them as human shields, Communist forces launched a prolonged attack today on Loc Ninh. The total number of enemy reported killed in six days of fighting for the district headquarters climbed past 850.

Under cover of a mortar barrage, the Viet Cong made a ground assault on newly arrived U.S. infantry reinforcements shortly after midnight, and sporadic action was reported still going more than 12 hours later.

First reports from the fighting today said three Americans and 28 Communists were killed and 34 Americans wounded. The defenders of Loc Ninh, grown to about 5,000 with arrival of a battalion from the U.S. 25th Infantry Division, have reported a total of 11 Americans and 23 South Vietnamese killed and 66 Americans and 74 South Vietnamese wounded in the six-day battle.

U.S. officers said the Communist tactic of sending civilians ahead of the attack forces "naturally restricted" the defenders' answering fire in the first stages of fighting today around the town, 72 miles north of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

Hit Hard

But the defenders hit the enemy with artillery, air strikes and twin-engine C47 planes armed with rapid-firing gatling guns.

In the air war against North Vietnam, poor weather persisted for the third day over the Hanoi-Haiphong area Thursday, limiting U.S. pilots mostly to the southern panhandle. But Marine pilots attacked the Yen Bai airfield, now used as a storage area, 65 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Loc Ninh, hub of a rubber-producing area on the main route from Saigon to Cambodia, has some military and economic value, said Col. Frederick Krause of Fullerton, Calif., chief of staff of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division. But he said the Communists' "seemingly blind determination" to take the town stems more from the political, psychological and propaganda value such a victory would have.

High Investment

"Our assumption is that this would have been a propaganda victory if they had taken it just on the eve of the inauguration of a constitutional government in South Vietnam (last Tuesday)," he said. "I think their investment is so high that their troops have been told to overrun one of the positions at all costs."

One officer reported from the field that the Viet Cong "shows no sign of heading back toward Cambodia." Intelligence officers insist, despite Cambodian denials, that the Reds take refuge in Cambodia when the pressure on them becomes too great.

In other action, U.S. Marines reported that units based around the outpost of Con Thien just below the demilitarized zone were hit Thursday by 103 mortar and artillery rounds, including shells from North Vietnamese 152mm cannons. Three Marines were reported killed and two wounded.

Skyhawk Downed

The North Vietnamese claimed they shot down two U.S. planes about 120 miles south of Hanoi Thursday. U.S. headquarters claimed a Navy A4 Skyhawk was downed on one of 152 missions over the north. The pilot was missing.

Air Force pilots reported destroying or damaging two bridges and destroying eight military structures near Dong Hoi. Navy fliers from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf said they destroyed or damaged 51 cargo barges and 17 trucks along North Vietnam's coast and inland waterways. They also claimed they wrecked three buildings at a radar site near Thanh Hoa and a railroad bridge 11 miles southwest of the city.

A broadcast from Hanoi urged the Viet Cong guerrillas "not to succumb to hardships and not to become a slave, even if it means death," but instead to try for further victories.

"The American GIs are taking higher and higher casualties and their already low combat morale is sinking yet deeper," the broadcast said.

Sardinian Bandits Captured in Gunfight

NUORO, Sardinia, (AP) — Three gunmen were captured Thursday night after a gunfight at a police roadblock.

Four men, pistols in hand, jumped from their car and opened fire at officers manning the roadblock in the bandit-infested hinterland. One policeman, hit in the chest, died in a hospital.

One gunman escaped, but three were disarmed and arrested.

Young Churchill's Defeat Close Enough to Jolt Labor

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The second Winston Churchill lost in his political debut Thursday but gave Britain's Labor government a good scare.

In other special elections for the House of Commons, Prime Minister Harold Wilson's forces suffered stunning defeats in districts previously theirs by large majorities. And 27-year-old Winston Spencer Churchill II came within several hundred votes of making it a clean sweep against the Laborites.

The loss of two seats will have no effect on the government's control of the House of Commons, where the Laborites have a majority of nearly 100 seats. But the unrelieved picture of Labor setbacks showed that disenchantment with the government is strong, chiefly because of wage restraints and the unemployment that has resulted from its austerity program.

Sir Winston's Grandson

The freckle-faced journalist grandson of Britain's wartime leader, who campaigned on charges of broken government promises, increased the Conservative vote in the predominantly working class Manchester district of Gorton from 16,417 last year to 18,682, while the Labor vote dropped from 24,726 to 19,259.

Kenneth Marks, a 46-year-old schoolmaster, defeated Churchill for the seat which had been held since 1954 by Konni Zilliacus, an extreme leftist who died in July. The total vote was unusually heavy for a special election, and Labor's percentage dropped from 60 per cent last year to 46.

Churchill said the outcome showed the "disillusionment of the people with the government." He had made no overt attempt to trade on his name in the campaign, but its magic was there nonetheless.

Churchill told newsmen he might try again to get the Gorton seat. "I am prepared to go through this again," he said.

In the Hamilton District of Glasgow, normally a Laborite stronghold, a blonde housewife on the Scottish Nationalist ticket trounced both the Labor and Conservative candidates. Mrs Winifred Ewing, 36, a lawyer and mother of three children, will be the only Scottish Nationalist in Commons. She received 18,397 votes, Laborite Alex Wilson got 16,598 and Conservative Iain Dyer 4,986.

The biggest shock to the government came in Leicester, where Conservative Tom Boardman defeated Laborite Neville Sandelson by nearly 4,000 votes. In 1966, Cabinet Minister Herbert Bowden, recently elevated to the House of Lords, polled more than 18,000 votes for Labor. But Sandelson received only 8,958 against Boardman's 12,897.

Frequent Foes Unite for LBJ

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Mayor Samuel W. Yorty of Los Angeles, often at odds in the past, were arm in arm today over President Johnson.

Brown and Yorty surprised many by lunching together Thursday. Later, they announced they'll work for Democratic Party unity behind Johnson.

Both have been mentioned as possible Democratic candidates for the U.S. Senate.

"If he became the nominee, I would support him," Brown said of Yorty.

"I might even support him in the primary," said Yorty of Brown, "if he were in the race and I were not."

Democrats Suspect Political Trick in Social Security Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Democratic members of the Senate Finance Committee are voicing concern they may have been politically outmaneuvered in approving a record boost in Social Security taxes and benefits.

The panel reached tentative agreement on the Social Security measure Thursday, after a month of work in closed session, and Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., predicted the bill would be sent to the Senate floor today.

As it now stands, the measure calls for the biggest boosts in benefits and taxes in the 31-year history of Social Security.

And some Democrats, conceding privately the proposal to hike taxes could become a 1968 campaign issue, credited Republican Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware with forcing the boost.

Williams told a reporter his concern was to be certain that all of the benefits added in the Senate committee to the House-passed bill were fully financed starting next year.

"The administration wanted to put off most of this financing until 1969 for what I think are obvious reasons," he said. "But I am getting tired of seeing Congress vote for all these benefits and then not vote for the taxes to pay for them."

Williams said he was surprised that a majority of the committee was willing to go along with his insistence that new taxes starting next Jan. 1 be added to the bill to pay for every benefit hike inserted by the committee.

When the price of these benefits was added up it was found it would take a 5 per cent tax rate on both the employer and worker and an $8,700 taxable wage base to pay for them.

For 1967 the rate is 4.4 per cent and the base $6,600. The House voted to continue the rate at the same level in 1968 and increase the base to $7,600 with rate hikes in later years.

The Johnson administration recommended keeping the rate at 4.4 per cent next year but moving the base up to $7,800.

Enactment of the tax rate and base fixed by the Senate panel would reach a $149.60 tax hike next year for the person earning $8,800 or more. He would pay $440 compared with $290.40 this year.

Yale Abolishes Grading System

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale University eliminated the traditional numerical grading system for undergraduates Thursday night.

More than 600 undergraduate professors decided, by a 10 to 1 margin, to put into immediate effect a "pass-fail" grade system for a five-year trial period.

The Yale Daily News, student newspaper, said four categories for grading were adopted—honors, high pass, pass and fail.

Also abolished, the news said, were class standings.

New Yorkers to Vote On Church School Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — The voters next Tuesday on a proposed constitution for New York State may provide legislators, churchmen and laymen across the country a clue to popular feeling on public support for church schools.

The argument in New York centers on one provision—repeal of the so-called "Blaine Amendment," which since 1894 has prohibited state aid to church schools. A 1938 amendment excepted transportation of pupils.

While Catholic opponents of the "Blaine Amendment" call it the most restrictive in the nation, there are 49 other states with similar constitutional provisions, more restrictive than the federal constitution.

First Amendment

The proposal in New York is to substitute the language of the First Amendment of the U.S. constitution, which simply forbids laws respecting establishment of religion.

Backers of the new constitution say it would still prohibit direct aid to church schools for such things as construction, teachers' salaries or administrative costs, since such aid is prohibited under the U.S. Supreme Court's interpretation of the First Amendment. But they say it would permit state aid to church school pupils for such things as textbooks, health services, school lunches, driver training, remedial reading, guidance and psychiatric services.

The U.S. Supreme Court held in 1947 that transportation of parochial pupils did not violate the First Amendment.

Earlier Ruling

In 1930, the high court had ruled that a state plan to provide textbooks to parochial pupils was not in violation of the 14th amendment—but the court was not asked and did not say whether it violated the First Amendment.

The textbook issue has given rise to a new controversy in New York.

One Catholic leader, says the "Blaine Amendment" already is dead because the New York Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, recently approved a new state law providing textbooks to church school pupils.

The court used the argument that aid to the child, as opposed to aid to the religious institution, is permissible. The New York textbook law has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court on First Amendment grounds.

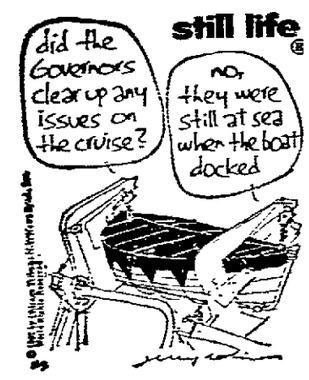

Literary Society Ends Membership for Castro

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Fidel Castro has been dropped as an honorary member of the Demosthenian Literary Society at the University of Georgia.

Paul Chellis, president of the society of orators and debators, said Castro was dropped "for obvious reasons." He said Castro was made an honorary member of the society when he was the popular leader of the Cuban revolutionary movement ten years ago.

Pre-Primary Kennedy-LBJ Election Seat

NEW YORK (AP) — A group that favors Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination announced Thursday that it will run what it calls a pre-primary mock election between Kennedy and President Johnson this weekend.

The group, Citizens for Kennedy in 1968, said its popularity contest will be held in 35 cities and towns in 15 states and the District of Columbia.

Workers will poll the public at key locations in the cities and towns during the Nov. 4-5 weekend "to demonstrate to the power brokers in the Democratic Party that Lyndon Johnson has lost the support not only of the American people as a whole, but the support of rank and file Democrats in particular," said Dr. Martin Shepard, one of the organization's coordinators.

The mock ballot will list Kennedy, Johnson and a blank line for a write-in vote.

States in which polling will be done, Shepard said, are California, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, Wisconsin, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah and Washington.

BY JOHN FAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Lawrence Bowl spectators will have an extremely good chance of witnessing a "score-in" Saturday.

If pre-game statistics on the unbeaten Lawrence University Vikings and the once-victorious Grinnell College Pioneers have any validity, the hosts should keep the scorekeeper hustling.

The Ron Roberts - coached Vikes are far from being hippies, but they're as "hip" as any team the Midwest Conference has boasted in years. For many of the veteran fans expected for the "Dad's Day" festivities, the current Vike team will bring back memories of the Bernie Heselton - coached powerhouses of the 40s and early '50s.

The 1967 Vikes, who, Saturday, can clinch the school's first undisputed title since 1951, have a chance to make history. If the current Vikings trip Grinnell tomorrow and Monmouth Nov. 11, they could become the first 8-game winners Lawrence has ever had. A perusal of the records reveals that the Vikes have had only three unbeaten, untied grid teams (7-0-0 in 1901, 6-0-0 in 1942 and 7-0-0 in 1951).

Best Total Offense

Coming into the 1:30 p.m. kickoff tomorrow, the Vikes boast the MC's total offense lead (371 yards per game) and the second-best scoring average (24.7 points). Grinnell's defense, on the other hand, has been the second-easiest to puncture, having allowed an average of 29 points per MC game.

Only Knox has allowed more points than Grinnell. Last Saturday, the Vikes fired a 21-point salvo at Knox in the first quarter — then scored but once more in the final three periods. Roberts admitted he took some of the steam out of the Vike attack with early substitutions but indicated he wanted to look at some underclassmen in an effort to learn more about their potential for '68.

The Vike offense, with its machination and free-wheeling fury, has at times overshadowed the smashingly-solid Lawrence defense. Chuck McKee, roll-out quarterback de luxe, has amassed 1,203 yards in total offense for six games. He has vaulted into a tie for the MC scoring

Hoosier Homecoming

Odds Against Badgers In Key Big 10 Battle At Indiana Saturday

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin's battered Badgers, struggling to avoid one of their worst seasons in history, invade Indiana Saturday as a distinct underdog to the unbeaten Hoosiers.

Surprising Indiana, sporting a flashy 6-0 slate, hopes to make Wisconsin another stepping stone toward its first trip in history to the Rose Bowl.

Wisconsin has been unable to break into the victory column despite three straight home games against unspectacular opponents.

It will have the additional handicap of meeting Indiana before a homecoming crowd of some 51,000 fans.

"I think we can win," Wisconsin Coach John Coatta said in looking ahead to the Indiana game.

But Coatta and his Badgers know it would take perhaps their best effort of the campaign to slap Indiana with its first setback.

Outscored 51-45

After six games, the Badgers stand 0-5-1. In their last three games they were outscored by only six points, 51-45, yet could not bring home a victory. The Badgers lost 13-11 to Pittsburgh, tied Iowa 21-21, and lost to Northwestern 17-13.

While Wisconsin has managed to stay close in some contests, Indiana has demonstrated an ability to win the tight games.

The Hoosiers rallied to nip Kentucky 12-10, eked out an 18-15 victory over Kansas; clipped Iowa 21-17 in the last minute, and downed Michigan 27-20.

Coatta singled out several key Indiana players for recognition in discussing Hoosier strengths. Two are sophomore quarterback Harry Gonso and flanker Jade Butcher.

"They border on the super player," Coatta said. "They just keep coming up with the big play."

Nurses Bruise

Gonso bruised his shoulder last Saturday against Arizona but Coach John Pont said he expects his quarterback to start.

Coatta hopes the Hoosiers' sophomore duo will be offset by his own Ken Criter and Tom Domres. The two rank one-two in the Big Ten tackle department Criter with 53 and Domres with 42. Each has 20 solo tackles.

Unless Wisconsin snares a victory in one of its last four games, it will finish with its worst record since the school fielded its first team in 1889. That year's outfit wound up 0-2.

Wisconsin has a lopsided 14-4 margin in the series with Indiana. One game ended in a tie. In the last encounter, Wisconsin trounced the Hoosiers 30-6 in 1962.

Lonborg Gets Honor as AL's Best Pitcher

Horlen Second In Writers' Voting For Cy Young Award

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Lonborg, whose 22 victories helped the Boston Red Sox capture their first American League pennant in 21 years, was named winner today of the Cy Young Award as the circuit's outstanding pitcher.

The 25-year-old right-hander from San Luis Obispo, Calif. collected 18 votes from the 20 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America who participated in the balloting.

Joe Horlen, Chicago White Sox' right-hander, was named on the other two ballots.

This is the first year that one pitcher representing each league has been honored by the baseball writers. Mike McCormick, veteran left-hander of the San Francisco Giants, was chosen the National League's top pitcher earlier this week. The Young Award was originated in 1956.

Strike-Out Leader

Lonborg lost only nine games while tying Detroit's Earl Wilson for most AL victories. He also paced the circuit in strikeouts with 246 and walked only 83 batters in 273 innings. His earned run average was 3.16.

"I'm pleased, but I'm not surprised," Lonborg said in San Luis Obispo when he learned of the award.

Lonborg's most notable triumph was achieved on the final day of the season when he pitched a seven-hitter in defeat-

Bulls Garner First Victory

Boozer, Sloan Lead 119-105 Triumph Over Supersonics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bulls finally have won their first game in the National Basketball Association this season after nine straight defeats. They beat Seattle 119-105 Thursday night in the only NBA game scheduled.

New Orleans whipped New Jersey 141-117, Minnesota beat Indiana 109-84 and Pittsburgh defeated Oakland 111-107 in the American Basketball Association.

The Bulls came from behind against Seattle on a neutral court at Spokane. Bob Boozer and Jerry Sloan sparked a 25-10 Chicago burst in the last seven minutes.

Boozer finished with 29 points, Sloan, who hit for four baskets in the closing minutes, tallied 18. Rookie Bobe Rule led the Supersonics with 27 points.

Playing at home, New Orleans took a slim five-point lead into the second quarter against New Jersey and then brought Jesse Branson off the bench.

20 At Half

By the time the half ended, New Orleans led 71-53 and Branson had scored 20 points. Branson, 6-foot-6 from Elon College in North Carolina, finished with 36 points.

Bob Lloyd, former Rutgers star, led the Americans with 21 points, including a perfect 11-of-11 from the foul line.

Les Hunter's 29 points led the Muskies to their home court victory. The former Chicago Loyola star helped build a three-point first-quarter lead to a 53-40 halftime bulge. Mel Daniels scored 19 points for Minnesota and Roger Brown scored 27 for the Pacers.

Colts Resemble Packers in Ability to Keep Momentum Despite Injuries

Reserves Come Through for Berry, Others

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — It may be of little cheer to the Packers, but the 1967 Baltimore Colts bear a strong resemblance to the world champions in at least one vital respect.

The "Hosses", who confront the Packers in Baltimore's customarily boisterous Memorial Stadium Sunday afternoon, have exhibited a remarkable ability to close ranks in the wake of injuries much as the Packers have done following the temporary loss of such as Bart Starr and Lionel Aldridge.

Despite the prolonged absence of mountainous Jim Parker, an all-pro section; Raymond Berry, Jim Orr and Alvin Haymond among others, the Colts have forged to five victories and a pair of ties in their first seven starts to lead the National Football League's Coastal division race at the halfway point as pro football's only undefeated team.

"We've had an awful lot of injuries almost since the start of the season, which points up our depth," Colt Publicity Director Jim Walker confided via long distance telephone. "We have been fortunate in that each time somebody was hurt, his replacement has done as well or better than the man he replaced."

Vok Scores

"For example, we lost our regular safetyman, Alvin Haymond, just before the regular season started. Rookie Rick Vok has stepped in and done a great job. He already has three interceptions, including one 94-

Big 10 Unbeaten Clubs Look to Fatten Records Against Weaker Rivals

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — The big three of the Big Ten—Minnesota, Purdue and Indiana— are strongly favored to expand on 3-0 conference records against second division foes Saturday and continue locked in the lead of the football title scramble.

Minnesota invades Iowa (0-2-1), Wisconsin (0-2-1) is unbeaten Indiana's homecoming opponent, and Purdue is at Illinois (1-2).

In other games, challenging Michigan State (2-1) tries to make homecoming a success against Ohio State (1-2), and Northwestern (1-2) is at Michigan (0-3).

On the oddsmakers' sheet, Minnesota is favored by 12 points, Indiana by 14, Purdue by 13, Michigan State by 14, and Michigan by 6.

Iowa is beset with injuries and is expected to be without the services of quarterback Ed Podoiak, second leading Big Ten passer. This would put quite a load on tailback Silas McKinnie, top conference ground gainer.

Wilson Back

Gopher quarterback Curt Wilson returned to practice Thursday apparently recovered from a sprained ankle.

Sixth-ranked Purdue can give the Illini the statistical shudders. Leroy Keyes tops the majors in scoring with 12 touchdowns; Mike Phipps ranks second in total offense; the Boilermakers are sixth nationally in total offense and passing.

Quarterback Harry Gonso has recovered from injury and is ready to engineer the Indiana Sophomore Express. The seventh-ranked Hoosiers aim for their seventh straight triumph over winless Wisconsin to remain the Big Ten's only unbeaten team.

The Badgers will try to check the rookie trio of Gonso, Jade Butcher and John Isenbarger with the league's top-ranking tacklers, Ken Criter and Tom Domres.

Jimmy Raye returns to quarterback for Michigan State along with six players whose suspensions were lifted. Ohio State is trying to bounce back after being upset 17-13 by Illinois.

Northwestern boasts the best secondary in the Big Ten, headed by pass-breaker Denny White. Michigan seems ready to explode from a five-game losing streak. Ron Johnson is No 2 in Big Ten rushing and Dennis Brown is second in total offense.

Unitas Doesn't Need Sympathy, Says Cruice

GREEN BAY (AP) — The Green Bay Packers neared the end of their preparations today for Sunday's showdown with the Baltimore Colts — a collosed collection of old pros hungry to avenge five straight defeats at the hands of the professional football champions.

The Colts added one more weapon to their air attack—one of the league's best—when they returned flanker Jimmy Orr to the active list.

Orr, who has maintained a long-time rivalry with the Packer defender Herb Adderley, had been sidelined by a shoulder injury.

The Colts, twice-tied but still unbeaten, are considered likely to meet the Packers in the Western Conference playoff in December.

"The Colts are living for the Packers," Green Bay scout Wally Cruice said Wednesday. "They figure they've been unlucky. Of course, they really can't complain about their luck this year. They're the only unbeaten team, but they've had some close calls."

The heart of the Colts' offense is Johnny Unitas, the peerless quarterback. Unitas is troubled by a chronically ailing elbow.

"Everybody should have it so bad, the way he throws," Cruice commended. "He really doesn't need sympathy."

The Packers are expected to be at full strength with the possible exception of defensive end Lionel Aldridge, who suffered an ankle injury Monday night against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Attacks NFL Owners

Parrish Eyes Player Union

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bernie Parrish, a former defensive back with the Cleveland Browns is asking National Football League players to join in organizing a union which would be affiliated with the teamsters.

Parrish said Thursday night he is sending to all NFL players a copy of a 16-page document attacking NFL owners and the NFL Players Association and proposing formation of a union to be called the American Federation of Professional Athletes.

The 31-year-old Parrish was an officer in the Players Association for several years while he played with the Browns. He was released by the Browns at his own request last year after losing his starting job at cornerback.

He signed with Houston of the American Football League but now is retired.

Criticizes Miller

Parrish blasted the Players Association as a "company union" and criticized its legal counsel, Creighton Miller, a former Notre Dame player. He said Miller hadn't fought hard enough for the players.

Miller was not available for comment.

Mike Pyle of the Chicago Bears head of the NFL Players Association, and Pete Rozelle NFL commissioner, declined comment.

He proposes a $15,000-a-year minimum for NFL players and $500 a game payment for exhibitions. The present NFL minimum is $12,000, and players get $10 a day during preseason campaigning.

Parrish said he had heard from several Browns' players and that there was a "very good reaction" to his letter. "They like the idea of a stronger organization to represent them," he said.

If he gets 30 per cent of the players to sign up, Parrish said, he will file with the National Labor Relations Board.

He said he was not inviting American Football League players to join at present.

Williams Admits His Wrong in Maglie Dispute

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox Manager Dick Williams says he was wrong in not telling Sal Maglie that he was replacing him as pitching coach.

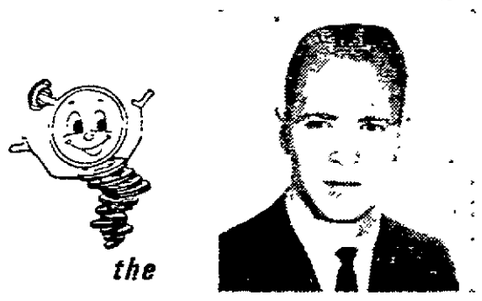

"I was wrong not telling him myself that I was changing my pitching coach," Williams said.

Williams was in Singer Island, Palm Beach Shores, Fla., when interviewed. His remarks were in response to sharp criticism of him from Sal Maglie, one-time star pitcher for the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I have great respect for Sal Maglie as a pitcher and as a gentleman. But I made a decision to change coaches so Sal had to go," Williams said.

Lorna Pekarske Slams Leading 552 Pin Set

Pat Lutz and Lorna Pekarske shared honors in the Hahn's Women's League Thursday night as the former rolled a 211 game and the latter hit a 192 line and 552 series.

Mrs. Lutz finished with a 544 series and other high scores in the league included Florence Panke 515, Lois Bayer 508 and Doris Vander Velden 505.

Fritzie Meyers set the pace in the Flower League Thursday afternoon at the 41 Bowl with a 208 singleton and 544 series.

The Hahn's Navy League Thursday night saw Joie Thompson sock a 540 series for the lone honor score.

Mildred Kessler's 199 game and Jo Ann Eisch's 517 series topped action in the Bent Sabre League at Sabre Lanes last night.

Ruth Schmidt had a 193 game and 504 series while Avita Kramer slammed a 194 line to share honors in the Alley Cat League at the 41 Bowl Thursday.

JoAnn Goettels' 194 singleton highlighted the AAL Women's League at Sabre Lanes last night.

In Wednesday night action, Jackie Landsverk fired a 202 line in the Twin City Dolls League at the new Twin City Bowl.

Ruth Schmidt had a 507 total and Maybelle Schommer hit a 190 game for top scores in the Tuesday Women's League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes.

Grayson Named AFL's Defensive Player of Week

By HAL BOCK

Brash Dave Grayson didn't mind moving over to make room in Oakland's defensive backfield for flashy Willie Brown. But when Brown got hurt, Grayson showed he hadn't forgotten how to do his old job.

yard runback for a touchdown which played a big role in our victory over the Bears."

"Then we lost Jimmy Orr, who caught a touchdown pass in the first half of our first game, then suffered a shoulder dislocation 10 minutes later."

"The man who stepped in for him, Willie Richardson, is leading the NFL in receptions. In our second game, he caught 11 passes against the Eagles, one less than the club record. He has 36 in all for our seven games."

"Next we lost Mike Curtis, our regular left linebacker. Shula (Coach Don) was particularly disappointed about it, because he thought Curtis might be an all-pro this season. But Barry Brown went in there and did well until the Viking game. Last week, we moved Ron Porter, a rookie, into that spot. He did very well and probably will start again Sunday."

"Left tackle Jim Parker came up with a sprained knee and Sam Ball, our No. 1 draft choice a year ago, stepped in there and has done a great job," Walker enthused. "In fact, even though Jim Parker is well now, he's not going to start."

"Ball has been one of the reasons we have had such good pass protection thus far, the Colt spokesman added. "Unitas has been caught only six times, which is quite remarkable considering how often we throw the ball."

Resuming his casualty report, Walker informed, "Raymond Berry also has been hurt twice this season. The first time he and Ray Perkins, a rookie from Alabama, went in and caught five passes in his first game."

"Then Perkins was hurt before the Ram game — he pulled a muscle in the pre-game warmup and played only one series — and Alex Hawkins went in and caught a touchdown pass that helped us tie the Rams. He also caught a touchdown pass against the Redskins last week ... Hawkins went the whole route last week and caught five passes."

"Earlier in the season, Bobby Boyd (the Colts' all-pro cornerback) had trouble with his knee and missed the second half of our game against the 49ers. Rookie Charlie Sutkes played the second half and came up with an interception."

Although Berry is still sidelined with a dislocated shoulder, incurred in Baltimore's 20-20 tie with the Minnesota Vikings Oct. 22, the Colts have activated one of their walking wounded, the elusive Orr, for Sunday's match.

Assessing the Colts' performance to date, Walker observed.

AL Approves Chisox' 9 Milwaukee Games

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee officially got its foot back in the door to the major leagues Thursday as the American League voted 9-1 in favor of allowing the Chicago White Sox to play nine league games at County Stadium next season.

Baltimore was believed to be the dissenter to the plan.

The Milwaukee season will open with an exhibition game between the Chisox and the Chicago Cubs April 6.

It was the first firm date to be announced.

Rudie Schaffer, Chisox business manager, said Thursday the other dates should be decided with two weeks.

Schaffer was in Milwaukee to speak at a baseball dinner.

Bud Selig, president of the Milwaukee Brewers, the organization sponsoring the White Sox games here, said ticket outlets for the nine dates and the exhibition would be set up soon throughout Wisconsin.

"We've been swamped by phone calls and letters requesting where they could buy tickets," Selig said.

The Brewers, who are seeking a major league franchise for Milwaukee, will have no representatives at a National League meeting on expansion Nov. 13 in Chicago.

The National League announced Thursday that no representative of any city seeking a franchise would attend the Chicago session.

The Brewers are expected to be invited to send a representative to major leagues meetings in Mexico City beginning Nov. 28.

ing Minnesota 5-3. The victory coupled with Detroit's loss to California in the second game of a doubleheader enabled the Red Sox to clinch first place.

A 6-foot-6, 195-pound native of Santa Maria, Calif., Lonborg joined the Red Sox in 1965 after spending two years in the minors, one with Winston-Salem of the Carolina League and the other with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League. He posted a 9-17 record for Boston in 1965 and was 10-10 in 1966.

Horlen won 19 games and lost seven for the fourth-place White Sox. Among his victories was a no-run, no-hit game against Detroit on Sept. 10. He led the AL in ERA with 2.06, struck out 103 batters and walked 58.

HONOLULU (AP) — "Those sand traps killed me," said Arnold Palmer. The Hawaiian trade winds killed a bunch more.

But nothing bothered Tom Weiskopf, an old married man of 26 — who couldn't make a dime in the Hawaii Open on his honeymoon last year.

Weiskopf, 6-3 and 175 pounds, posted a steady — "Nothing spectacular," he said—66 four under par for the Waialae course which etches along a Pacific reef.

That gave him the first round lead in this $100,000 tournament, over two fellows hardly anyone had heard of. Jim Grant and John Felus, who had 69s.

Grant, a recent graduate of the PGA school, is in his second tournament. Felus, smallest player in the field at 5-4, has been around a little longer but has never won more than $900.

Most of Gallery

Palmer, who took most of the gallery of about 8,000 with him around the tropical course — which had a rainbow arched over the back nine all afternoon —had an even par 72 that he said "should have been a 68."

Slender George Archer, who always plays well here, had 70, as did New Zealand left-hander Don Charles.

The brisk trade winds blew scores into the high 70s for some of the best known players.

Gay Brewer, winner here in 1965 and runner-up last year, had 76. Defending champion Ted Makalena had 78. Chi Chi Rodrigues went to 79. Tony Jacklin of England had 76.

Steve Spray, runnerup in last week's Sahara Invitational, finished with an eagle three for 73, after being four over par for six holes. "I'm ready for Friday," he said. "I'm getting the hang of it."

Thoughts of Roses Spur USC, UCLA Into Rough Tilts

Trojans Face Cal Minus Simpson; Oregon State Eyes Upset of Bruins

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Thoughts of the Rose Bowl sustain John McKay and Tommy Prothro in their hour of need, but even the mere mention of New Year's Day in Pasadena scares John Pont half to death.

McKay's Southern California squad face Pacific-8 foe California without superback O.J. Simpson Saturday, while Prothro's band from UCLA meets conference opponent Oregon State, which has shown a propensity for the upset effort in just such a big game.

In Big Ten action, Pont's seventh-ranked Indiana team goes for its seventh straight victory, against winless league member Wisconsin. Michigan State, Minnesota and Purdue loom ahead in the weeks to come, all of them potential barriers to the Rose Bowl.

"I don't even want to think about it," Pont said. "I'm going to have a heart attack as it is."

The Trojans, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, lost Simpson, their most prolific runner, to a foot injury last week. Originally thought not to be serious, the ailment could keep him out for the rest of the season, although McKay hopes to get him back.

"He got us where we are," McKay said. "Now we'll just have to go it on our own." Steve Grady is O. J.'s replacement and he gained over 100 yards last week.

The Bruins, rated second, take on Oregon State, which has a 5-2 mark. One of those Beaver victories, however, was over Purdue, the conqueror of Notre Dame and rated second at the time.

Now ranked sixth with a 5-1 mark, the Boilermakers take on Illinois, 2-4, Saturday. Third-rated Tennessee, 4-1, meets Tampa, 1-4. North Carolina State, unbeaten in six games and ranked fourth, plays Virginia, 2-4.

Georgia, rated fifth with a 5-1 mark, takes on a rugged Houston squad, 4-2, and the Bulldogs will be without the services of three players—running back Brad Johnson, safety Jack Scott and tackle Wayne Byrd—who were suspended for a curfew violation.

Eighth-ranked Wyoming, 7-0, plays San Jose State, 1-4; ninth-rated Colorado, 5-1, meets Big Eight foe Oklahoma, 4-1, and Notre Dame, No. 10 and 4-2 faces Navy, 4-2.

Other top games on the card are:

Air Force-Army, Alabama-Mississippi State, Arizona-New Mexico, Arkansas-Texas A&M, Auburn-Florida, Baylor-TCU, Cornell-Columbia, Georgia Tech-Duke, Holy Cross-Villanova, Iowa-Minnesota, Kansas-Kansas State, Kentucky-West Virginia, Maryland-Penn State, Also, Michigan State-Ohio State, Michigan-Northwestern, Mississippi-LSU, Nebraska-Iowa State, North Carolina-Clemson, Oklahoma State-Missouri, Penn-Harvard, Pitt-Syracuse, Princeton-Brown, SMU-Texas, Texas Tech-Rice, Tulane-Vanderbilt, Utah State-Brigham Young.

And, Utah-Arizona State, University of Texas, El Paso-New Mexico State, Virginia Tech-Miami, Fla., Wake Forest-South Carolina, Washington State-Oregon, Washington-Stanford, Wichita State-Tulsa and Yale-Dartmouth

Writer Says 'Yaz' Gets $224,000

Pact Reportedly Has Provisions For Father, Brother

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski, the slugging star of the Boston Red Sox, negotiated a record $224,000 contract last month, the Cumberland Times said today.

In his daily column, Sports Editor J. Sufer Kegg said in addition to the $100,000 salary for the 1968 season, Yastrzemski was given a contract which also called for:

—$62,000 more for himself, spread over a five-year period.

—$50,000 for his father to act as a Red Sox scout, with amount also spread over a five-year period.

—$12,000 to send a brother to college.

When Yastrzemski signed last month, after helping the Red Sox win the American League pennant while he captured the Triple Crown, published reports mentioned only the $100,000 figure.

Kegg quoted Jim Browning of Cumberland, a close associate of Notre Dame sports personalities for many years, as learning of the contract during a visit to the university campus last weekend for the Michigan State football game.

Yastrzemski attended Notre Dame but did not play varsity baseball for the Irish before turning professional.

In Boston, owner Tom Yawkey was not available for comment and a Red Sox spokesman said Yastrzemski was on vacation in Puerto Rico.

Vikings Meet Grinnell Here

lead, with Coe's Alan Rowe, at 48 points.

Gary Hietpas, the Vikings' defensive field general, has also proved to be a key offensive weapon. Hietpas, with 40 points, has moved up among the leading conference scorers. His output includes six field goals (in 10 tries), 16 extra points (in 19 kicks) and one touchdown.

McKee's leading pass receivers are Tom Vanderhyden, with 15 catches for 198 yards, and Rod Clark, with 14 grabs for 232 yards. In ground gaining, Paul Rechner ranks third behind McKee and the disabled Steve Figi, with 263 yards. Dick Witte, is fourth, with 243 yards.

The Vike defense has been stingiest in the league on point minded teams. The Vikes have permitted an average of 8.6 points per game — which is a shade below their MC-pace setting mark (9-3) of 1966. The hard hitting defenders have held the last four foes to one touchdown apiece — and three of them (St. Olaf, Cornell and Ripon) are among the top offensive units in the league.

In total defense Beloit holds a slight edge over runnerup Lawrence (189 yards per game to 210.)

End Mike Schwartz is Grinnell's top offensive threat. He has scored 44 points to date. He scored four of the touchdowns in the Knox game. The Grinnell passer is sophomore Doug Fink.

Alternating at the running backs for the Pioneers are Ken Thomson, Rich Weeks, Dick Lamb and Brian Barnes.

Roberts has again relied on the scouting report of assistant coach Bob Mueller to set up the best possible game plan in a bid for the Vikes' 10th straight win in a 2-season span. Roberts notes that the excellent scouting of Mueller, in addition to his coaching and that of another assistant, Ted Ross, have played vital roles in the Vike success. Roberts also lauded the work of the freshman coach, Clyde Rusk.

At least four MC teams will be pulling hard for Grinnell to score an upset Saturday. They are co-runners-up Cornell, St. Olaf, Ripon and Monmouth — who have a chance to share in the title if Lawrence stumbles twice. Cornell plays at St. Olaf Saturday in the leading game involving the runners-up.

Fran the Scrambler Returns 'Home' Sunday

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the week that Fran the Scrambler, alias Francis Tarkenton, returns "home" to Minnesota with his new playmates from the New York Giants.

When Tarkenton wrote a Dear John letter to Norm Van Brocklin last January and unloaded his snow shoes and parka, he never dreamed he would be coming back with a first-place club.

But the Giants are first, or at least tied with St. Louis and Cleveland for the lead in the Century Division of the Eastern Conference in the National Football League.

"I don't have time to think much about it," said the man Van Brocklin used to call "Peach." "My only personal feelings about the game are that we are tied for first at the half way mark. Every game takes on a great deal of significance. That's my only viewpoint for this game.

"Minnesota is a good team, good enough to beat Green Bay and tie Baltimore, even if they did lose to Atlanta. This game counts the same as much as if you win from St. Louis, Cleveland or anybody else. Maybe, if they counted two wins, then it would take on special connotations."

Asked if his familiarity with the Vikings' personnel in his six years with the club would help Sunday, Tarkenton said, "I don't think so. They have a different coaching staff. They do different things. And, remember, I never played against them except at New Haven in the pre-season (Giants won 21-3). Actually, I have less experience against them than against anybody.

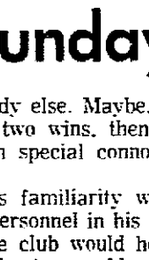

"I don't think it will be any disadvantage, either, for them to know me well. Most of them never played against me. It's a lot different working out in practice and playing a real game. In these days everybody knows all about everybody else's personnel with all the films."

Tarkenton said he had "kept in touch" with some of his friends in Minnesota.

"No, I have not heard from Norm (Van Brocklin)," said Tarkenton. Van Brocklin is a television commentator on the games of the New Orleans Saints.

Jack Hand Again Picks Against the Packers

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Picking against Green Bay is akin to attacking motherhood, burning the flag and wearing an orange tie on St. Patrick's Day. But the old Hand-picker is going to try it again with Baltimore after failing with St. Louis.

The Cardinals did give the Packers a real scare and the New York Giants did upset the Cleveland Browns. Unfortunately for the average, similar upsets by the Detroit Lions, Atlanta Falcons and Philadelphia Eagles were not predicted.

After an 8-4 weekend, thanks to a sweep in the AFL, the batting average for the year is 56-20-7 (37-14-5 in the NFL and 19-6-2 in the AFL). Let's give it another whirl. All games this week are Sunday afternoon.

NFL

Baltimore 24, Green Bay 20—A wild, wild day in Baltimore with the unbeaten Colts very much aware they have lost five straight to Green Bay. The Packers had a rugged night in St. Louis Monday and must carry a few bruises into this big one. Lionel Aldridge may be out. Johnny Unitas vs. Bart Starr and what more could you ask? Colts have big air punch but no ground game. Packers tops in defense. Lou Michaels or Don Chandler decide it with a field goal.

Los Angeles 28, San Francisco 17—Forget that rout of the 49ers by the Lions last week. San Francisco beat the Rams 27-24 in Oct. 8 meeting with a John Brodie-Sonny Randle pass. Rams didn't get to Brodie once but that Fearsome Foursome is geared for the big push. Rams must win to stay in there with Baltimore in Coastal Division. And they can run on 49ers with Dick Bass and Les Josephson.

New York 31, Minnesota 27—Now the Vikings find out how the other half lives, chasing Fran Tarkenton. Giants running hot hand on offense. Porous defense should hold up before Minnesota's sputtering attack. Giants won preseason game 21-3 but never have beaten Vikings in regular season.

Dallas 28, Atlanta 17—Return of Don Meredith just what was needed to revive sagging attack. Falcons riding on pink cloud after first victory of season and could be dangerous with new battery of Randy Johnson and Tommy McDonald, if they can keep Cowboys off Randy's neck.

St. Louis 27, Washington 21—Scared to death of this one. Cards may be down after losing that big effort to Packers Monday night. Jim Hart, Dave Williams, Johnny Roland and Jim Bakken must be in top form to outscore Sonny Jurgensen's arm with Charley Taylor back in action. Defense gives Cards edge in tight fit.

Pittsburgh 24, Cleveland 17—Yeah, an upset especially if Frank Ryan can't play or has trouble throwing with that sore arm. Steelers still have a chance in jungle of Century Division and have defense to handle Browns' running game. Browns won first game 21-10. Oct.

Detroit 21, Chicago 10—Despite the usual guessing game about Gale Sayers' availability, Bears beat Lions 14-3 at Chicago Oct. 15 when Sayers ran for 142 yards in the rain. Karl Sweetan seems to have found touch to ignite Lions' offense in ramble over 49ers.

Philadelphia 31, New Orleans 14—Unpredictable Eagles ride up and down on a seesaw from week to week. Strictly on last week's inspired effort against Cowboys, we'll take Eagles but they had better not let down because Gary Cuozzo has Saints marching.

AFL

Kansas City 24, New York 21—Doubt about Joe Namath's condition makes this a real puzzle. Chiefs' Len Dawson hit the targets last week against staggering Denver team but the Chiefs are hurting physically. Jets can't do it without Namath despite running of Emerson Boozer. Chiefs won preseason game 30-17.

Oakland 35, Denver 14—Raiders rode into lead in the Western Division by manhandling San Diego 51-10 and don't figure to be upset by team they bombed 51-0 on Sept. 10. Things so tough in Denver that Lou Saban may go with rookie Jim Leclair at quarterback. Home field may help Broncos.

Houston 21, Boston 17—An upset. Patriots slight favorites because Oilers' offense is weak. Houston defense should contain Boston whether it's Babe Parilli or ex-Oiler Don Trull. Runbacks and interceptions big part of Oiler offense.

Buffalo 21, Miami 7—Bills hurting with Harry Jacobs out for year. Miami coming off bye and five-game losing streak with Bob Griese likely quarterback. But Buffalo should sneak home despite 10-7 preseason loss.

Lead Big 10 in Total Offense

Badgers' Criter, Domres Have Made Most Tackles

CHICAGO (AP) — Purdue, one of three unbeaten leaders in Big Ten football play, is showing up on the statistic sheet as well as it does on the field.

The Boilermakers, tied in the conference title race with Minnesota and Indiana each with 3-0 marks, is No. 1 in the Big Ten in total offense and passing and No. 2 in rushing.

On total defense, however, Purdue shares fifth place with Indiana, based on average yards yielded per play to opponents. Each has given up a 4-yard average. Michigan State tops total defense with a yield of 3.5.

Purdue's lead in total offense is based on an average of 217 yards rushing per Big Ten game and 232.7 passing for a 449.7 total. MSU is second with a 353.3 total.

Purdue's first in passing is based on an average gain of 9.7 yards per pass. Minnesota is second with 7.9.

Spartans High

Michigan State tops the rushing department with a 4.8 average per carry. Purdue is next with 4.6.

Minnesota has a remarkable blend of running and passing. The Gophers are averaging 162.3 yards per game on the ground and 162.7 in the air.

Individual leaders:

Rushing — Silas McKinnie, Iowa, 62 for 238; and Ron Johnson, Michigan, 57-243; passing — Mike Phipps, Purdue, 31-54-593; and Ed Podolak, Iowa, 32-60-412; total offense — Phipps 696; and Dennis Brown, Michigan, 578.

Scoring — Leroy Keyes, Purdue, 48 points; pass receiving — John Wright, Illinois, 19 for 268; and Jim Berline, Michigan, 18 for 208; kickoff returns — Jim Kirkpatrick, Purdue, 6 for 26.5 average; and Bill Huston, Illinois, 4 for 21.0.

Tops Punting

Punting — Chico Kurzawski, Northwestern, 14 for 41.2 average; and Pete Drehmann, Michigan, 17-39.6; punt returns — George Hoey, Michigan, 5 for 30.2 average; and Steve Wilson, Iowa, 6-10.4; tackles made (solo and assist) — Ken Criter, Wisconsin, 53; and Tom Domres, Wisconsin, 42; interceptions — Wilson, Iowa, 5 for 44 yards; and Ted Provost, Ohio State, 4 for 42.

Passes broken up — Dennis White, Northwestern, 7; touchdown saves — Wilson, Iowa, 3; tackles for loss — Dave Whitefield, Ohio State, 5 for 39 yards; and Ed Paquette, Northwestern, 5 for 29.

Northwestern is second in total defense with 70 plays for 261 yards or 3.7 average. Illinois is fourth with 62.7 plays, 242.3 average and 3.9 average. Illinois is 6th in passing, having completed 12.7 of 24.7 attempts or .514 per cent, 152.7 yards for a 6.2 average.

Beer Party Benches 8 Utah Players

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Coach Mike Giddings put eight of his Utah football players on probation Thursday because they drank beer in a tavern Halloween night. All will start the game against Arizona State this Saturday sitting on the bench.

A ninth already was on probation for a foul in the Brigham Young game last weekend which cost Utah a 15-yard penalty.

Giddings said he wouldn't kick any of them off the team because they confessed voluntarily, and they all made their 10:30 p.m. bed check.

But he said they won't start against ASU Saturday, and they won't be used at all if their replacements play well.

Giddings withheld names of most of the players involved. But he said they included three of the team's four captains or alternate captains—captain and quarterback Jack Gehrke, defensive tackle Manny Fernandez, and offensive guard Norman Chow. Only defensive captain Jerome Lawson will start.

Colts Activate Orr and Pearson For Sunday's Tilt

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts activated flanker Jimmy Orr and rookie defensive back Preston Pearson Thursday, replacing Jim Welch and Dave Memmelaar on their National Football League roster.

Orr, in his 10th NFL season, had been sidelined with a dislocated shoulder. Pearson, who played basketball but not football at Illinois, has been working out with the Colts' taxi squad.

Welch, a defensive back, cleared the waiver list Wednesday with a notation that he is injured. He is suffering back and toe injuries.

Maple Leafs Rout Detroit; Chicago Wins

Bobby Hull Gets 10th Goal, Leads Black Hawk Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Mahovlich, the big man in the Toronto Maple Leafs' attack, has been grounded again by a mysterious illness.

His teammates never have been healthier.

The Maple Leafs, playing without ailing Mahovlich, trampled the Detroit Red Wings 9-3 Thursday night for their fourth National Hockey League victory in the last five starts.

Mahovlich, the club's leading scorer, was left behind in a Toronto hospital—reportedly suffering from depression and tension—when the Leafs traveled to Detroit following Wednesday night's 5-0 victory over Montreal.

Tallied Twice

But rookie Wayne Carleton, filling in for the Big M, picked up a goal and two assists while George Armstrong and Brian Conacher each tallied twice as Toronto halted the Red Wings' four-game winning string with the biggest scoring spree of the young season.

The Chicago Black Hawks downed the Los Angeles Kings 3-1 and the Minnesota North Stars topped the Philadelphia Flyers 3-1 in the only other games on Thursday's schedule.

Bobby Hull broke a scoreless second-period deadlock with his 10th goal of the season, triggering the Black Hawks' victory at Los Angeles. Ken Wharram and Doug Jarrett also scored for Chicago before Bill Flett's third-period goal averted a shutout for the Kings. Goalie Wayne Rutledge of Los Angeles suffered a possible broken nose after being struck by the puck midway in the first period.

Goals by Andre Boudrias, Wayne Connelly and Ted Taylor carried Minnesota to its first road victory. Garry Peters scored for the Flyers, who lost left winger Brit Selby for six to eight weeks with a shoulder separation.

Refuses Kent Bid to Forfeit Grid Victory

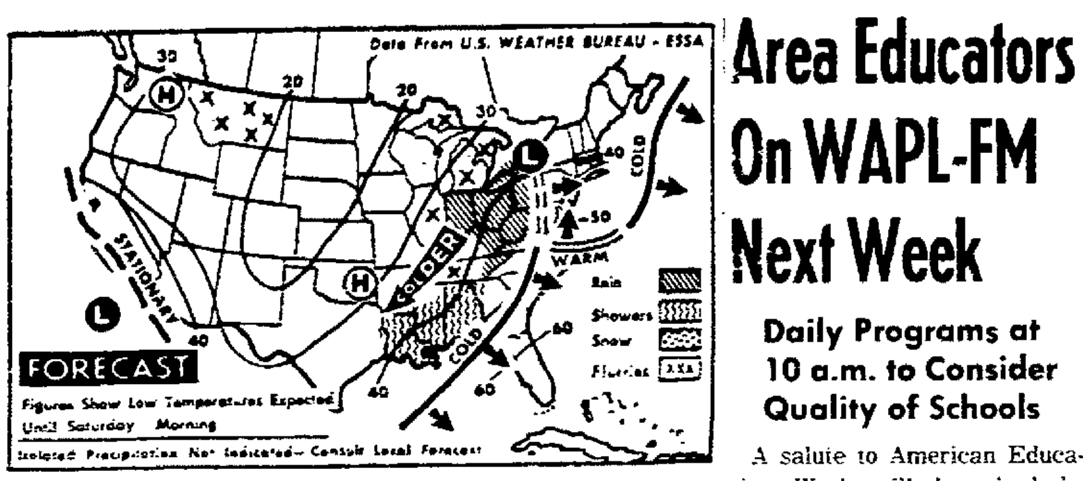

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Northern Illinois University has refused to accept Kent State University's offer to forfeit Kent's Sept. 23 football victory.

Kent President Robert I. White said Thursday he had received a telegram from NIU Athletic Director George Evans saying Northern Illinois "appreciates Kent's sportsmanship but . . . cannot accept your offer forfeit the game."

White called it a fine gesture on the part of NIU.

"A ray of sunshine finally broke through," a University spokesman quoted him as saying.

Kent had offered to forfeit both its victories this year because an ineligible player was used. Mid-American Conference Commissioner Bob James ordered forfeiture of Kent's conference victory over Ohio University, but took no action on the NIU game because that was a non-conference contest.

Rain and Showers are forecast tonight from the Great Lakes through the Ohio and Tennessee valleys to the Gulf Coast. Snow flurries are expected in the upper Great Lakes and Montana. It will be colder in most of the Midwest, Gulf Coast and southern Plains, with little change elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Stock Market Fails to Gain

Chrysler Drops More Than Point; Ford and GM Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made a feeble attempt to rally at the start but it came to nothing and the list was down on average this afternoon.

Weakness in a number of key stocks caused the popular averages to wilt even while gains and losses were fairly even at about 500 apiece in the over-all list.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 3.58 at 861.25.

The Wednesday strike deadline against Chrysler was an extra reason for caution in Wall Street just prior to the weekend.

The feeling in the street was that a sustained rally is unlikely — barring unexpected news — prior to election day, next Tuesday.

A further decline in U.S. government bonds emphasized fear of a "money crunch" which has gone along with high interest rates as one of the accomplishments of the six-week stock market decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.2 with industrials off 2.5, rails off .4 and utilities up .1.

Chrysler sank more than a point while Ford and General Motors gained fractions and American Motors advanced more than a point, now that the 100,000 share block of A.M.C., sold Thursday, no longer overhands the market for the stock.

Stocks of some of the auto parts companies which face tough labor contract bargaining as a result of the Ford agreement were down. Moderate losses were taken by Bendix, Dana Corp. and Champion spark plug.

Sterling Drug advanced more than a point after it raised its dividend.

As in Thursday's decline, some of the most active stocks put on very strong showings. Among them, City Investing climbed about 5, Texas Gulf Sulphur more than 4, Occidental Petroleum, CBS and Control Data 2 or more.

Also active, Lone Star Gas, Allis-Chalmers, National Dairy and CBS preferred rose to about a point.

Xerox and Phelps Dodge fell 2 each, Eastman Kodak, Procter & Gamble, Chesapeake & Ohio and United Aircraft a point or more.

Wisconsin Cheese

MADISON (AP) — Buying interest on the Wisconsin cheddar cheese market slowed this week, normal for this time of the year, the Agricultural Marketing Service reported today.

Supplies of current longhorns and 40-pound blocks were short to adequate. Supplies of other styles were ample to more than ample.

American cheese production in the week ending Oct. 26 was 19.5 million pounds, down one per cent from the previous week.

The Wisconsin Swiss cheese market was firm with prices ranging from to 2 to 4 cents higher. Buying interest was active. Supplies of grade A blocks were adequate to short. Grades B and C were ample.

Correction

LITTLE CHUTE — A Wednesday story listed William Winius as owner of Van Zeeland Garage where vandalism was reported to cars. Winius is the manager and Mrs. Paul Dercks, owner.

Council on Air Pollution Holds First Meeting

Group Hears Report Indicating Staffing Problems Imminent

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Wisconsin's quest for clean air began Thursday as the state's advisory council on air pollution met for the first time to elect officers and hear a report which indicated that staffing problems may slow the battle for clean air.

Freeman Holmer, director of the division of resource development, told the new advisory unit that Wisconsin will have to fight the shortage of trained personnel in the new field, a problem facing all governmental agencies fighting air pollution across the country.

The council was created by the 1967 Legislature, when it handed Holmer's agency the responsibility to combat air pollution in the state.

First Chairman

It met for the first time Thursday, and elected Dr. William Lea of the state department of health and social services its chairman.

Vice chairman will be Dr. David Carley of Ripon College, and Norman Amrhein, industrialist from Milwaukee, will be secretary.

Holmer told the council that the process of recruiting a staff head for the air pollution control section within the division has started, but that it has had to face the lack of trained personnel across the country.

Six qualified persons have been found who are interested in heading the section in the position which will carry a starting salary of about $13,000, Holmer indicated.

Experience in air pollution control work and a background in engineering education are considered necessary for the post, Holmer said.

Five File for Bankruptcy In U. S. Court

Three Oshkosh residents and one Appleton man are among five Fox Valley residents who filed voluntary bankruptcy petitions in U. S. District Court this week.

Henry A. Stenson, 1643 Oshkosh Ave., Oshkosh, a laborer, showed liabilities of $6,028 and assets of $298, with $45 exempt.

Richard W. Holz, 101-A Ceape St., Oshkosh, a machinist, petitioned for liabilities of $6,304 and assets of $2,355, with $945 exempt.

The third Oshkosh man to petition for bankruptcy was Robert C. Malchow, 1906 Simpson St., who showed liabilities of $15,017 and assets of $4,073, with $5,280 exempt.

Walter E. Lider Jr., 1206 S. Memorial Drive, Appleton, a cook, listed liabilities of $6,333 and assets of $240, with exemptions totaling $240.

Norbert A. LaRoux Jr., route 1, West DePere, a laborer, had liabilities of $4,233 and assets of $2,763, with $3,459 exempt.

Marine Selection Team to Conduct Interviews at LU

A Marine Corps officer selection team will visit Lawrence University November Monday and Tuesday to interview students interested in becoming commissioned officers.

The Milwaukee selection team will be available at the union to provide information on opportunities in the Marine Corps, according to Capt. D. P. Cotellesse, selection officer.

The Marine Corps is now offering programs leading to commissions for all grad-level men students with a "B" average who pass a 75-minute qualification test and are physically qualified. Students must also possess leadership potential.

Women officer programs are also being offered for junior and senior students.

Building Permit for Garage Addition Issued

KAUKAUNA — A building permit was issued James George, 605 Hyland Ave., to construct a $4,000 addition to his garage by Gene Ditter, building inspector.

The 24 by 40 foot addition will be a steel building, erected by Keller Construction Co., Kaukauna, and architects will be Fenner-Brey Engineering Corp.

Kaukauna Man Fined Following Accident

KAUKAUNA — Clayton Frank, 26, 720 High St., pleaded guilty to driving at speeds too fast for conditions resulting in an accident and was fined $30 when arraigned before Clarence O'Connor, municipal justice, Wednesday.

Frank was arrested after he lost control of his car striking a parked vehicle.

Tax Hikes Hinted by Legislators

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — Gov. Warren P. Knowles and Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee staged a political debate in the Milwaukee Arena Thursday night, and the school children of Milwaukee won.

Speaking before 4,000 members of the Wisconsin Educational Association, Maier begged the teachers, educators and citizens of the state to support Milwaukee's "inner city" and named education as the greatest single weapon for winning the battle of the central city.

An emergency piece of legislation to provide a crash education program for Milwaukee will be prepared in the Legislature today, Knowles promised. The package contains $13.4 million for education with additional school aids for all districts of the state on an equitable basis and emergency measures for the special problems of Milwaukee's inner core.

Direct Aids

Knowles' tax package includes direct aids to Milwaukee schools totaling $3.4 million and $10 million added to the school-aid formula, of which Milwaukee will get $3 million in the next biennium.

Fully cognizant of the calculated political risk in the face of incurring the voters' wrath and threatening a state budget which is balanced for the first time in 14 years, Knowles said the funds will be sought through a shifting of funds in the state budget or by new tax legislation.

Knowles said he felt confident that the new legislation would be enacted within the next two weeks. He declined to elaborate on the method of raising the additional revenue.

Tax Hike Hinted

Democratic legislative leaders said today Knowles plans to boost beer and cigarette taxes to meet his school aid program.

A spokesman for Knowles, however, asserted the taxes were only among a number of possible taxes being considered to finance education needs.

Democratic leaders held a news conference to discuss what they described as Knowles' plan to increase beer taxes by 50

Vice President Hubert Humphrey leaps for joy after sinking a long putt during a golf match today in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. During the match he got in a round of golf course diplomacy and said the talk was "very fruitful." (AP Wirephoto)

Humphey Talks, Golfs In Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Malaysian officials got in a round of golf course diplomacy today. Humphrey said the talk was "very fruitful" but he and his aides lost the match. "We went down to defeat, but we went down in honor," Humphrey said. The vice president arrived Wednesday night from South Vietnam and goes to Indonesia Saturday.

The Malaysian team, which included Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak and Information Minister Senu Bin Abdul Rahman, won only because Rahman had been to "school in California," Humphrey joked.

Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman did not play because he has a badly sprained ankle. An avid golfer, Rahman customarily takes his visitors to the links and employs the relaxed atmosphere there to resolve disputed issues. There was no indication, though, of any points in dispute between Humphrey and the Malaysians.

After watching one of Razak's good drives, Humphrey said, "I'd like a little bit of technical aid from Malaysia." The remark may have been a reference to a promise by the prime minister that Malaysia, although it won't send troops to Vietnam, will go "all out" in assisting rural reconstruction programs in South Vietnam.

Humphrey's schedule today also included a visit to an agricultural college and the local institute of public health.

Invaders Near Capital

Congo Talks Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The government of the Congo has asked for a U.N. Security Council meeting to deal with an invasion by white and African soldiers from neighboring Portuguese Angola. Some U.N. diplomats expected the council to meet today.

Government sources in Kinshasa, the Congolese capital, said the invaders seized a train and some trucks and were bearing down on Lubumbashi, formerly from Lubumbashi.

Congolese troops were ordered to intercept the invading force, which diplomatic dispatches reaching the State Department said was made up of about 150 soldiers of fortune mustered in Angola.

Expresses Alarm

In Washington, Deputy Undersecretary of State Foy D. Kohler called in the Portuguese ambassador to express alarm and a U.S. spokesman said his government took a "grave view" of the developments.

Some observers believed the invasion's purpose was to relieve pressure on the force of about 130 white mercenaries, led by Col. Jean Schramme, and 950 Katangan soldiers allied with them who are besieged by 22,000 government troops at Bukavu, 600 miles north of Lubumbashi.

The mercenaries were reported to have suffered losses in a Congolese attack on their stronghold.

Schramme's men revolted in July against their employer, the Congo government, after Moise Tshombe, exiled former Congo premier and Katanga leader, was kidnaped from a plane and jailed in Algeria.

Reports of the invasion caused a stir among Asian and African delegates at the United Nations. They have repeatedly accused Portugal, which still rules three colonies in Africa, and other white governments of supporting Schramme's mercenaries.

After charges four months ago by the Congo that Tshombe was hiring mercenaries in Europe to be used against President Joseph Mobutu, the Security Council unanimously approved a resolution calling on all countries to bar such recruitment. Mobutu's government singled out Portugal, Spain and Belgium.

Laird Demands Spending Cut

LBJ Dared to 'Go to People' For Support on Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's appeal to the public to help him fight inflation by pressuring Congress for a tax increase is evoking a "let him try it" reaction from Republicans on Capitol Hill.

In an address to a consumers' convention Thursday the President asked the people to "make yourselves heard" in support of the tax increase and to join him in fighting against higher tariffs on imports.

Promise Veto

Johnson in effect promised to veto any tariff legislation that comes his way when he thumped the lectern and declared, "These bills must not become law—and they will not become law as long as I am President of this country."

Congressional Democrats were mostly silent about the President's remarks but Republicans expressed confidence Johnson would get burned if he tries to bring the wrath of the voters to bear on Congress in support of a tax increase.

"Let him go to the people with that issue," said Chairman Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, of the House Republican conference.

"We'll go to the people with our side of the same issue. We want to be sure any money raised by a tax increase is used to reduce the deficit and not for more spending. Then we'll talk about a tax increase," said Laird.

Economics Issue

Even among Democrats there is apparently still widespread doubt not only that voters favor a tax increase, but that they would forgive those who vote for it.

Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., author of one of several pending moves for a mandatory spending cut, said the basic issue is still economy, rather than a tax increase.

Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, senior Republican member of the Appropriations Committee, replied to a question about Johnson's appeal with another question: "Did he also appeal to people to demand cuts in spending?"

'Threaten Country'

In his remarks to the consumer group, the President said inflation and the possibility that tariffs may be raised "threaten our consumers and our country."

In the past, he said, it has been possible to lower taxes.

"But now there are pressures on the economy which demand that we ask for a portion of that tax cut back in the form of a surcharge," he said. He estimate that it would take one penny out of the average American's dollar. He has asked for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

Raising tariff barriers to foreign goods, the President said, would invite almost certain retaliation by other nations against American exports.

"Prices would rise," he said. "Our world market would shrink. So would the range of goods from which American consumers choose what they buy."

Implied Consent Debate Delayed

MADISON (AP) — The state Senate delayed action Thursday on a bill to require motorists arrested for drunken driving to submit to chemical intoxication tests.

The bill was scheduled to be debated again on the floor Tuesday after the upper house became entangled in confusing amendments to the proposal.

The measure would force topsy drivers to be tested for alcoholic content or face an automatic 90-day suspension of their driver's license. It would also set penalties for drunken driving up to six months in jail and a $200 fine.

N. Carolina City Hit by Violence

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Peace returned to downtown Winston-Salem this morning following a night of racial violence blamed on "hoodlums who have taken advantage of a situation." During the night, 34 persons, including seven policemen, were injured and 51 were arrested. Three Negroes were treated for gunshot wounds.

City officials said it might be several days before an accurate estimate could be made of damage caused by looting and fires. Fire Chief C. L. Williams said damage from about 55 fires alone probably would run "into the tens of thousands of dollars."

The violence began late Thursday following the burial of a Negro man who died after being struck by a policeman.

'Bunch of Hoodlums'

Mayor W. C. Benton said the trouble was started by "a bunch of hoodlums who have taken advantage of a situation. This is the excuse they have been waiting for."

Negro leaders had urged that the rioting stop.

About dawn this morning some 400 National Guardsmen and helmeted police encircled eight blocks in the downtown section of the city, widely known for its major cigarette factories. All persons entering the area were screened before being admitted.

Most officers were withdrawn later as businessmen and employes began going to work. By 8 a.m. the area was open to normal traffic.

Fire bombings and reports of sniper fire kept police and firemen busy in various sections of the city before daybreak. There was looting downtown and at two shopping centers.

The Guardsmen, from a Winston-Salem unit and a company from the nearby city of Statesville, were mobilized on the orders of North Carolina Gov. Dan Moore Thursday night.

The violence had erupted some four hours earlier following funeral services for a Negro who died after being struck by a policeman. Murder charges against the officer were dismissed but solicitor Thomas W. Moore Jr. said today the case would be revived because of "other evidence."

The trouble apparently started when a small group of Negroes gathered on a downtown street and began shouting and cursing. Then junk in a trash can was set afire and other Negroes joined the demonstration.

Wednesday Strike Possible at Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers bargained today under a Wednesday strike deadline to work out a contract based on the union's record settlement with Ford Motor Co.

The UAW announced Thursday it would strike Chrysler if a new pact is not agreed on by midnight Wednesday.

Brezhnev Attacks U.S. Mao

Soviets Celebrate Strength

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist Party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev claimed today that the Soviet Union has the world's best weapons and said Soviet assistance to the Vietnamese Communists will continue until U.S. forces leave Vietnam.

Speaking at a Kremlin meeting celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, Brezhnev also attacked Mao Tse-tung's leadership of China and renewed the Soviet party's call for the world Communist conference the Soviet leaders want to hold to condemn Mao's policies.

Leave Assembly

As Brezhnev accused Mao of a "chauvinistic and great-power course," Chinese Charge d'Affaires An Chi-yuan led his delegation out of the hall. The Chinese boycotted the opening anniversary ceremony Thursday.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, although invited, was not in the diplomatic gallery for attacks on the United States.

Brezhnev spoke [illegible] Soviet party's Central Committee, the Supreme Soviet, Parliament of the Soviet Union, the Supreme Court of the Russian Federation and Communist party delegations from 95 other countries.

His speech was billed as the main address of the six-day anniversary celebration which opened Thursday with the unveiling of a statue of Lenin and Closes Nov. 7, the anniversary date, with the traditional Red Square parade and Kremlin reception.

Highlights of Brezhnev's speech included:

The Soviet Army has the best weapons in the world.

In a war with any aggressor the Soviet Union will win a victory. Soviet assistance to Vietnam will continue until the American imperialists get out of Vietnam.

Another Conference

The Soviet Communist Party supports the idea of convening another international conference of Communists and is ready to do everything for its success.

"The chauvinistic and great-power course of Mao Tse-tung's group runs counter to the interests of the people's revolutionary struggle."

Brezhnev charged that China had hindered the Vietnamese Communists in their struggle against U.S. forces.

Service Taken Off Trains

Century-Old Mail Run Ends

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

More than a century of railroad mail service to northeastern Wisconsin will be terminated today in favor of a more extensive truck carrier service and sectional center distribution facilities.

The Chicago and North Western Railway Chicago-Green Bay Railroad Post Service (RPO), which was the only method mail was transported to this area up to the late 1930's, is following the route which more than 9,000 rail post offices have since the 1930's — elimination.

However, according to postal officials, unlike the majority which died because of termination of the rail line, the Chicago-Green Bay RPO was stopped by the U.S. Postal Department.

Change System

Once revolutionary in postal transportation, RPO's are now giving way to air travel, trucks, and a recently-established distribution system.

LeRoy Anderson, Minneapolis Postal District representative, said the growing volume of mail has necessitated a change in the transportation and distribution system.

Anderson noted that 200 million pieces of mail are handled daily in the U.S., and Appleton Postmaster Francis Sumnicht indicated his office handles 55 million pieces a year.

"The transportation concept has changed from the use of a network of rails and enroute distribution to sectional center distribution," he explained.

"The transition began slowly in the early 1960's with the institution of the sectional centers and the zip code," he said. He added that the sectional centers are "the guts" of the system based on the zip code.

The postal department began phasing out the Green Bay Chicago run about a month ago when the decision was made to eliminate the line's RPO after a recommendation by the office of the Chicago Postal Region.

The final trip for the line (No. 149 — Chicago to Green Bay and No. 216 — Green Bay to Chicago) will be completed at 10 p.m. today at Chicago. This ends a 103-year-old service.

According to the Nov. 26, 1864, Appleton Crescent, the Chicago North Western timetable indicated the start of a winter schedule mail-passenger train running north. The service started Nov. 28 but there was no schedule for southbound mail.

Postal officials report that only three trains with RPO service are left in Wisconsin; all are on the Milwaukee Road and run from Milwaukee to Minneapolis.

Use Direct Sacks

Anderson said mail service will not be hindered, even in a city like Appleton which is not a section center. He explained that several major cities use the direct sack method so that the mail stops only mementarly at the section centers — Appleton's is at Oshkosh.

"The mail makes a dock transferral, which means it is only switched to another truck at the sectional center, not handled and re-sorted," he said.

Sumnicht said the Appleton Post Office works up about 300 direct sacks daily to allow speedier mail service to densely populated areas.

Anderson emphasized that mail service must be thought of "in terms of a time relationship, not a spatial relationship."

"This is why the postal service has made the transition to the sectional center facilities," he said. "Our only interest is efficient and fast mail service."

The steady decrease in railroad-mail facilities has seen a similar increase in the non-rail transportation of mail. "The U.S. now has about 161,000 government-owned and privately leased vehicles delivering mail," Anderson explained, adding that the government-owned vehicles distribute only within a city.

He said that a unit-for-unit

Blast Sprays Glass Over Tots' Room

NEW LONDON — Two young girls escaped injury Wednesday night when a firecracker taped to a storm window of their bedroom at the J. P. Vander Zanden home, 501 W. Beacon Ave., shattered the storm window and inside window.

A dresser situated between their bed and the window shielded them from the shower of glass.

Earlier this year a firecracker was exploded in the storm door of the Vander Zanden home. He is principal at New London Senior High School.

A similar incident occurred Halloween night at the home of Robert Schierenbeck, 411 S. Shawano St., a teacher at the Emanuel Lutheran School.

5 Youths Admit Felling 3 Trees

NEW LONDON — Five youths who cut down three trees in Hatten Park Halloween night have been referred to their parents by city police.

The boys, all juveniles, admitted the incident to city police after questioning Wednesday at senior high school.

County Plans Request for Mosquito Hill Park Funds

LAWCON Might Aid in Acquisition

A favorable recommendation on federal Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) funds will be sought for the proposed Mosquito Hill park project Monday from the state's Outdoor Recreation Advisory Council at Madison.

A presentation will be made at 1:30 p.m. by Frank Hedgcock of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission and Allen Bubolz, vice chairman of the county board's Parks and Recreation Committee.

The advisory council makes the final recommendation on LAWCON funds to the Federal Bureau of Recreation. Hedgcock said the bureau has in the past accepted the advisory council's recommendations. He added there is a strong possibility of the council making a decision on a recommendation immediately following the county's presentation.

Additional Funds

Hedgcock also indicated it was possible to get LAWCON funds, which may equal 50 per cent of land acquisition costs, committed over a five-year period. A requirement, he said, is that the last parcel of land in the package be purchased before the end of five years.

With the Madison meeting coming on the first day of the county's annual budget session, Supv. Joseph DeBruin, chairman of the parks committee, said he would seek to have county board discussion on the parks budget delayed until Tuesday.

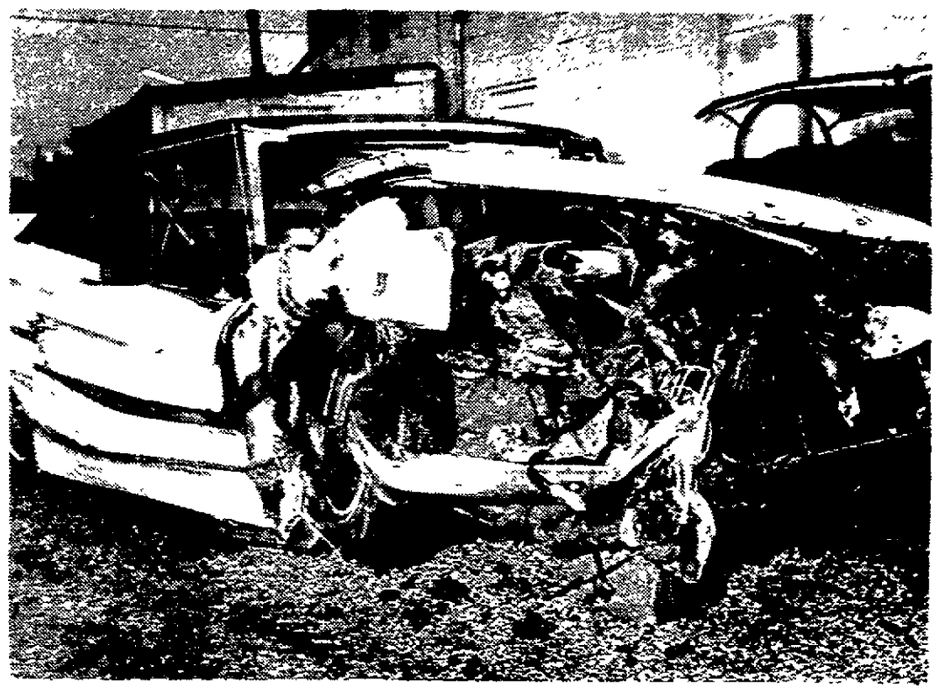

DeBruin indicated the committee would submit a resolution to the county board asking that $75,000 be restored to the parks budget for purchase of the Mosquito Hill property. Monies for the project had been cut from the budget by the Finance Committee.

64 Cent Hike

Bubolz said the $75,000 represented 64 cents for each resident of the county.

Private funds of at least $25,000 also have been promised for the purchase of the 435 acre site on the Wolf River near New London.

A meeting has been called for Monday night of interested citizens toward raising private funds which would be turned over to the county.

Must Become Political Force

Teacher Responsibility, Not Militancy, Brown Declares

BY FERN SMITH
Post Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — Teacher responsibility rather than militancy is the one ingredient Wisconsin teachers need to improve their economic and professional status, they were told Thursday by George Brown Jr., public relations director for the Michigan Educational Association.

"Teachers want to be heeded, not run the school, but have a voice in all educational matters," he told a group of 300 who had come to hear him talk on "Wisconsin teachers and Militancy."

He added that they must become a strong political force and most of their action should be developed outside of their school districts.

"You should be ready to go to any length to accomplish the best education for every child you teach," he said. He promised they would also have to use dramatic measures to enlist public support.

"Teachers are now equal at the bargaining table under Michigan and Wisconsin law he continued, there is no one superintendent or board member, who is one step higher."

More support for education from the public, and a new source of revenue, were listed as the prime objectives of teacher associations in his state and throughout the nation.

"Property tax has had it as a source of school support," Brown explained. "If your district gets more than 50 per cent of its support from a tax levy, you are in trouble. Schools are dependant on the most miserable form of support, the property tax. It is the only tax which the public has any say in setting the rate," he said.

Master contracts for teachers who belong to associations are negligable in Wisconsin and have been the basis for most of the reasons for the 37 strikes which occurred in Michigan this past year. Twenty-five of the "work stoppages" were called by associations.

"Its going to get worse in Michigan and in other states that are just beginning to move toward negotiating for rights and salaries into master contracts," Brown said.

"In Michigan the association has a legal budget allocation of $225,000 — and we are going to need every penny of it. No individual teacher contract has any more strength than a master contract will provide."

Clintonville Picks Health Officer

CLINTONVILLE — Dr. Irving Auld was elected city health officer by members of the medical staff of the Clintonville Community hospital at a meeting Wednesday morning.

He succeeds Dr. R. I. Reichle, who resigned when he left here to open a practice in Appleton.

New London Youth, 18, Fined in Traffic Court

NEW LONDON — David A. Waterstradt, 18, 1113 S. Pearl St., was fined $46 in Municipal Justice Court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty of two city traffic violations.

City police had arrested Waterstradt Oct. 26 on an arterial violation and for operating over the centerline. The arterial violation was at the Wolf River Avenue and Pearl Street traffic light and the other occurred on N. Water Street.

William H. Emanuel, Tomah, past state commander of the Wisconsin American Legion, will be the speaker Nov. 10 at a Veterans' Day program at Clintonville Senior High School. The program will be sponsored by the Tilleson - Streniow - Klitz American Legion Post.

Blaze Destroys Barn at Chilton

Chopper Wagon, Baled Straw Lost In Morning Fire

CHILTON — An early morning blaze today destroyed an old 40 by 90 foot barn owned by Leo Vogt, route 4, near the Wallace Martin property on County Trunk Y about 1½ miles east of here.

Vogt reported the barn, used primarily for storage, contained about 500 bales of straw and a chopper wagon.

The alarm was turned in by a hunter who discovered the fire about 7:30 a.m. Cause of the fire was not known and the loss has not been determined.

The alarm was answered by three trucks from the Chilton Volunteer Fire Department. With the aid of a westerly wind the firemen were able to keep the fire from spreading to the Martin home which is about 100 yards from the barn.

Proxmire to Help Race

Fund-Raising Dinner Dec. 2 In Fond du Lac

FOND DU LAC — Sen. William Proxmire will be the main speaker at a fund raising dinner Dec. 2 to launch former Rep. John Race's attempt to regain his seat in Congress, a Race campaign spokesman announced Thursday.

Proxmire is a frequent maverick from the Democratic Party and administration fold, and Race's congressional campaign is being organized without full support from the Sixth District Democratic Party.

The kickoff dinner will be held in the Sacred Heart Parish hall here, according to Gordon Lyons, chairman of the newly-formed John Race for Congress Committee. The committee filed its papers with the secretary of state in Madison Monday.

Race was defeated by Rep. William A. Steiger, Oshkosh Republican, a year ago after Race had served a single term.

While some leaders of the party in the district have openly disapproved the Race candidacy, efforts to find an opposing candidate to force a primary election contest in April have been unsuccessful.

Conference in Court House

Clergy to Study Calumet Services

CHILTON — Health and welfare, law enforcement and agriculture policy will be discussed at the Calumet County Community and Church Leaders Conference Monday at the assembly room in the court house.

The Rev. Allan Patriquin, Wisconsin Council of Churches, Madison, has cooperated with Orrin Meyer, Calumet County agent, in setting up the conference to familiarize the clergy with county programs.

Ten clergymen from Calumet County, two laymen and Meyer have been working throughout the summer and early fall preparing for the all-day session. Their committee is known as the Calumet County Clergy, Wisconsin Council of Churches.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the conference will open with an invocation by the Rev. Robert Novotney, St. Martin Lutheran Church, Chilton.

Health, Welfare

Health and welfare in Calumet County will be the subjects for discussion in the morning session. Members of the panel will be the Rev. Gene A. Becker, Peace United Church of Christ, Potter, mental health; Miss Elizabeth Behnke, Calumet County nurse; Milton Hesslink, Calumet County Homestead superintendent; Mrs. James Toth, Toth Nursing Home, Miss Florence Woelfel, director, Department of Public Welfare, and Mrs. Kenneth Wood, department of welfare social worker.

A question and answer period will complete the discussion.

The afternoon session will discuss law enforcement. Panel members will be County Judge D. H. Sebora; Dist. Atty., F. J. Schmeider, Sheriff Irvan Vice and Wilford Elliot, attorney.

Topics of discussion are "Current Reovit Against Authority," "The Lawyer and Policemen in Court," and "The Law is Broken — What Now?"

Heading the agriculture policy discussions will be cooperatives, Russell Gasch; Farm Bureau, Edgar Stembach; farm credit, Ray Weisenbeck; National Catholic Rural Life Conference, Martin Salm, and National Farmers Organization, Joseph H. Juckem.

Benediction will be given by the Rev. Charles Koch, New Holstein.

Calumet County clergyman and two lay leaders have been invited from each church and congregation to attend the conference.

Receive Certificate At Conservation Camp

STOCKBRIDGE — Six high school sophomores and juniors who recently attended Trees for Tomorrow Conservation Camp, sponsored by Wisconsin Public Service Corporation, have received certificates of achievement for the school for their performance at the session.

Attending were Charles Propson, Leo Van Hoorn, Robert Eldred, Michael Thiel, Anthony Hemauer and Tom Tittman.

Deer Killed When Hit By Car at New London

NEW LONDON — Mrs. Thomas McCormick, 109 E. Spring St., escaped injury early Thursday morning when her car struck an eight-point buck deer as she was driving south on County Truck D. The deer was killed.

City police, who investigated the accident for Waupaca County Police, said the deer ran in front of the McCormick car about 2½ miles south of the city. Damage to the car was estimated at more than $100.

Quality Cheese Can Demand Good Price

USDA Expert Tells Producers to Maintain Standards or Watch Substitutes Take Over

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Quality and price are close relatives, the state's cheese industry was advised here Friday by a U. S. Department of Agriculture official.

"The cheese industry has never been in a better position to demand good prices for good quality," asserted Harold Meister, Washington, D. C., chief of inspection and grading in the USDA's Dairy Division.

Meister spoke at the 76th annual convention of the Wisconsin Cheesemakers Association at the Hotel Northland.

"Wisconsin has been a leader in dairy product quality, a historic and basic accomplishment," he remarked. "But the job of maintaining high quality is an endless one. The dairy industry must constantly work to do its best, or stand by and watch substitute products take over."

Meister mentioned new tests to avoid problems in cheesemaking. He urged constant vigilance to maintain milk quality at the plant as well as on the farm and in transit. The better equipment now available, he added, makes it easier to produce cheese of top grade.

"That's where you get your money back, Meister stressed.

Elmer Beery, Shawano, vice president of the state association, needled the government man a bit. "There is danger to our industry in poor import cheese. Who in Washington is concerned about this?" Beery wondered.

Numerous people are concerned, Meister replied. He noted that Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has introduced a bill that would provide for a closer check on imports.

"We don't have the legislative authority now for the secretary of agriculture to do the same job on dairy products as the meat inspection service has on meats," he explained.

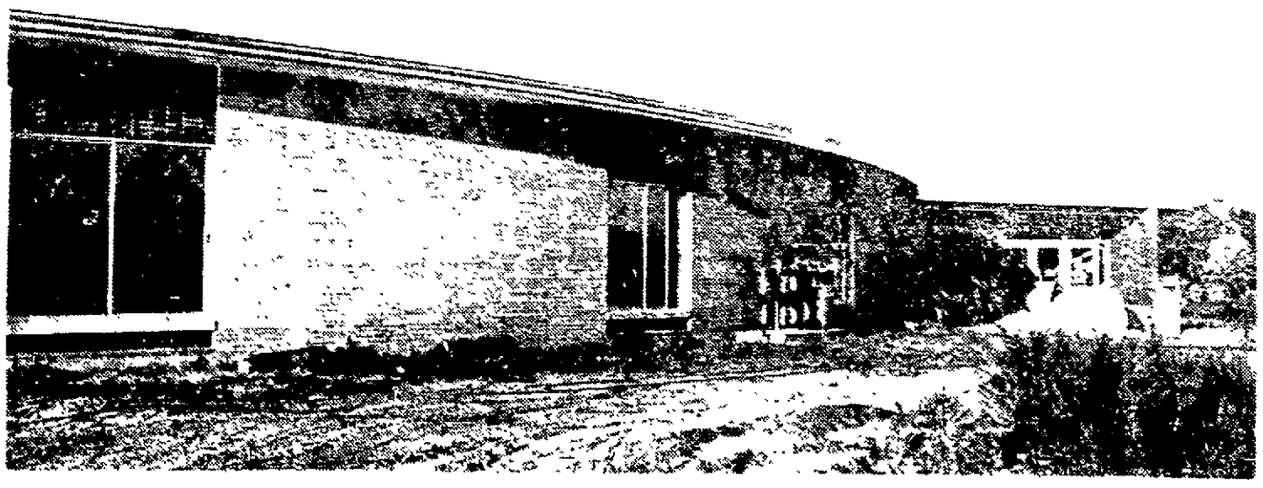

Meister commented that the Food and Drug Administration has the responsibility of making spot checks on cheese and other dairy products. "They have found some products unfit for consumption and have turned them back," he stated.

Building Permit Appeals to be Aired Monday

NEW LONDON — The city board of appeals will hear two cases starting at 2 p.m. Monday at city hall as two residents request action to overturn building inspector rulings on building permits.

Gregory M. Charlesworth, 917 Law St., is asking the board to grant him permission to construct a 10 by 20 foot carport on an existing garage.

James B. Edminster had previously petitioned the appeals board to rule favorably on a request for a building permit for a home and attached garage which would be larger than city ordinance allows on a 80 by 120-foot lot.

Wautoma's New High School of circular design is expected to be completed soon. District officials hope to move into the building in November. (Sroda Photo)

Chilton Schools Strive For Rapport Between Teachers and Parents

CHILTON — A "Get Acquainted" night, planned to foster a closer relationship between public school teachers and parents, is scheduled from 7 and 9 p.m. Nov. 9.

Parents will meet with teachers to discuss subjects that may be important to their youngsters. This is not considered as parent-teacher conferences, authorities said. The conferences will be scheduled at a later date.

Parents have been invited to attend the coffee hour in the cafeteria sponsored by the PTA.

Rebuilding Program

4 Lettermen Nucleus Of Bulldog Mat Squad

NEW LONDON — With only four wrestling lettermen returning, coach Ronald Zahn is looking to a rebuilding season at senior high school.

Zahn and new assistant, Keith Sjoholm, will be banking on Jim Crain, Jeff Curler, Tom Hobbs and Mark Marasch to provide the experience for the 1967-68 Bulldog grapplers. The four, all in lower weight classes, were among the more consistent winners last season.

Practice began Tuesday for non-football players and the full squad will assemble Monday. Zahn expects about 40 candidates.

The season opener will be a non-conference match at Pulaski Nov. 17. Green Bay Premontre will provide the first home test Nov. 30. New Holstein will appear here Dec. 5 and Berlin will be host to the Bulldogs Dec. 8.

Two Rivers, Shawano, Clintonville and New London will participate in a quadrangular match here Dec. 16. Wittenberg will be here Dec. 21; at Menasha, Jan. 4; Kimberly here Jan. 11; at Kaukauna Jan. 18; Neenah here Jan. 25, and North Fond du Lac here Jan. 30.

The New London Invitational for eight teams is set for Jan. 13. The Bulldogs will participate in the Schofield, D. C. Everest, tournament Jan. 20 and the Mid-Eastern Conference tournament Feb. 3 at Menasha.

Seymour's King Second in NEW Scoring

Bonduel's Betzner Finishes Fourth In Pass Receiving

Seymour quarterback Pete King finished second in scoring and fourth in passing, according to final Northeastern Wisconsin Conference statistics.

The junior signal-caller, who led the Indians to a 4-4 mark in league play, scored seven touchdowns and three conversions, for 45 points. His total was nine points short of the 54 tallied by Dan Coopman, quarterback of unbeaten champion Oconto Falls.

King also completed 46 of 109 pass attempts for 472 yards. Jim Gillespie of West De Pere wound up as the loop's best thrower with 59 completions in 114 tries for 868 yards. Bonduel's Ken Boettcher ended up sixth, with 36 hits in 66 attempts.

Other Seymour and Bonduel players showed up in the top statistics. The Indians' senior Wes Nielsen scored 37 points for fourth place and rushed for 440 yards in 112 carries, also good for fourth place. He was the best in the league in kick-off returns with 237 yards on 14 attempts.

Catches 21 Passes

Bonduel's Tom Betzner took fourth place in yards gained in receiving, with 281 on 21 catches. Glen Van Handel of West De Pere was tops with 24 receptions for 473 yards and three touchdowns.

Rushing honors went to John Pfarr, Sturgeon Bay, who amassed 543 yards on 141 carries. Seymour's Dan Haegle was sixth, having piled up 380 yards in 102 attempts.

Oconto Falls, which finished with a perfect (8-0) season, dominated the team statistics. The Panthers averaged over 27 points per game (218 total) while allowing only two touchdowns to be scored against them all year (13 points).

Seymour, which finished in a 3-way tie for fourth place, tallied 120 points to its opponents' 134. Bonduel, with only one win in seven games, managed just 39 points while giving up 133.

Diplomats To Play at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Junior and senior high school teachers will play the Harlem Diplomats basketball team, led by Goose Tatum Jr., at 8 p.m. Nov. 10 at the high school gymnasium.

The Diplomats are billed as one of the top teams to come out of Canada.

The Men Teachers' Association is sponsoring the game with the profits going for annual scholarships.

This is the only fund raising project the group plans this year. Advance tickets are on sale at $1 for students and $1.25 for adults. The price will increase 25 cents at the door the night of the game.

538 Series Paces Women Bowlers At Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — Loraine Gilbertson posted a 212 game, en route to a 538 series for high honors in the Ladies All Star League at Radtke's Recreation Monday night.

Willard Wilde finished with a 573 total for high series in the Community League.

Will Purchatzke led the way in the Businessmen's League with a 213 singleton and 576 series.

Other top scores were Mel Richter, 565; John Sullivan, 243-564; Jot Pleshek, 555, and Dr. Ted Raschke, 541.

High series in the Fremont Major League was Clarence Radtke's 564.

Trucker Harriers Awarded Letters

Major letters were earned by Pete Berton, Rod Christianson, Mark Fandrey, Kevin Korb, Mark Paape, Tom Mack, Dale Prey, Doug Olson, and Clyde Tellock, manager.

Minor awards were presented to Ray Buss, Roger Buss, John Kirchner, Terry Olson, Carl Rieck, Paul Smith, Burr Tolles, and Bill Sparks.

Clintonville Man Named to Post at Lakeland College

SHEBOYGAN — A Clintonville native, Richard L. Sanders, has been named acting registrar at Lakeland College here.

Prior to his appointment, Sanders was an instructor in the department of education at the college. He has been with the college since September and was a research associate with the Milwaukee Public Schools before that.

He received his bachelor's degree from Wisconsin State University-Eau Claire and his master of science degree in secondary education from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. He is presently working on his doctorate with Marquette University.

In Nine-County Area

Surplus Food Distribution Hits One Million Pound Mark for 1967

NEW LONDON — Surplus food distribution in a nine-county area surpassed one million pounds for 1967, United Counties Distributors (UCD), private distribution agent for county welfare departments, reports.

October participation of 6,860 recipients and delivery of 123,011 pounds of United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) commodities raised the yearly total to 63,600 participants and 1,062,236 pounds of produce.

The October poundage was the greatest since 124,510 pounds were distributed in May, 1966. However, participation at that time was 8,654. Participation last month was a 15-month high for the program.

Other Counties

Outagamie County participation increased by 87 to 927 people and poundage went from 14,248 in September to 15,124 last month. Winnebago County participation slipped nine to 843, while poundage decreased 294 to 14,363. Waupaca County also experienced a decreased with participation dropping from 713 in September to 685 in October, and poundage down 370 pounds to 12,088.

Waushara was the only other county to drop in program participation, slipping to 310 people and 5,973 pounds of produce, compared with 326 and 6,293 pounds in September.

Fond du Lac County had 46 more people, a total of 740, received 12,701 pounds of staples in October, up from 11,675 pounds the previous month. Portage County participation hit 577 in October, up seven, and poundage totaled 10,502, an increase of 103 pounds.

Change in Beans

Thomas said the only change in commodities available to program participants was the substitution of red kidney beans for pea-beans.

He announced the November delivery schedule for area people:

Nov. 6 — New London, Waupaca County residents, 9 a.m. to noon.

Nov. 7 — Northport, 8 to 8:15 a.m.; Royalton, 8:30 to 8:45 a.m.; Waupaca, 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; Weyauwega, 1:15 to 2 p.m.; Fremont, 2:15 to 2:30 p.m.; and Readfield, 2:45 to 3 p.m.

Manawa Distribution

Nov. 8 — Manawa, 8:30 to 10 a.m.; Ogdensburg, 10:30 to 11 a.m.; Scandinavia, 11:30 a.m. to noon; and Iola, 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

Nov. 9 — Marion, 9 to 9:30 a.m.; and Clintonville, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Nov. 10 — Oshkosh, northside delivery, 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Nov. 13 — Oshkosh, southside, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.; Omro, noon to 2 p.m.; and Winneconne, 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Nov. 14 — Neenah, 8:30 a.m. to noon; and Menasha, 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Nov. 17 — New London, Outagamie County residents, 9 to 11 a.m.

Nov. 20 — Appleton, Pierce Park delivery, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.; and Hortonville, 3:30 to 4 p.m.

Nov. 21 — Appleton, airport, 8:30 to 11 a.m.; Kaukauna, 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.; and Freedom, 2:30 to 3 p.m.

Nov. 22 — Oneida, 8 to 10:30 a.m.; Seymour, 11 a.m. to noon; Black Creek, 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.; Shiocton, 2 to 2:30 p.m.; and Bear Creek, 3 to 3:30 p.m.

Guest Speakers Set

Mission Sunday Slated In Clintonville Church

CLINTONVILLE — Mission Emphasis Sunday will be observed at Bethany Evangelical Free Church at all services under the direction of the church's mission committee.

Missionary guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelson and family, Cohasset, Minn., missionary candidates to Honduras under the Central American Mission. In Honduras they will be working primarily in education.

The missionaries will participate in the 9:45 a.m. Sunday School Hour and the 11 a.m. worship, and they will conduct the entire gospel service at 8 p.m. Sunday. The public may attend.

Missionary to Brazil

The Rev. Robert Norris, former pastor of the Apostolic Tabernacle here and missionary to Brazil, will speak at special services at the Tabernacle at 7:30 p.m. today, Saturday and Sunday. The public may attend.

The Rev. and Mrs. Norris, in Brazil for five years, are on furlough. Before going to Brazil, the Rev. Mr. Norris served as pastor of the Clintonville Apostolic Tabernacle from July, 1956, through April, 1962.

"Paul Praises the Gospel Ministry" will be the sermon of the Rev. Wilbert Werling at the 10:45 a.m. Sunday worship of the St. Paul Lutheran Church at the Veterans Memorial Building.

Theme for the Sunday services at 7:30, 8:45 (communion) and 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. (communion) of the St. Martin Lutheran Church at the school gymnasium will be "Living A Useful Life for the Lord's Sake."

Weyauwega Man Injured in Crash Near Fremont

WAUPACA — William F. Beisner, 38, 411 E. Wisconsin St., Weyauwega, suffered possible neck injuries when his car was struck from behind Wednesday as he slowed for a turning school bus near Fremont.

Beisner was traveling west on U. S. 10 at 4 p.m., a mile west of Fremont, when his car was struck from behind by a car driven by Dale M. Hanneman, 18, Wisconsin Rapids.

Beisner told county police that his car and two cars ahead of him had slowed down for the school bus that was about to make a left turn when he was struck from behind. Police advised Beisner to see a doctor after he complained of a sore neck.

Damages to the two cars was estimated at over $1,000.

Therapist Addresses Black Creek School Parent-Teacher Group

BLACK CREEK — Mrs. Marion Vanden Hoven, speech therapist in the Seymour Community Schools district, was guest speaker for the Parent-Teacher Organization of the Black Creek Elementary School last Thursday evening.

Mrs. Lloyd Glatz was hostess. Present officers are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Zuleger, president; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stephoni, vice president, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Schnabl, secretary-treasurer.

Wittenberg Couple At Phone Convention

WITTENBERG — Raymond Peterson, Wittenberg Telephone Co. manager, and his wife, were among about 4,500 executives of the United States Independent Telephone Associations at the 70th Annual Convention at Las Vagas recently.

The Petersons and about 50 other members of the Independent Pioneers, a branch of the Association, took a 7-day excursion to Honolulu and Waikiki Beach, Hawaii, before the convention.

Dale Firemen's Banquet

DALE — The Volunteer Firemen held their annual banquet Friday night. Town officials and their wives were guests.

Forest Junction Museum Site Eyed by Historical Society

FOREST JUNCTION — Members of the Calumet County Historical Society met Wednesday with the Civic League and Mrs. Robert Haese to explore possibilities of converting the "Haese Pioneer Village" into a local museum.

Financing the project is the major obstacle and was the main topic of discussion. The Haese property has been appraised at $15,000 and the society at the present time is building a museum for antique farm machinery at Chilton and needs money for that project.

Mrs. Haese said it is necessary to sell the property to settle the estate and needs a decision soon. Other buyers have made offers. Further study is planned by the society.

Those attending the meeting were Art Kopf, Denton Aebischer, Carl Peik, Mrs. Marion Rathert and Mrs. Alyce Buttler representing the society. Lester Keller, president, Mrs. Allen Schneider and Don Weber, vice presidents, and Mrs. Lester Keller, secretary, represented the Forest Junction group.

Bee Kill by Insecticides Studied by Honey Producers

State Association Appoints Committee to Probe Problem

BY PAT DUFFEY
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

The Wisconsin Honey Producers Association selected committees to consult with the state pickle growers and another to study a marketing proposal as it would up its 89th annual convention here Thursday afternoon.

One committee will work to establish guidelines with the pickle growers on use of pesticides. The other will report its marketing findings at spring and summer meetings next year and bring recommendations to the next annual meeting.

Dr. Floyd E. Moeller, head of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Central State Bee Laboratory located on the University of Wisconsin campus, outlined specific proposals aimed at future coordination between beekeepers and canning firms on the latter's chemical treatment of cash crops.

$2,000,000 Loss

On the heels of his return from a trip through Europe to investigate bee research there, Dr. Moeller had a costly experience this fall which could be repeated on a lesser scale by a number of producers.

In one day the loss from bees which had been pollinating a corn crop a half mile from a research center while it was being treated with a pesticide to rid the crop of cornworm, exceeded the $2 million mark.

Dr. Moeller valued the 2,000 of the 3,000 queen bees he lost at $1,000 each. In addition 150 queens in nuclei were lost, 120 colonies were infected and since egg laying declines during this time of year in the hives, the remaining population is slim.

Lose 100,000 Colonies

He doubted if many of the remaining bees would make it through the winter in their weakened condition. Pollen samples taken from the bees and tested by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture found that the level of contamination was seven times higher then the lethal dose needed to perform the test for which it was intended.

He testified to the loss of 100,000 colonies in the Southwest due to similar causes. Bees are becoming increasingly used to pollinate cash crops because tests have shown it increases the yield.

Dr. Moeller is expected to use the proposals adopted by the state honey producers in making recommendations to the state pickle growers and state canners at their state conventions later this year. He is scheduled to address both.

Producers Request

The honey producers will ask the canners and growers to:

—Follow information given them in February and March on present and future locations of honey bee colonies;

—Plant sweet corn at the earliest possible date in the areas of large bee populations and later in lesser populated areas.

—After the crops are planted notify the beekeepers or state apiarist of the exact time the crops will be chemically treated.

—Use a minimum of chemical sprays in late August or September and resort to more line inspection rather than sprays when the insect threat is low.

—Use spray rather than dust to treat crops and apply it in the late afternoon or evening. (The dust can drift to neighboring fields and increase chances of bee mortality. The bees "work" heaviest in the warm morning and early afternoon hours.)

To Conduct Study

In a related proposal the association's pollination committee was instructed to attend "all meetings of mutual interest between growers and the beekeeping industry and recommend guidelines or regulations to protect the interests of all parties concerned for later presentation to the association. The association also will seek information concerning potential crop pollination on the state's numerous cash crop acreages.

An association committee will conduct a study of a state marketing order and report findings at the spring and summer meetings next year and present recommendations at the next annual meeting.

Enabling Legislation

Francis Haugh from the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture marketing division explained that enabling legislation for marketing orders had been passed in the 1960-61 session. It is used as an economic tool for a commodity organization, he explained. Its use is limited to advertising, promotion, research and education.

The red tart cherry and cranberry industries have marketing orders presently operating in the state.

The WDA collects the funds in these marketing orders and enforces its provisions, he explained.

Tax Rate Hike Inevitable at Clintonville

$3.75 Increase Per $1,000 for School Levies

CLINTONVILLE — Without any increases in spending for city, county and state purposes, city property owners will be faced with a $3.75 tax rate increase for 1968.

All of the increase, which could go higher after local spending has been determined, can be attributed to school tax demands. The city will be required to pay $531,989 as its share of the local school district levy, an increase of $66,753, and $34,304 to the vocational district. In addition, $3,800 will be required to meet vocational tuition from this year before the vocational districts were formed.

The tax rate had been $32.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

The proposed city budget will be read at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Fewer Accidents

Death Toll on Waupaca Roads Same as 1966

WAUPACA — The death of an Appleton woman and two children Saturday on U.S. 10 near Weyauwega raised the Waupaca County death toll for the year to 11, the same as last year at this same time.

The total number of accidents however is down from 504 at the end of 10 months of last year to 489 this year, according to Capt. John Penney, of the Waupaca County Highway Patrol.

During October, 67 accidents were investigated; of these, 62 were investigated by County Traffic Patrolmen, and five by the State Traffic Patrol. In addition to the three deaths, 17 persons were injured in accidents involving 88 vehicles.

Waupaca County Police made 63 traffic arrests, five criminal arrests, issued 65 warnings, and 35 five-day tickets to drivers. Other duties performed included 21 blood runs, 18 funeral escorts, four other escorts, directing traffic at seven fires, transporting 20 prisoners, and assisting 26 motorists in trouble.

The seven squad cars operated by the patrol were driven 21,233 miles during the month of October.

Sohrweide Honored

New London Tavernman Wins Grand National Award

NEW LONDON — Wisconsin's "Mister Tavern Owner" William Sohrweide, operator of the Friendly Place here, proved persistence pays off this week as he gained the cherished "Grand National Tavern Owner of the Year" award at the national convention in Denver, Colo.

Sohrweide has been state winner three times and finished second in national competition twice. This year he took top honors.

He worked an entire year planning the "Tavern Month" promotions which gained him the honor in competition with 40,000 entries.

His "good morning" welcomes patrons to his modest establishment — morning, noon or night. It is one of his trademarks. Good food, tasty pie and customers always willing to engage in a friendly argument are others.

A cash award and plaque may hardly seem worth the effort to many people, but Sohrweide takes particular pride in being known as "Mister Tavernkeeper", and should.

One problem he is facing, though, is adding a wall to his building just to display the numerous plaques, pictures and awards he has collected during the past four years.

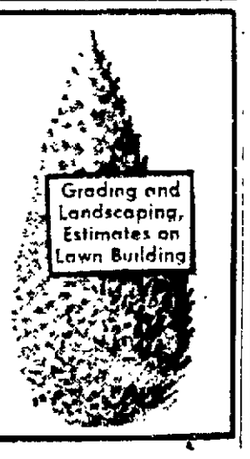

Clintonville ACs Plan Awards Program

CLINTONVILLE — The Clintonville Athletic Club will have a meeting and awards night at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Wishing Well.

Awards will be presented to members of the Fast Pitch league.

The 1968 season will be discussed. And, the basketball season plans will be finalized.

Counseling Is Required for Tipsy Drivers

Post-Crescent Correspondent

MADISON — Wisconsin drivers who have had their drivers licenses revoked after conviction for driving while under the influence of intoxicants will not have them reinstated until they have had special counseling, under a new regulation adopted by the Motor Vehicle Department.

Details are now being worked out by Dan Schutz, director of the Motor Vehicle Department's Safety Division, and the State Alcoholism Services.

It was unanimously approved by the advisory committee to the Department of Health and Social Services Wednesday. "That the Motor Vehicle Department initiate mandatory consultation services for all persons convicted of a drunken driving charge, where investigation shows there is a drinking problem."

This service will be provided jointly by the Motor Vehicle Department and Alcoholism Services, Division of Mental Hygene, which will be responsible for training special counselors.

All-Out Effort

In an all-out effort to curb Wisconsin's mounting traffic toll and make driving safer on state highways, the Motor Vehicle Department has searched for a way to keep the drinking driver from behind the wheel. Under present law, the license of a driver who has been convicted of driving while drunk is revoked for a year. Under the new plan, no revokee's license will be reinstated until he has been counseled by the specially-trained staff.

The Motor Vehicle Department will be empowered to do this by extending the administrative code. It will not require new legislation.

Faced by the fact that 58 per cent of the drivers in Wisconsin highway fatalities during the past two years had been drinking, and that the threat of having licenses revoked had done little or nothing to curb the problem, the Motor Vehicle Department joined in the total state program for prevention and early detection of alcoholism.

It is a positive tool for safety control, law enforcement officials feel.

Action Needed

Judge A. L. Twesme, Whitehall, Trempealeau County, a member of the advisory committee, said "stronger action than a recommendation for special counseling is needed. We need to do something now about this captive group.

"Any driver convicted of drunken driving charges today looses his license for one year and that's all. If he has a drinking problem, counselors trained to do the job can help. We are not talking about the man or woman who is out on the town for one night and gets caught. We are talking about those people who have trouble with their drinking and here we have a chance to teach them the facts about alcoholism. It can save their lives and certainly protect the lives of others."

In 1966, 25,203 licenses were suspended in Wisconsin, and 10,646 of these were 12-months mandatory suspensions. The Motor Vehicle Department has not broken down the latter figure as to the number of convicted drunken driving charges, but a spokesman for the department said today that they estimate more than 50 per cent were in that classification.

Since January, an investigation of fatalities in a single driver accident has shown that four out of five drivers had been drinking. This is not a 100 per cent test of victims, however, and a bill is now before the Legislature making it mandatory that coroners make blood tests of all drivers, passengers and pedestrians killed in state traffic accidents.

200 Attend Halloween Party At Dale Hall

DALE — About 200 children attended the Halloween party at the Community Hall Tuesday with several receiving prizes in the costume contest.

Prizes for most appropriate costume went to Sandy and Sherri Seehawer and Cindy Schroeder, first prize, and Glen Herzfeldt, second prize; best homemade costume, Sheryl Ashauer, and Richard Kuettl; best ready made, James Coenen and Tina Endrick; most original, Christine Schreiber and Donna Swinford; cleverest, Joyce Krueger and Linda Diem; funniest, Duane Grossman and Charles Leiby; most unusual, Vicki and Vonnie Friemark and Jeff Wilkie, and group prize, Pamela and Paula Goddard and Kathy Abraham.

Judges were Mrs. Orville Emmons, Mrs. Arthur Felsner and Mrs. Harold Kloehn.

Waupaca Entry Loses District PPK Contest

WAUPACA — Hopes of sending a punt, pass and kick, champion to area competition faded Saturday at the Milwaukee district contest when Peter Peterson, Amherst, was defeated in the 12-year-old competition.

He won the division contest here and the zone competition at Stevens Point but was defeated at district level by Bob Schmidt of Brown Deer.

This was the highest a Waupaca County entry has progressed in the event's seven year history.

Paper Mills Fight Pollution

10 Per Cent of Improvement Funds Used in Program

Special to The Post-Crescent

MADSON — More than 10 per cent of the money Wisconsin's pulp and paper mills lay out for capital improvements is being spent on anti-pollution equipment and research, according to a survey by financial experts of the state's 49 pulp and paper manufacturers.

Cooperating in the survey with paper industry statisticians were Arthur Andersen & Co., Dun & Bradstreet and three state agencies — the Resource Development Department, the Department of Taxation and the Wisconsin Industrial Commission.

Commenting on the findings by Norman Hoefferle, vice president of Flambeau Paper Co., Park Falls, and general chairman of an association, the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service said. "Last year, pulp and paper mills spent a record $78,715,000 for land, plant, equipment, inventories, and so forth.

Pollution Abatement

"Of this total, according to the state Resource Development Department's water resources division, our companies spent $6,914,000 for new pollution abatement equipment and $1,089,000 for research."

Hoefferle pointed out that these water improvement expenditures give "ample evidence" the Wisconsin paper industry "fully intends to do our share, and more, to improve and maintain the quality of state waters."

The Park Falls executive urged other industries and municipalities to join paper firms in stepped-up anti-pollution programs. He said. "Such activity is absolutely essential if we are to preserve a worthwhile environment for ourselves and future generations."

Hoefferle noted that water quality spending by paper mills in Wisconsin has increased markedly in the last few years.

1965 Amount

"In 1965," he said, "the amount was $6,114,163 and in 1964, $3,922,847."

"With virtually no return to be expected from these outlays, we must get maximum return for every dollar spent," he added.

"The establishment of realistic and workable methods is difficult, costly and — frequently — exasperatingly slow," he said, "but we cannot afford to gamble on 'long shots' or inefficient and temporary measures."

"We must make sure that the progress we make will be permanently worthwhile to all: to sportsmen, to conservationists, to our employes, and to our customers," he said.

Merger Opposed By Winnebago

OSHKOSH — The tri-county merger of Winnebago, Calumet and Outagamie was staunchly opposed by the Winnebago County board Wednesday.

Board members passed a resolution to oppose the proposal to merge and directed that the county clerk forward a copy of the resolution to the Assemblymen and Senator for Winnebago County.

The judiciary committee had earlier stated it did not endorse the proposal.

The authors of the "thought provoker bill", Neenah Assemblyman David Martin and Speaker of the House Harold Froehlich, Appleton, have admitted the measure has no chance of getting out of committee.

Stockbridge Names Costume Winners For Halloween Party

STOCKBRIDGE — Winners of the Chamber of Commerce sponsored Halloween costume contest at the high school were Martha Karls, first; Kevin Weber, second and David Goeser, third.

Judges were Mrs. Clem Schumacher, J. Robert Leach and Clifford Mayer.

Area youngsters who paraded to the school, were entertained with cartoons and given treats.

Chamber officers in charge were Mayer, Clem Schumacher, Sylvester Penning and Lloyd Karls.

Deliberates Three Hours

Jury Rules in Favor of Appleton Radio Station in Slander Suit

A 12-member County Court jury, after three hours of deliberation Wednesday afternoon, ruled in favor of an Appleton radio station in a slander suit brought against it by a young Appleton woman.

Mrs. Karen Baker Wendt, formerly of 832½ Appleton Road, Menasha and now living in Appleton, brought the slander suit against WHBY radio station, which is operated by the Norbertine Fathers.

Mrs. Wendt alleged that portions of a news broadcast over the station on March 19, 1965, tended to "defame, humiliate, or disgrace her." She sought $100,000 in the suit brought in Outagamie County Court Branch 3.

The statement, prepared by a former news director and aired over an early morning newscast, said that the woman, who then was 18 years old and lived at 517 N. Appleton St., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 12:05 a.m. March 19, 1965, after she collapsed while walking in the 100 block of N. Appleton Street.

The radio station quoted an Appleton policeman as stating in his written investigaton report that a doctor found "two shot marks on one arm and a shot mark on the other arm of the young woman.

The doctor reportedly later determined that what he at first thought were shot marks actually were small "spots."

Mrs. Wendt's attorney maintained that the remarks contained in the newscast were slanderous, attached criminality to his client, injured her, and impaired her reputation.

Official Report

Attorneys for the radio station contended that at the time of the news announcement, the statement in question was believed to have been true, having been taken from an official police report.

Counsel for the station further maintained that there was no malice on the part of the station, and that malice was "an essential ingredient" to a cause of action of this type. Attorneys further contended the material alleged to be slanderous falls under constitutional protection afforded speech and press.

Six men and six women heard the day and a half of testimony. Judge Raymond P. Dohr presided.

Jurors included Charles Maahs, 825 E. Winnebago St.; Herbert Longsine, 1711 N. Harriman St.; Elmer Brown, 303 N. Outagamie St.; Mrs. Albert Riehl, 1118 W. Oklahoma St.; Rose A. McDaniel, 824 W. Fifth St.; Arnold Maldwin, 1403 Silvercrest Drive, and Howard R. Bloch, 1501 Oakcrest Court, all of Appleton.

Other jurors were Mrs. Milton Pankow and Arthur Beschta, both Hortonville; Mrs. John Schreiber, Medina; Mrs. Russell Hunt, 321 W. 11th St., Kaukauna, and Mrs. Marie Ruys, 316 W. Maes Ave, Kimberly.

Oshkosh Coed Arrested on Dope Charge

OSHKOSH — Signe C. Orne, 18, was charged Thursday with the possession of marijuana and was ordered by Judge James V. Sitter to appear Dec. 8 in Winnebago County Court for a preliminary examination.

Miss Orne is a resident of Taylor Hall, a women's dormitory on the campus of Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

The offense allegedly took place Oct. 20 at the hall.

She was arraigned Tuesday evening before Juvenile Judge James G. Sarres who set bond at $5,000. She spent Tuesday night in jail in lieu of the bond.

She appeared Wednesday afternoon before court commissioner Silas Spengler. He reduced the bond to $500 which was posted later Wednesday.

On the basis of the preliminary examination, Judge Sitter will decide whether there is sufficient cause to order the defendant to answer the charge. He released her without bond Thursday.

Inoculation Centers Set At Waupaca

Second in Series Will be Administered At County Schools

WAUPACA — The second in a series of immunization centers will be held in Waupaca County during November.

Children who received their first combination-inoculation for protection against diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough will receive their second inoculation at the centers, Mrs DuWayne Tanner, county nurse, said.

Boosters Also

Each child who received the first inoculation against diphtheria and tetanus should return for the second inoculation, she said. Boosters will be given to any child who has not had one in the past two or three years.

The schedule for the centers is as follows: Iola Elementary School, Nov. 7, noon; Marion Elementary School, Nov. 7, 2 p.m.; Waupaca Central Grade School, Nov. 8, 9:30 a.m.; Weyauwega and Manawa, St. Peter School Gymnasium in Weyauwega, 9 a.m., Nov. 9.

Appleton Art Teachers Gain New Honors

Four art teachers in the Appleton Public School System recently received honors for their work. Three of them have had work accepted for the Wisconsin Designer Craftsman Show, now on exhibit in Milwaukee during the Wisconsin Education Association convention.

Joseph Perez, Appleton High School-East, had three pieces of forged silver accepted and a forged red brass necklace. Mrs. Sue Wollwage, elementary art, entered a silver pin and a cast link bracelet; Robert Schultz, industrial arts instructor at East, has two pieces of woodwork in the show. These were among 170 pieces chosen from 600 entries throughout the state.

Ron Habeck, AHS-E instructor, recently won an award in the crafts division of the annual Wolf River Art Show, sponsored by the Appleton Gallery of Arts.

Safety Indicator Tells When Tires Should be Replaced

A new safety feature called "tread wear indicator" which enables motorists to know when to replace worn tires is being incorporated into replacement tires now coming on the market, according to T. F. LaValley, American Automobile Association service manager.

The device is molded into the tire at six to eight points around the tire. When the tire wears down to 1-16 of an inch (considered the minimum safety point in tread depth), the rubber indicators are exposed as smooth bars. The tires should then be replaced the AAA official said

Lawrence Holds Clinic for Wisconsin School Musicians

Wisconsin school musicians and bandmasters will be guests of Lawrnece University Sunday at a clinic previewing festival music and recent wind ensemble publications. The program will be held from 1:30 to 5 p.m. at Memorial Chapel.

Fred G. Schroeder, professor of music will lead the Lawrence Symphonic Band in readings of the new band materials. The 70-member ensemble hosts the school musicians annually.

Among the scores to be previewed are: Lincolnshire Posey, by Percy Grainger; Overture en Caccia, by Gian Carlo Menotti; Symphonic Prelude, by Vachlav Nelybel; Miniature Suite, by Donald White; Variations on a Medieval Tune, by Norman Dello Joio; and La Folia Variations, by James Niblock.

Schroeder has emphasized the importance of the contemporary scores as a "new wave" of wind ensemble writing. Nelybel, a former director of the Prague, Czechoslovakia, Radio Orchestra, is a prolific composer now residing in the United States.

White, head of the music department at De Pauw University, is a pupil of prominent bandsman Vincent Persichetti. Niblock heads the music theory department at Michigan State University.

Dello Joio, who was given an honorary degree by Lawrence several years ago, is an accomplished composer in several media.

During Sunday's program, the guest musicians will join the Lawrence band in reading scores. The public is invited to attend.

Charged With Annoying Calls

No One in Outagamie Courthouse Wants Kaukauna Man's Phone

A rural Kaukauna man whose telephone has gotten him nothing but court appearances and jail sentences lately, thought he had the problem licked Thursday when he disconnected the telephone and brought it to the courthouse.

But then Patrick Kerrigan, route 2, had another problem. No one wanted the telephone.

He started with the sheriff's department, but not finding any takers, he went upstairs to the district attorney's office.

Kerrigan, 36, had the same trouble there. He wanted to see Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer, who had not yet returned from lunch. He then explained to a secretary that, at the advice of police, he had taken out his phone. He said he wanted to leave it, but wanted a receipt.

The young secretary did not want the phone, nor did Schaefer's other secretary, who proceeded to tell Kerrigan so. She suggested he take it to the telephone company, which owned it.

Kerrigan then left and went back downstairs, in hopes the sheriff wanted his telephone. The sheriff still at lunch, Kerrigan talked to two clerk-stenographers who referred him to a records clerk — who told Kerrigan in no uncertain terms that he didn't need a telephone either.

Like the district attorney's secretaries, the records clerk suggested Kerrigan take his phone to the rightful owner.

Kerrigan then left, as Sheriff Norbert Marx was coming through the office door. Nothing more was seen of the rural Kaukauna man or his telephone.

Kerrigan is free on $1,500 bond, awaiting trial for making annoying telephone calls to the sheriff's department on Sept. 25. He also is charged under the repeater statute on the last count.

He was sentenced to 30 days in jail last July and again a month later for making annoying telephone calls.

Boys Playing With Matches Burn Barn

WAUPACA — Two boys playing with matches are believed to be responsible for a fire that destroyed a barn early today belonging to John Smith, 3 miles east of here at Little Hope.

Bob Hanson, fire chief, said the Smith boys, 8 and 9, were playing in the barn and had apparently set fire to a bag. They had gone to the house after thinking they had put out the fire. The sack burst into flame and spread through the building.

The fire was reported by a neighbor about 7:45 a.m. When firemen arrived only part of the building remained. They were successful in saving the garage that had started to burn. Mrs. Smith and a neighbor pulled a boat from the garage before firemen arrived.

The barn contained three bicycles and a small amount of lumber. No estimate of loss has been determined.

Clintonville Blood Donors Are Honored

CLINTONVILLE — Three of the volunteer blood donors visiting the Red Cross Bloodmobile Wednesday afternoon at the Veterans Memorial Building were recognized with donor pins.

Lloyd Eggleston received a five-gallon donor pin, Mrs. Charles Collins, a three-gallon pin, and Jerry Lee Owen, a one-gallon pin.

The Clintonville Chapter of the American Red Cross again had a successful afternoon, meeting its quota of 110 pints of blood.

Dismiss Charge Of Hunting Without License

WAUPACA — A charge of hunting deer without a license, brought against Mrs. Martha Simpson, 25, route 4, Waupaca, was dismissed Thursday by Municipal Justice George Whalen because of lack of evidence

Mrs. Simpson was arrested Oct. 19 by conservation wardens when she registered a deer at a checking station at 10:10 a.m. after buying a deer hunting license between 9:45 and 10 a.m., the same day

Justice Whalen, after hearing four prosecution witnesses, granted defense counsel's motion for dismissal, claiming the state failed to prove that Mrs. Simpson had not been hunting and shot the deer registered.

Ford Recalling Cars For Check of Steering

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it is recalling 745,000 cars because of possible defects in their steering systems

Among the vehicles being recalled, Ford said, are 447,000 Mustang 1967 models. The firm said 267,000 of the Mustangs have the type steering systems in which defects have been discovered, but all 447,000 must be recalled to locate which ones have the suspect system.

The other cars being recalled are 298,000 Falcon, Fairlane and Thunderbird cars built in 1966 and 1967.

Rules Outlined On Harvest of Forest Products

Notice Must be Filed in County Where Cutting Done

WAUPACA — Forest Ranger Sidney C. Miller has issued a reminder that before any person cuts logs, piling, posts, pulpwood, Christmas trees or other forest products, he must file a notice with the county clerk in the county where the cutting takes place.

The notice filed with the clerk must include a legal description of each 40-acre subdivision or fraction, the section, township and range. This information can be found in the tax notice, Miller said.

In Addition

In addition, any person cutting Christmas trees must get written permission from the landowner showing that he has such permission to remove Christmas trees.

It is not necessary to file a cutting notice when clearing land for agricultural purposes.

Prior to hauling commercial Christmas trees out of the county in which they were cut, the owner or shipper must obtain a Christmas tree dealer's license. This is not required for non-commercial loads of six trees or less.

Licenses and further information may be obtained from forest rangers, conservation wardens, and conservation field stations.

County Traffic Deaths Tie All-Time High

Six traffic deaths in Outagamie County last month tied an all-time high for a single month

Six persons also were killed on county roads in October, 1958; February, 1959 (when five died in a single weekend), and June, 1964, according to Coroner Bernard H. Kemps.

Four times since 1951 five persons have died in a single month in Outagamie County traffic accidents. Included were October, 1951; May, 1952; May, 1954, and July, 1965.

Toll Now 23

The traffic toll for the year in the county is now 23, seven more than on Nov. 3, 1966. The death toll already ties the total for last year and is only four under the record 27 in 1965.

Two double-fatality accidents were recorded in the county last month, all involving young people. Two died near Freedom and two others were killed in an Appleton crash. A nine-year-old Milwaukee girl died following a crash north of Appleton and a young motorist died when his car struck a tree in Shiocton.

Exceptional Children Workshop in Madison

Mathematics instruction of exceptional children will be the theme of the workshop conference sponsored by the special education instructional material center, University of Wisconsin, Nov. 17, at 702 Langdon St., Madison.

Registration is limited and interested persons may contact Dr. LeRoy Aserlind, center director, 2570 University Ave., Madison, 53706.

Century-Old Railroad Mail Service Terminated Today

analysis was not possible in the Green Bay-Chicago RPO Line but mentioned that two additional air taxis which will handle first-class mail, and two star routes, have been phased in.

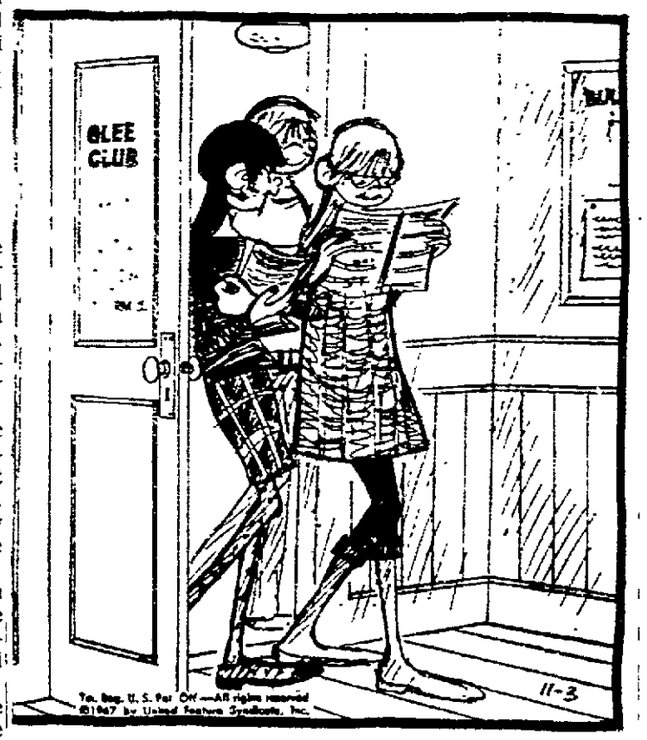

He claimed 70 per cent of RPO eliminations were the result of the railroads terminating lines, and cited the decrease in postal money being spent for rail transportation.

"We spent $357.6 million with the railroads in 1962 compared with $62.6 million with air transportation," he explained. "And in 1966, the figures show $313.5 million with rail and $96.3 million with air."

Since the 1930's RPOs have dropped from about 10,000 to less than 850, more than a 91 per cent dip.

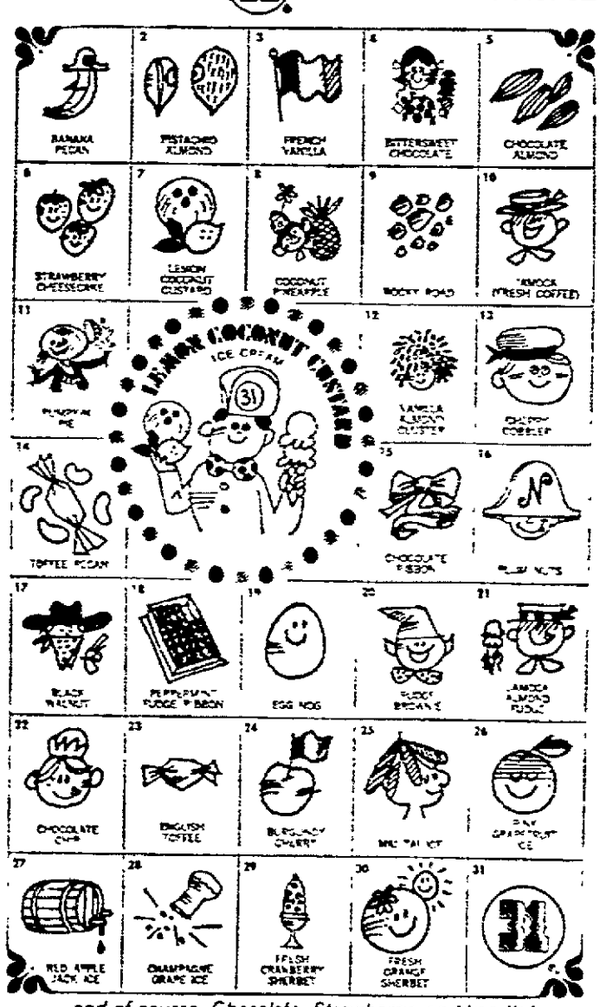

The postal representative indicated, though, that the postal department will still transport mail by freight train in bulk form and on scheduled freight runs. However, the Chicago-Green Bay Line will not handle any mail.

Appleton Jaycees Welcome Return of Top State Farmer

The Appleton Jaycees will be welcoming back a familiar face in the form of their speaker for the 14th annual Outstanding Young Farmer award dinner in Appleton Tuesday night

Kenyon Giese, Loganville, Wis., winner of the 1966 Wisconsin Jaycees' OYF award at last year's convention here, is coming to Appleton via a major farm conference in Peoria, Ill.

The Appleton Club will be selecting a winner from three finalists who were chosen from an original field of 30 entries.

They are Alan Bohl, route 1, Hortonville; Emory Beckman, route 1, Fremont and Duane Wussow, route 1, Black Creek. The local winner will enter state competition.

Past Winners

Members of the local judging committee were Toby Roth, chairman, Jerry Fisher, Walter Klanderman from the Fox Valley Farm Management Association, Robert Schroeder from the Appleton PCA office and William Shaw, Outagamie County 4-H agent.

Past winners of the award are Robert Oudenhoven, route 2, West de Pere; Gordon Kerringan, route 2, Kaukauna; Ralph Schroeder, route 2, Appleton; William Tubbs, route 2, Seymour; Bruce Steinacker, route 2, Hortonville; Donald Pennings, route 1, Appleton; Clifford Conradt, route 2, Shiocton; Donald Vande Hei, route 3, Seymour, Myron Vande Walle, route 1, Seymour; Paul Hameister, route 1, Appleton, Herb Brei, route 2, Neenah and John Krull, route 1, Bonduel

The awards dinner also is expected to be a form of reunion for Brei who was chairman of the state OYF committee last year which toured the Giese farm and picked him as the winner.

Beef Sale Is Saturday At Bonduel

SHAWANO — Between 700 and 800 head of feeder cattle have been consigned by members of the Northeast Wisconsin Beef Producers Co-operative to a sale at 12.30 p.m. Saturday at the Equity Livestock Auction Market at Bonduel.

The sale will include straight beef bred steers and heifers, crossbred steers and heifers, and dairy bred steers

There will be approximately 350 steer calves, 250 heifer calves, 75 head of yearling steers and 75 head of yearling heifers, mostly Hereford and Angus with several lots of dairy crossbred steers and heifers and a few lots of dairy bred steers

Animals will be graded by a University of Wisconsin approved grader and sorted into uniform lots according to breed, grade, weight and sex.

Eckles Charges Favoritism by Government

PMPC Chief Sees Dairy, Animal Industry Products

FOND DU LAC (AP) — The federal government is showing favoritism to cereal crops and vegetables at the expense of the animal products industry, William C Eckles, general manager of the Pure Milk Products Cooperative, said Tuesday.

Eckles made the charge in a talk at the PMP's annual convention The organization has 10,600 members in Wisconsin, Illinois and Upper Michigan.

"There is a great need for products of the American dairy, livestock and poultry industry," Eckles said "This is the type of agriculture that retains soil fertility and assures a well fed and clothed U.S. population over the long pull."

The delegates in a resolution urged the rejection of a federal Food and Fiber Commission report that the resolution said recommends "ruinous prices and rural poverty as a means of more rapidly reducing the farm population"

The commission, the resolution said, urges grain and vegetable production rather than animal agriculture

Cucumber Crop Experiment

Bees Boost Yield

Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Wisconsin's beekeepers have been suffering under several poor seasons in recent years but the report by a University plant pathologist offered enough sweetness to make even the most gloomy honey producer happy.

Dr. Paul Williams has been conducting experiments at the UW's Hancock Experimental Station which indicate substantial gains in cucumber yields if the crop is pollinated by honey bees

Although Williams admitted his findings were preliminary he indicated they were conclusive enough to merit the early conclusion on the value of honey bee pollinators

The new practice would require an extensive education program by the beekeepers for the growers.

His experiments show an increased value of $134 per crop acre on plants without bee pollination and 442 on bee pollinated crops

Projected Yields

His views appeared to indicate the possibility that Wisconsin producers may develop disposable packages of bees for the 4-5 day pollination period for the mechanically harvested crop next summer.

Williams noted, however, that the projected yields would be less on the mechanically harvested crop than on the hand picked variety but still substantially enough of an increase to make it worthwhile.

Wisconsin's cucumber industry ranks third in national production The new practice of handling bees if successful, is expected to quickly spread to other cash crop states The state crop this year was valued at $20 million.

A total of 3,000 acres were mechanically harvested this year and indications are that this will increase as a labor saving measure

Williams noted, however, that he had done no experiments with other crops but felt the system could be adapted. At this rate the state beekeepers would have to provide substantial colonies of bees for the pollination service if they wanted to prevent migratory colonies from out of state from being used

Sugar Content

Experiments showed the sugar content in the nectar of cucumber blossoms was much higher on a warm hot day Irrigation of crops also must be timed with pollination. The bees work best in temperatures from 70 to 90 degrees, humidity of less than 70 per cent and winds of less than 15 miles per hour

Williams used 25 colonies of bees (4,000 per colony) on a hand harvested five-acre tract.

The crop requires a flush of pollination about 10 days before harvesting. The bees would be moved in when the crop is in blossom and then moved out to another field With staggered planting times and mechanical harvesting pollination could be effected with fewer colonies.

Dr. Williams referred to work at the U.S. Department of Agriculture stations in Utah and Arizona

Disposable packages of bees with a sterilized queen have been developed. Each contains about three pounds of bees. The queens are sterilized so they do not lay drone worker eggs. They can be purchased cheaply, brought in for the one-time pollination job and then destroyed

Ease of Handling

He said to honey producers it may seem as a waste of bees, but for the non-professional it offered ease of handling The number of worker bees declines

Swine Testing Begins In Feed Efficiency

Testing swine in Wisconsin is beginning to pay dividends. members of the Northeastern Wisconsin Swine Testing Association were told last week at a special evaluation meeting.

Prof. Vern Felts, livestock specialist from the University of Wisconsin—Madison, noted that since 1961 feed efficiency has gradually declined until nearly reaching the three pound mark.

The official record was 3.01 pounds of feed for every pound of gain on the hog. Back fat has been declining from 1.62 to 1.39. The loin eye has increased from 3.86 to 4.73 pounds of feed per pound of gain.

Felts noted there had been little change in the daily gain category.

Hogs are tested at the station in an effort to develop genetic efficiencies which serve as a guide to farmers in selecting hogs.

Gelts said he thought the figures from the Hortonville station were in line with other stations around the state.

Members set their annual association meeting for Feb. 15.

76th Annual Convention in Green Bay

Cheesemen Favor Orderly Imports

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Orderly regulation of dairy imports was requested by the Wisconsin Cheesemakers Association at its 76th annual convention here Wednesday.

The cheesemen did not aim to eliminate foreign competition. A resolution recognized, in fact, that "the free flow of foreign commerce will require some degree of tolerance in the matter of import quotas."

Two significant changes in handling of imports were sought, however. The delegates said they wanted all import quotas based on milk equivalent, and that the quotas should be established by Congress. Currently they are the President's responsibility.

Under the present procedure, import quotas are imposed on specific products, such as cheddar cheese. Some cheese varieties have not been restricted. In addition, exporters have found various means of getting around quotas that do apply.

"On a milk equivalent basis, we would know what we could expect from foreign trade," it was pointed out by Roland C. Behle, Madison, executive secretary of the association

Another resolution asked for label identification of foreign cheese in retail packages. This would include the point of origin, and the percentage of foreign cheese used in blend or processed products.

The Wisconsin Cheesemakers favored revision of the state dairy plant security law written in 1939. Its aim is to assure payment of milk delivered by farmers by the filing of a bond or other security. When a plant is considered to be in shaky financial condition, the law provides for trusteeship operation.

"This law has failed to achieve the original intent," a resolution stated, "and the present administration of the regulations creates an unfair burden on the entire dairy industry."

No specific recommendations were made. The resolution asked that a study be made by the appropriate legislative committees in collaboration with dairy industry representatives.

A special resolution commended the promotional work being done for dairy products by the State Department of Agriculture, the American Dairy Association, the National Dairy Council and the Wisconsin Cheese Foundation. Dairy plant operators were urged to support the groups with contributions and other assistance.

Lloyd F. Dickrell, Junction City, president of the association, reported that about 60 per cent of the state's cheese plants are members, with the percentage of licensed cheesemakers considerably higher. Even so, he stressed, the association will need more members or will have to raise its dues.

Ervin Purdeu, employed by Consolidated Badger Co-op at Marshfield, was the big winner in the state cheese scoring contest. He took two first places in the 10 classes. Carl J. Huber, Kiel, employed by the Lake to Lake Dairy Cooperative, had a first and second place.

The scoring contest brought a total of 115 entries with a combined weight of some 3,400 pounds. Ribbon winners were on display. First and second places in the scoring contest included:

Winnebago DHIA Report

Omro Herd Produces Best Butterfat Mark

OSHKOSH — Everett Robert Lewis, Omro, had the highest butterfat producing herd in the September report of the Winnebago County Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA).

Their grade Holstein herd of 27 cows, 15 not in milk, averaged 45 pounds of butterfat and 1,205 pounds of milk.

The best milk producing herd was owned by Lewis Eckstein Larsen. His 10 cows average 1,370 pounds of milk and 43 pounds of butterfat.

Other Holstein herds with both registered and grade animals were those of Claude Miller, Oshkosh, with 27 cows, one not in milk, averaging 1,216 pounds of milk and 43 pounds of butterfat; Howard Beck, Oshkosh, 26 cows, one not in milk, 1,218 pounds milk and 43 pounds fat; Phil Lautenback, Fremont, 43 cows, three not in milk, 1,198 pounds milk and 42 pounds fat; Robert Lewis, Omro, had the Gordon Bradley, Oshkosh, 36 cows, two not in milk, 1,105 pounds milk and 40 pounds fat; and George Dobberke, Neenah, 39 cows, five not in milk, 1,106 pounds milk and 40 pounds fat.

Registered Holstein herds in the high group were those of John Bartlett, Oshkosh, 24 cows, one not milking, 1,162 milk and 41 fat; Ferd Pansie, Oshkosh, 75 cows, two not in milk, 1,141 pounds milk and 40 pounds fat; Ray Vander Heiden, Neenah, 28 cows, four not in milk, 1,079 pounds milk and 40 pounds fat; and the Winnebago State Farm, Winnebago, 117 cows, 19 not milking, 1,087 pounds milk, 40 pounds fat.

Also in the high herd group was the mixed herd of Roderick Wood, Oshkosh, with 37 cows, four not in milk, 1,276 pounds milk and 42 pounds fat.

Five grade and five registered Holsteins made up the individual high cow list. The high butterfat producer, a grade Holstein owned by Everett and Robert Lewis, produced 107 pounds of butterfat and 2,379 pounds of milk. The top milk producer was a grade Holstein owned by Leo Manske, Ripon, producing 2,808 pounds of milk and 104 pounds of butterfat.

Other grade Holsteins listed were owned by Rod Wood, 2,775 pounds milk and 103 pounds fat; Everett and Robert Lewis, 2,271 pounds milk and 102 pounds fat; George Dobberke, 2,436 pounds milk and 97 pounds fat.

Three registered Holsteins in the Winnebago State Farm herd produced 2,055 pounds of milk and 103 pounds of fat; 2,256 pounds milk and 97 pounds fat and 2,295 pounds milk and 96 pounds fat.

Others were in herds of Lawrence Pfaffenroth, Oshkosh, 1,941 pounds milk and 97 pounds fat; and one in the Grundy Farm herd of Oshkosh, 2,460 pounds milk and 96 pounds fat.

West Coast Promotion of Cheese Peaks

WDA Predicting Sales to Surpass 5 Million Pounds

Food retailers in Los Angeles set a goal of 5 million pounds for Wisconsin cheese sales during October and state marketing experts say the goal will be met.

Robert F. Thayer, marketing administrator of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, says preliminary reports from state cheese suppliers indicate the West Coast sales effort should surpass the five-million level.

"One of our distributors tells us he has shipped as much cheese to Los Angeles already this month as he did during all of 1966," Thayer says.

The marketing chief, along with agriculture secretary D. N. McDowell, Alice in Dairyland, and other members of a state marketing team, just returned from a special 3-week cheese promotion program in the nation's largest metropolitan area.

The first week of the program featured workshops for 500 retailers, conducted by WDA experts in cheese quality, product marketing and home economics.

Then came a week-long Wisconsin Cheese Festival throughout the Los Angeles market, attended by Thayer and McDowell, and featuring Alice in Dairyland.

The final week of the program included special promotions by merchandising groups and industry evaluations of the program.

Sixteen Wisconsin companies participated in the Los Angeles promotion, along with the State Agriculture Department.

Two more out-of-state Wisconsin food promotions are scheduled for 1967, Thayer reports. They will be held in Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6-10, and Dallas-Fort Worth, Dec. 4-9.

Agriculture Classes at New London Senior High School were taken into the field — cornfield — last week by Don Hohman, instructor, to examine the corn test plots planted by the school Future Farmers of America. Nearly Double Average

Valley Area Holsteins Set Production Marks

Dairy cattle from 11 herds in the Fox Valley region recently set high production marks for milk and butterfat which in many instances almost doubled the national average.

The cattle, herd owners and production marks follow:

Belle View Heralder Dolly 4340831, a nine-year-old, produced 20,330 pounds of milk and 711 pounds of butterfat in 338 days. Belle View Dunwood Karla 573886, a three-year-old, had 16,850 pounds of milk and 699 pounds of butterfat in 284 days. Bell View Dunwood Kathleen 5841402, a three-year-old, had 16,980 pounds of milk and 621 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. All are owned by Oscar W., Donald W. & Keith M. Long, Bell View Farms, Weyauwega.

Outagamie President Arlene 4874538, a seven-year-old, produced 19,440 pounds of milk and 767 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. Outagamie Carnation Snookie 5237902, a five-year-old, had 19,010 pounds of milk and 706 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. Outagamie Butter Boy Topsy 5327770, a five-year-old, had 15,530 pounds of milk and 607 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. All are owned by Mossholder Farms, H. R. Mossholder, Appleton.

Schmittdale Ripper Princess 5886251, a three-year-old, produced 19,240 pounds of milk and 711 pounds of butterfat in 341 days. Stevendell Canary Cricket 5845202, a three-year-old, had 17,400 pounds of milk and 654 pounds of butterfat in 298 days. Natzke Pontiac Pabst 5339269, a five-year-old, had 17,450 pounds of milk and 627 pounds of butterfat in 333 days. All are owned by Amos Natzke & Sons, Greenleaf.

Overkrik Netty 5820670, a three-year-old owned by William Overton, Oshkosh, produced 16,810 pounds of milk and 60 pounds of butterfat in 327 days.

Anker Progressor Mechthilde 4719473, an eight-year-old owned by Robert N. Paltzer, Appleton, produced 16,040 pounds of milk and 869 pounds of butterfat in 305 days.

Hickory Lawn Mabel 5287339, a five-year-old owned by Eugene Roepcke, Seymour, produced 14,720 pounds of milk and 611 pounds of butterfat in 329 days.

White Star Model Princess 5820872, a four-year-old owned by R. H. Smith, White Star Stock Farm, Waupaca, produced 15,480 pounds of milk and 592 pounds of butterfat in 353 days.

Woodnorth Foremost Bretta 5339097, a five-year-old owned by Arnold H. Spiegelberg, Woodnorth Farm, Manawa, produced 18,480 pounds of milk and 769 pounds of butterfat in 305 days.

Winnebago Mike Selina Part 5050241, a six-year-old, produced 15,600 pounds of milk and 686 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. Winnebago Mike Jeannette 4550354, an eight-year-old, had 14,930 pounds of milk and 604 pounds of butterfat in 288 days. Winnebago Adohr Agatha Lady 97808, an 11-year-old, had 16,240 pounds of milk and 562 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. All are owned by Winnebago State Farm, Winnebago.

Wis Lida 5486368, a four-year-old, produced 15,150 pounds of milk and 605 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. Wis Dusk 4755128, a seven-year-old, had 15,200 pounds of milk and 57 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. Both are owned by Wisconsin State Reformatory, Green Bay.

These new production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 8,513 pounds of milk and 315 pounds of butterfat by the average U.S. dairy cow, notes the national Holstein Association.

Shippers in Calumet Eye Merger Plan

CHILTON — Directors of Calumet County's five livestock shipping associations have decided to ask their memberships about merging. The associations have facilities at Brillion, Chilton, Forest Junction, Hilbert and Sherwood.

"At one time these small associations served an important role in our livestock marketing," according to County Agent Orrin Meyer." Today there is much over-lapping and duplication." The associations are arms of Equity Cooperative Livestock Sales. Equity now operates out of Baraboo with numerous yards and markets around the state.

Each of the five county associations were represented at the meeting chairmaned by Meyer. On the program were Peter May, assistant manager of Equity; Glenn Hacker, district director; John Jenks, Equity Controller and Francis Haugh of the State Department of Agriculture.

Directors will now meet with their memberships to explain the merger. "This will be an important step in shaping the destiny of livestock marketing in Calumet County," Meyer observed.

Successful Control in Winnebago

Advisory Council Reports Cases Of Elm Disease in 46 Counties

BY V. W. PEROUTKY
Winnebago County Agricultural Agent

OSHKOSH — The Dutch Elm Disease Advisory Council of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture met recently in Madison to evaluate the status of Dutch elm disease (DED). Art Kurtz, administrator of the plant industry division, reported confirmation of DED in 46 counties. The first case in Winnebago County was in 1959.

A council-proposed policy statement will be presented at the next meeting of the State Board of Agriculture.

Communities such as Oshkosh, Neenah and Menasha with their respective DED control programs, are holding tree losses to less than 3 per cent. Continued efforts to minimize disease spread should preserve some elm for 20, 3' or even 50 years. This will lessen annual municipal costs for the program, and allow more intensified tree replacements in the meantime. Research is being continued for curing the disease.

"My experience with DED programs tends me to emphasize the importance of elm sanitation, the early removal and burning of dead and weak elm trees. Elm limbs over two inches in diameter, and elm woodpiles are ideal breeding areas for the disease-carrying bark beetles. These, too, should be burned," advised Vernon Peroutky, county agricultural agent.

"Soil fumigation between diseased and healthy elm is important to hold back disease spread by root grafts. No one can argue against the importance of shade tree interplanting in present live elm tree areas, as well as tree planting in some existing treeless areas.

The council has accepted both helicopter and ground equipment spraying. The packaged DED program includes spraying. Some communities have sprayed annually, some have discontinued this phase of the program, and some, such as Milwaukee, returned to it in a renewed attempt to cut down on elm tree dying rates which increased after spraying was omitted.

Storing Apples

An Oshkosh homeowner reported that apples they had weren't keeping well, and asked for advise. I visualized the apples in question may have been a late summer or early fall variety. These wouldn't keep more than two weeks or so.

McIntosh, Cortland, Delicious and other later maturing varieties free of insects and diseases should be in good shape now regardless of storage procedure.

But firm, high quality apples may be kept firm for 6-10 months when placed in plastic bags and stored in a refrigerator. At our house we've stored red delicious apples through May in plastic bags on the floor of the window ventilated, insulated basement fruit room," he said.

Badger's Rupple Speaks . . .

Reserves Finance Future

SEYMOUR — Members of Consolidated Badger Co-op were told at a fall rally here Monday night to begin considering building a reserve fund which will permit the co-op to maintain its advanced position in the industry.

Gen. Mgr. George Rupple cautioned, however, that the co-op's financial condition was good as indicated by its recent financial statements, but said a reserve was needed to meet future responsibilities.

He said that many services once performed by the smaller plants have been discontinued and picked up by co-ops such as Badger.

He noted that a large number of other firms in the dairy industry had been or are establishing the reserve fund. One such firm at Lehigh Valley, Penn., recently borrowed $3 million to purchase a class I market in Philadelphia. They charge a 25 cents per hundredweight from milk checks to finance their reserve fund.

Pure Milk Association (PMA) of Chicago, with which Badger has renewed its contract for another six years, charges six cents.

New Warehouse

He said the co-op has started construction on a new warehouse in Appleton to house 4 million pounds of powdered milk. Dryer facilities have been completed at Appleton and equipment at five other plants it replaces were sold or otherwise discarded.

The Badger securities program adopted 20 years ago needs readjusment, he said. He proposed a monthly investment in the cooperative in return for year-end securities. Funds would be used to pay off equities of the past 10 years.

Last year the co-op handled almost 8 million pounds of milk. Sales hit $40 million and assets total almost $10 million.

Many individual plants between Oshkosh and Indiana are quitting he noted, with much of the milk being shipped directly to Indiana. When that area is flush the milk remains in Wisconsin and must be dealt with, he explained.

Rupple explained that 10 years ago Badger contracted with PMA to market milk in Chicago but that agreement went out with the federal order. Since then the co-op has hung on to its share of the world's second largest market because of the investment in it.

"We are a lot closer to that Chicago market than we were five years ago. But keeping plants modern to meet market conditions and changes is expensive," he said.

Honey Bees Pollinate, Boost Yields steadily in these setups so experiments may be conducted on using fertile queens to keep up the worker population.

The honey yield from cucumbers may not be as high as alfalfa, he said, because of the fewer number of blossoms. But the crop is seldom sprayed during a time when bees would be used for pollination.

Timing on irrigation also is a factor since bees won't work on wet plants and the moisture level cuts the sugar content of the nectar.

Williams will address the state pickle growers convention in Green Bay Dec. 5 and a committee from the honey producers also is expected to attend. The state's industry is centered in the central sands area of Wautoma and Hancock.

Feed Grain Income To Figure in '68 Election Campaign

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is promising farmers in politically-important Midwestern and Southwestern areas record income for important livestock feed grain crops if they cut production during the 1968 presidential election year.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman recently outlined a 1968 program designed to change this year's government-encouraged two to three per cent overproduction of corn and sorghum grain to a corresponding underproduction next year.

A record grain crop this year has caused grower prices to decline sharply.

The program will seek idling of 30 million of the 115 million acres farmers normally use to grow these crops. This year 20 million were diverted compared with 35 million in 1966.

Freeman said in answer to a news conference question that farmers are still "cross and contrary" in their attitude toward the farm price situation.

Freeman said the feed grain program—under which an estimated $1.3 billion in government payments will be made to cooperative growers—should give producers nearly $200 million more than the record income they received for these grains in 1966 and $400 million more than this year.

Payments this year totaled about $1 billion.

Airports Are for People Who Do Not Fly

When the Outagamie County Board considers the $2 million bond issue to finance current and future improvements to the county airport to bring it up to full jet capacity, it should be remembered that airports today in reality also serve people who do not fly. For the economy of the entire community is directly affected in a number of ways by the type of aircraft landing facilities available.

Up to date airport facilities are a vital factor in a community competing for new industry, and just as vital in retaining the industry a community now has. A recent study by the Missouri Industrial Development Division among the top 500 business corporations in the country revealed that 85 per cent indicated that convenience of an airport is essential to plant location. It is not the only factor, obviously, but it rates among the top five considerations.

More and more business concerns are flying their own aircraft, and we have seen significant increases in such usage by companies in this area in recent years. Airplanes operated solely for business purposes outnumber all domestic scheduled airlines more than 20 to 1, and these business airplanes fly more hours than all the airlines combined. A good airport is also vital to companies which do not operate their own planes, since many of their customers and suppliers utilize aircraft.

Airport facilities are also becoming more important in bringing transient dollars into a community. A Michigan study revealed that 46 per cent of itinerant air passengers arrive in communities aboard their own or chartered planes, versus 54 per cent on commercial airlines. In one year the study estimated that transient general aviation passengers spent $110 millions in Michigan communities they visited.

Good airports are also becoming the nucleus for industrial airparks, and we have already seen the start of such a development in Outagamie County.

The $2 million bond issue will pay off $600,000 the county borrowed to finish work now in progress at the airport, and provide $1.4 million in new money to finance extensions of both runways, one to 7,000 feet, the other to 6,000, the building of additional taxiways, additional lighting, and an industrial apron. Such facilities will attract a volume of traffic to the county airport which will qualify it in the future for a tower and an instrument landing system which would be provided by the FAA without cost to the county.

The program of continued improvements at the county airport will pay off handsomely in future years for people in the county who do not fly as well as those who do.

Thieu Faces the Challenge

The new president of South Vietnam, Nguyen Van Thieu, has firmly said many times that his country needs a revolutionary approach to its vast problems if the stalemated war is to be won. Now that he is in office, Thieu obviously intends to pick up the challenge. But the odds are long.

President Thieu is well aware of the American criticism of South Vietnam, particularly of its ineffective military forces. The generals who rule like war lords, the apathy among the troops, the failure of some units to help others, the desertions, corruption and profiteering, have all been thoroughly described and decried in American newspapers. Before his nomination, Thieu fired some of the most flagrant violators and he has promised to shake up the entire military organization. But how successful he will be, even if his intentions are good, remains to be seen and so far there is really not a great deal of optimism among American authorities in Vietnam.

President Thieu and his vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky, received about a third of the vote in September. Viet Cong of course were not permitted to vote so it is clear that the ruling ticket appealed only to a relatively small minority of Vietnamese. One of the major opponents who ran a respectable second in the balloting has been convicted of larceny since the election. More serious perhaps has been the arrest of a leading contender who was not permitted to be on the ballot because of alleged leanings toward negotiation with the National Liberation Front. The newly appointed prime minister obviously will govern at the wishes of President Thieu and he does not serve to increase the chances for a coalition government.

There are signs that Thieu will change some of the policies. He has lowered draft age for Vietnamese. But he is also increasing the power of General Nguyen Ngoc Loan, commander of the national police. Loan is certainly loyal to President Thieu but he has been heavily criticized for his police activities in arresting political opponents and is understandably feared.

Through the presidential election and the one for the national assembly, South Vietnam may be struggling toward a more democratic regime which can appeal to the peasants. But it is a tremendous task in a country torn apart by a vicious war and without any real tradition of nationality.

Critical Shortage of Doctors Abroad

There are problems in smaller communities and isolated areas of the United States because it seems to be difficult to attract doctors. But the shortage of medical men has reached extremely alarming proportions in some other parts of the world.

Dr. Marcolino Candau, director of the World Health Organization, recently pointed to the small number of medical schools in parts of the world where doctors are most desperately needed. There are only a dozen medical schools in Africa, except for the United Arab Republic and South Africa, and only six are graduating doctors. In 1965 there was a total of 140 men with medical degrees graduated in Africa — and there are 200 million people on the continent. Similar figures although not as appalling exist for parts of Southeast Asia and Latin America. Moreover, Dr. Candau said, the situation is actually worse than back in the colonial days because European doctors have to a great extent left the newly independent nations and there is as yet no one to take their places.

Although tremendous strides have been made by WHO in such fields as the control of malaria and childbirth, new problems are arising with more progressive methods in other fields. Dr. Candau pointed to illnesses from water pollution caused by industrial wastes and even the spread of a disease carried by snails as irrigation is expanded in some regions. There is a need for close attention being paid to such predictable health hazards, he pointed out.

Two other factors emphasize the medical lacks. One is that as more and more people become aware of what could be, they are more and more restless and impatient with what they have. And there is a further problem of educating prospective doctors in the more advanced nations. "There is not sufficient understanding that a medical student from an underdeveloped country who is trained abroad in diagnostic techniques dependent upon the most modern laboratory facilities will not be prepared to grapple with the conditions he finds when he is sent back home." Statistics also show that a lot of such graduates prefer not to return home and since there are medical shortages in most countries, they are generally permitted to remain.

There have been tremendous medical strides in the last few decades. But there is still a great deal of unnecessary suffering and death because the knowledge and the facilities do not reach far enough.

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Post for Oct. 17, 1867.

Who will vote the Democratic ticket?

All who approve of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln. For instance, the editor of the LaCrosse Democrat, the most prominent Democratic paper in the state, and one which fully represents the temper, spirit and aims of the party north and south, and particularly in Wisconsin.

All who wish to have drunkenness tolerated, and all the laws against it or against the liquor traffic, repealed. We know some of the Democrats are Good Templars, and solemnly bound to do all they can to suppress drunkenness and the liquor traffic, but these men are expected to sacrifice their obligations to aid their party. Will they?

All who hated soldiers and encouraged desertion from the Union Army during the Rebellion.

All who still desire the dissolution of the Union, or would sell it for "bread and butter."

All who are opposed to paying the debts of the Union without paying the rebel debt.

The San Francisco Bay area underwent an air raid alert for more than one hour that day. Residents along the city's beach could hear the throb of plane motors as ships droned through the high air. Some schools sent their pupils home. The all-clear sounded at 1:38 central war time.

H.T. Colwell, Appleton, was outgoing president of the Appleton District Council of the Telephone Guild of Wisconsin. Henry Hoerz, Sheboygan, was elected to succeed him.

Taylor Writes

Black Power Insiders Are Fifth Column, Have Close Red Ties

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

BALTIMORE — Black Power insiders here reveal a hardly known fact. When insurrectionist American advocates of their program, including Stokely Carmichael, go to Hanoi they hit straight for Robert F. Williams. Our country should know more about this typical stooge and the whys of what he's doing.

Taylor

Williams, 42, one of the rottenest apples in the whole barrel, is a black nationalist I first wrote about (July 7, 1965) when he was in Castro's pay in United States (via Canada) under indictment for kidnapping at gunpoint and was a federal fugitive.

Williams was Castro's pet anti-American propogandist, superseding a previous pet who was a Chinese Red. He broadcast over radio to the American Negro population in our Southern states.

Williams and other stooges gushed out a weekly half-hour program called "The Voice of Free Dixie." Free Dixie's voice in Castro's Cuba: Free Dixie's voice where if your neighbor dislikes you his word may kill you!

MOVES ON TO HANOI

Black Power advocates are pro-Castro, pro-Red China oriented, and Williams has moved on to North Vietnam. He has been broadcasting to our Negro troops in South Vietnam over Radio Hanoi, although the majority clearly detest him.

Williams calls on Negro soldiers to revolt — "you helpless G.I.s ordered by your white officers to die." He claims the South Vietnamese regard the North Vietnam government as their liberator. (More than a million Vietnamese fled to South Vietnam when Red Ho Chi Minh took over in the north.)

Williams shouts Black Power's standard explanation for Negro riots in the United States: "police brutality." He calls his voice the Negroes' voice against the police.

In truth, Black Power advocates here begrudgingly admit the correctness of nationwide independent polls which confirm a totally different picture of Negro feelings. The overwhelming majority of Negroes are sympathetic to the problems of law and order, scorn the charges of police brutality as being the cause of Negro riots and want more police protection. Anarchy is what the Negroes fear, and ever fear, as do we all. And when Black Power or any other Negro leaders urge turning civil rights demonstrations into anti-Vietnam war protests, this again defies the over-all national Negro sentiment.

Williams glorifies to our troops the draft card burners. They're the heroes back home: you're the patsies," he states. "The Negro community knows it takes more courage to burn a draft card handed you by the whites than to fight where you are — under orders." This is the straight Black Power line.

He tells Negro soldiers how to avoid battle duty by a self-inflicted wound: "Shoot yourself in the toe." He tells them to write an objectors' group in Philadelphia for anti-war material to distribute secretly in their barracks.

What Williams does not state is who controls him and other such stooges in the domestic and international Black Power structure.

They have three masters. One is Red China's international propaganda and subversive apparatus known as the Teh Wu Section of Peking's over-all Hai-Wai-Tiao Cha Pu espionage organization. The second is the First Main Directorate of the Kremlin's State Security Committee (KGB) at 19 Stanislavskaya Street, opposite the East German Embassy, in Moscow.

This KGB section is called Department D. It stands for "Dezinformatsiia Bureau," literally, the "Disinformation Bureau." The function is disinformation, insurrection, etc., worldwide.

Their third control is the Viet Cong propaganda headquarters near the old French mansion in the center of Hanoi where Ho Chi Minh lives.

ENEMY FIFTH COLUMN

It is nearly incredible that our country fails to fully realize that Black Power's involvement with foreign powers is indisputable. Black Power insiders make no bones about this. An enemy fifth column is on the march here. It is thoroughly structured in our college demonstrations, militant civil rights cadres and city-burning groups. Moreover, Black Power is only one of the fifth column's many fronts.

The purpose of the insurrectionists is to be the greatest uncontrolled threat to America's anti-Communist foreign policy. The ultimate objective is the military defeat, or political surrender, of the United States through weakness from within.

I plan to write next from Washington about the political side of this fifth-column attack.

What's Wrong With Teenagers – Nothing

Editor, Post-Crescent:

There are many people who are aware of, and appreciate, the fine things the young people of our community are doing. It was refreshing to read the editorial "Someone's Picking Up After You" in the October 25 issue of The Post-Crescent. I thought I had a solitary little "soap box" with regard to the good our young people are doing!

I've heard the remark more than once in recent months — "What's wrong with the teenagers of today?" As I do a slow burn, I say, — Nothing!

It may sound like asking for equal time for the Girl Scouts, (as the editorial referred to a job the Boy Scouts are doing), but this is the area I'm familiar with. One event was the city-wide Brownie Adventure Day.

The Senior Girl Scouts were asked to assist the adult leaders in making Brownie Adventure day a meaningful day for the Brownies. Their response was marvelous. These young people are loved and respected by our little girls of 7 and 8, and it's a real joy to see this camaraderie. Because of an oversight, there were several Senior Scouts who wanted to help, but hadn't been contacted.

Their willingness, enthusiasm, and participation — makes me know there's nothing wrong with our young people of today.

We have "teenagers" active as candy-stripers in our hospitals; our young people are active in their church or synod; and in many other activities we may not know of — unless we look, see, and care.

Perhaps the reason for some of our young people making the headlines being in trouble is because somebody doesn't care. We, as parents, should love and care and encourage our young people to be (would you believe?) good scouts!

Wisconsin Report

Wide Open Housing Law in State Won't Come in Near Future

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — It is becoming increasingly apparent that if the idea of literal open occupancy in housing policy in Wisconsin is to be achieved, it will be through action of the State Legislature and the force of state law.

Wyngaard

But it is almost equally evident that such action is not likely to be taken soon. Thus the passionate quarrelling in Milwaukee, where the problem of minority housing and its political repercussions are largely confined, may be continued indefinitely.

Every recent development in Milwaukee indicates that although the idea of open housing, so-called, is gaining adherents, the political establishment there is so divided and so certain of the hostility of a majority of its constituents toward the idea that a local ordinance in the alternative is unlikely.

A special committee which was assigned to the task of attempting to formulate a compromise, with considerable hoopla attending, turned in a report that was hopelessly divided. But the significant fact of the report was that the smallest minority among the divided factions supported open occupancy in absolute terms, without exclusions of any kind whatsoever. Given Milwaukee Mayor Maier's position that he would not approve an ordinance, even in the unlikely event that his City Council sends it to him, without concurrent action by many of the immediate suburbs, the issue appears to be stalemated.

FEW COMPLAINTS HEARD

It is a curious fact, meanwhile, that in spite of the hot controversy that attended the modified state open housing law enacted two years ago, there has been relatively little in the way of complaints under it, and thus far only one actual prosecution.

The casual observer might have guessed, and many of the legislators when they pondered the issue two years ago believed, that their law would open up a considerable activity in prosecutions, especially in Milwaukee where the minority accommodations is most conspicuous and has been disputed with such ferocity and obduracy. The law applies in Milwaukee, as it does in Madison, or Sturgeon Bay, or Superior or Platteville. Although its exclusions are considerable, it does in fact cover a substantial ratio of the housing available in Wisconsin. Thus there must be some curiosity about the failure of aggrieved persons who feel discriminated against to use it.

The law excludes owner-occupied housing, and such rental properties where the owner resides and four or less units are involved. It covers commercial housing, which one would guess would have brought some results in Milwaukee. It covers also new homes offered for sale by commercial builders. The default of activity may justify the belief of some persons, objectively considering the question, that the open housing issue is more important to the protesters as an issue of rights than for the actual dispersion of minority groups into non-white neighborhoods. To put it another way, a Negro needs the financial means, as well as the statutory right, to have a free choice in housing.

TWO DIFFICULTIES NOTED

With respect to the outlook for an absolute open housing guarantee under state law, so that the minority groups could move into the lower cost residential sections of Milwaukee's worried South Side, for example, the difficulties are two.

The Legislature two years ago enacted the limited housing law with the greatest difficulty, not because of demonstrated prejudice, but mostly because of indifference. The Legislature responds to its interpretation of the will of its constituents. The Negro accommodation problem is unknown in the vast area of Wisconsin beyond a few southern Wisconsin cities. The residents of the majority of districts have many more immediate interests in the Legislature, as their representatives are aware. The enactment of 1965 was largely the product of the insistance of Gov. Knowles. He used all the persuasion he possessed and all the influence of his office for the bill but, nevertheless, was obliged to settle for a compromise.

Some of the men who were his key lieutenants in that fight have left the Legislature. But some of the dissident representatives of Milwaukee County, which is the center of the problem however it is judged, remain in their State Capitol seats and have shown no sign that they have changed their minds, or any doubt that they represent the desires of their constituents.

An absolute prohibition of discrimination in housing may come, in the state, and in Milwaukee, but only the optimist would say it will come at an early time.

Scene From 28 A.D., Census Taker, Hippie?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The census-taker from Rome was sent to Galilee around the year 28 A.D. As he entered the region, he came across a man sitting on a donkey. The man had long hair and a flowing beard; he wore an old tattered cloak, sandals, and beads.

"Pardon me," the census-taker said, "but I'm taking the census. Do you mind answering a few questions?"

Harris

"Not at all," said the man on the donkey. "I believe in rendering unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's."

"What is your job?" asked the census-taker.

"I have no job," replied the man. "Consider the lilies of the field — they toil not, neither do they spin."

"What is your family?"

"I have no family," the man answered. "I have left my parents and my brothers and sisters, and I live alone."

"Humph," muttered the census-taker to himself. "No job and no fixed abode. Now, do you belong to any clubs or social affiliations?"

"None," said the man. "For no man can serve two masters."

"Do you go to school?"

"Nay," replied the man, "for which of us by taking though can add one cubit to his stature?"

"Do you have any money or visible means of support?"

The man shook his head. "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt," he chanted.

"Have you registered for military service?"

"I resist not evil, but return good for evil," replied the man. "And whosoever shall smite me on the right cheek, I shall turn to him the other also."

"What is your address?"

The man sighed. "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but I have not anywhere to lay my head."

"Who are your friends?"

"I go among publicans and sinners."

"What political party do you belong to?"

The man shrugged. "Only this — a new commandment I give unto you: That ye love one another."

The census-taker scribbled on his sheet: "Hippie character, school drop-out, no permanent address, no job, probably draft-dodger and pacifist, alienated from family, no wife or children, no church attendance, dubious associates among lowest elements in town."

"One more thing," he asked. "What is your name?"

The bearded one smiled sadly. "Some call me the Son of Man."

Dean for Youth Speaker

Calumet to Fete Leaders of 4-H

CHILTON — Adult and junior 4-H leaders will hold their annual fall banquet Nov. 16 at Brillion Bartholomew Lutheran Church.

Reservations are due Nov. 7 to the Calumet County extension office.

Speaker for the program is Glen Pulver, dean of youth development program at the University of Wisconsin campus. Dean Pulver was a staff member of the agricultural economics department for many years at Madison. He has been in his present position since the merging of the former Cooperative Extension Service and the other Extension divisions of the university.

Host clubs are Farm and Home and Friendly Valley. They will make local arrangements.

Club leaders will receive their eadership pins and certificates for the past year. Several have served for 20 or more years as a volunteer leader.

24 Clubs

More than 150 adults are presently enrolled as leaders in 4-H clubs. They include main organizational leaders, leaders in project work, and leaders of special activities such as recreation, health, safety, music and many others.

Club members totaled 689 in Calumet County for 1967. These were enrolled in the 24 clubs throughout the county. Many 4-H clubs are already filled to capacity. New clubs will be organized as adults are located who will serve as leaders. Without adult leaders there can not be 4-H clubs. Club members are encouraged to run their own meetings but it must be under adult supervision.

Calumet County leaders were represented by four of their council members at the district meeting in Green Bay, Oct. 24. Attending the all day and evening workshop was council president Herman Danes, director Mrs. Lester Keller and council members Mrs. James Thiel and Ruth Gross.

Leaders studied their teaching procedure and how it could become a more effective tool for members to learn. Eight other counties were also represented. Their proposals will be announced at the leaders banquet.

Egg Co-Op Picks Delegates

Lakeland Manager Reviews Business For Area Members

OSHKOSH — Six delegates from the District II of Lakeland Egg Co-operative, Valders, to the state meeting at Sparta Nov. 16 were elected at the recent district meeting.

They are Gordon Raddatz, rural Oshkosh, one of seven directors. Boss Farms, Inc., Louis Wuest, Lee Bradley, Herbert Ehricke, and Les Powell.

Lloyd Maurer, Valders, general manager, told members the co-op services 300 producers in a three-state area or about the same number as existed in District II 15 years ago.

Some of the larger producers ship 400 cases of eggs each week. These larger producers, he noted, help to reduce the cost of egg pickup. However, if a producer terminates business or if there is a problem of quality control and cannot meet retail market demand it may suffer the loss of an important egg market outlet.

Land o' Lakes, Minneapolis, is one of the largest markets being supplied by Lakeland.

District II services egg producers from Green Lake, Waushara and Winnebago counties, but principally Winnebago. Producers from Waupaca and Outagamie also attended.

Night Farm Classes Being Planned at Clintonville School

CLINTONVILLE — Plans are being made to start a night class in November for agriculturist farmers in the Clintonville and surrounding area, according to Frank Urbanz, young and adult farmer instructor.

Subjects to be covered are soils, fertilizers, crops, insecticides, weed sprays, feeds and feeding plus other timely items.

Anyone wishing to attend this course is asked to contact either Urbanz or the senior high school office.

Illinois Police Killing Renews Parole Debate

Lawmen, Theorists Disagree on Ease Of Prison Release

By STEPHEN M. AUG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The arrest of two federal parolees in the killing of two policemen has reopened a long-standing argument between police and penologists: Is it too easy to get out of jail on parole?

This time the argument—centering on an Illinois bank robbery a week ago—has reached the highest levels of law enforcement in the nation.

Director J. Edgar Hoover, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, says the case indicates parole comes too easily.

But Walter Dunbar, new chairman of the U S Board of Parole and former California corrections director, says a preliminary look at the records of the accused slayers convinces him he also would have voted to parole them.

The indirect debate was prompted by the case of two parolees from the federal penitentiary at Marion, Ill.—Clifton O. Daniels, 29, and Henry M. Gargano, 34.

They have been charged with aggravated bank robbery in the $83,783 holdup of a Northlake, Ill., bank Oct. 27 in which two policemen were killed during a gun battle. Conviction on the federal charge could mean the death penalty.

Gargano was paroled last March after serving 10½ years of a 21-year sentence for bank robbery and escape from a prison farm. Daniels was freed last January after serving 6 years of a 15-year bank robbery sentence.

Both have prison records dating to their teens.

Hoover noted Wednesday that both men had long criminal records and were on parole from federal prisons.

"It again shows the maladministration of the parole systems of this country," he said. While a believer in parole, he said, "I do not believe in the sloppy method in which it is administered at both the federal and local levels."

Old Sentiments

While the situation was new, Hoover's sentiments were not.

On Jan. 14, 1937, referring to some of the most notorious killers of the era—John Dillinger, Alvin Karpis, Baby Face Nelson—Hoover told a congressional committee, "We have innumberable instances of paroled convicts who go out and commit crime again."

Dunbar, who has been in penology for 26 years but was named to the board only five months ago, said in an interview Thursday every parole board in the nation faces a dilemma in deciding whether to grant parole

"It's easy to see if a prisoner has had his teeth fixed in prison, or has learned to tune an engine—but when we get into areas of how to measure his attitude, what he'll do when he gets out, how he'll react to his associates, these are less precise," he said.

"TRAILER LIVING AT ITS FINEST" is the claim of Country Estates Mobil Home Court, located on County Trunk BB, just west of Appleton and Highway 41. Convenient to the entire Fox River valley and the area's newest shopping districts, the outstanding trailer park is presently the home of over 75 trailer home families. Shown above is a view of the trailer park from the air. (Adv.)

Planned to satisfy the requirements of the most discriminating mobile home owner, the court is 5-star rated in Woodall's Mobile Home directory, which rates all mobile home parks in the United States. Country Estates Mobile Home court is the only 5-star rated park in the Fox Valley, and one of the only four in Wisconsin receiving this rating. (Others are located in LaCrosse, Madison, and Hayward).

Situated on 25 acres of land, this court features wide, blacktopped roads leading to uncrowded, landscaped trailer sites with plenty of off-street parking for owners and guests' cars. Top quality iron- and suphur-free water is enjoyed by all mobile home owners at Country Estates, and modern Mercury-vapor street lighting brightens the night streets.

Coin-metered washing machines and dryers are available for use in a spacious utility building and there is extra storage space for the use of those living at the park

For the best in mobile home living, Country Estates suggests checking into the advantages offered by this large, completely modern mobile home park today. (Adv.)

Cambodian Jungles

Ancient Temples Seen by Jackie

ANGKOR, Cambodia (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy fulfilled a longstanding wish today, traveling a thousand years into the past to examine the monumental temples of Angkor.

"It's magnificent, just magnificent," exclaimed President Kennedy's widow when she alighted from a French limosine and caught her first sight of the towering Bayon temple in the ruins of the capital of the Khmer civilization.

Her view was somewhat obscured by about 75 newsmen and photographers, with the cameramen clambering over the ancient ruins to get unusual angles for their shots.

Herded Away

Mrs. Kennedy put up with the hubbub graciously and after about half an hour the newsmen and photographers were herded away so she and her party could enjoy the temples undisturbed. She had asked her host Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's chief of state, to keep the newsmen away from Angkor but relented after her arrival from Bangkok Thursday.

The party arrived at the town of Siem Riep, four miles from Angkor and about 200 miles above Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, by private plane this morning

Angkor Wat is the best known of about 200 temples in the area. The ruins sit in a fairyland setting surrounded by the jungles which swallowed them up for 400 years

Mrs. Kennedy began the tour with a walk down an ancient street flanked on the left by gods of the Hindu culture and on the right by wildeyed demons. The whole complex is a magnificent display of crumbling temples, ancient sculpture and some of the most striking wall carvings existing anywhere.

Prince Sihanouk remained in Phnom Penh so his presence would not attract even larger crowds He put his personal villa in Siem Riep at the party's disposal and arranged a "picnic lunch," a seven-course feast with French wines served beneath towering trees adjoining the Bayon.

Father Charged With 7 Murders

Children Poisoned By Malice, Rules Coroner's Jury

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) — James Richardson was charged on a coroner's warrant Thursday night with first degree murder in the parathion poisoning of his seven small children.

Richardson, 31, was charged after a six-member coroner's jury ruled he and "other persons unknown" administered the parathion "feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought and with premeditated design."

"I just say I'm not guilty," the 5-foot-9 fruit picker said after Sheriff Frank Cline read the charge to him

Richardson, who had been in jail since Tuesday night on a technical charge of child neglect, was accused of putting the parathion—a deadly agricultural pesticide that affects the nervous system—on food eaten by his children Oct 29

Immediate Deaths

The children—ranging in age from 2 to 8—became violently ill within minutes. Six of them died that afternoon and the seventh died the next morning.

Testimony at the inquest indicated Richardson had attempted to purchase $1,000 double indemnity insurance policies on each of the children the night before they were stricken. The insurance agent, Gerald Purvis of Palmetto, testified Richardson may have interpreted his remarks to mean the insurance was effective at once although the initial $3.20 premium had not been paid.

$17,000 Lemon Isn't Even Good to Squeeze

NEW YORK (AP) — An anonymous buyer paid $17,000 for a lemon

The lemon was a piece of Meissen pottery, three inches in diameter, from the collection of Woolworth heir James Donohue.

The entire collection of Art objects, furniture and antiques were sold at auction Thursday and brought a total of $347,930.

Guard Called In Gary Election

Riots Feared During Negro-White Mayor Voting in Indiana

GARY, Ind. (AP) — State riot police and National Guard troops are being ordered into racially tense Gary to prevent disorders during Tuesday's city election in which a Negro is running for mayor.

Gov. Roger D. Branigin said he issued the callup alert Thursday because of "information, which I believe reliable, indicates imminent danger to the peace of the Gary community."

Branigin refused to say how many policemen and troops would be sent in, or when. But Adj. Gen. John S. Anderson said earlier that about 4,000 Guardsmen would be training Tuesday night.

Democratic candidate Richard G. Hatcher and Lake County Democratic Chairman John G. Krupa, who is not supporting Hatcher, disagreed on the need for troops election eve.

"I think that the presence of National Guard troops might be somewhat provocative and I certainly will be interested to know from the governor's office or the governor himself what the basis was for issuing the order," Hatcher said.

"I am absolutely unaware of any imminent danger to the peace of the Gary community," he added.

Krupa countered, "I think their presence here will help to minimize any flareups, but I know there will be flareups."

He said tension was acute in racially mixed neighborhoods. About 55 per cent of Gary's 180,000 residents are Negro.

"I think something is going to happen no matter which way the election goes," Krupa said. "They're going to try to keep the whites from voting"

The Republican mayoral candidate opposing Hatcher is Joseph Radigan, a furniture store operator.

New Solo Sales Push Set for '67-'68

Sokol & Company, Chicago, Ill., manufacturer of Solo Instant Cake and Pastry Fillings, announced that it has completed plans for its 1967-68 consumer sales push. The advertising campaign, which is scheduled through the spring of 1968, incorporated a new series of newspaper ads.

A series of newspaper ads featuring Solo Apricot, Poppy, Blueberry, Banana, Prune, Date, Nut, Cherry, Pecan and Almond fillings, picture an attractive, young modern housewife and the product being featured in its completed form (cakes, pastries, desserts, etc.) Also offered in the ad is the popular 60-page 150-recipe Solo Cookbook for 25 cents and one Solo label, any flavor.

The ads for newspaper are slanted toward the modern housewife and point out how quick, easy and foolproof unusual Solo desserts and other products are to make, and emphasizes their appeal to people on the go with a minimum of time to spend in the kitchen, yet who want to provide home-baked treats for their families and guests.

Sokol and Company has been producing cake and pastry fillings for more than 30 years and is a pioneer in this specialized field. (Adv.)

Knowles Vows Education Aids

cents a barrel and cigarette taxes by a penny a pack.

Assembly minority leader Robert Huber, D-West Allis, told newsmen the governor had told the Wisconsin Education Association Thursday night that new money would be provided for schools "because he apparently felt he would be booed if he didn't" offer aid.

"This was a bag of so-called goodies," Huber added. "I hope the teachers won't be lulled into false hopes."

Faced with the threat of teachers' strikes in Milwaukee on Jan. 2, the legislators and chief executive are proposing to take off the mill tax rate ceiling in Milwaukee and allow the city to raise up to 17 mills on its property tax by 1970. The city can use this money to meet the demands for higher teachers' salaries.

Categorical Aids

There also will be specific categorical aids for the city of Milwaukee in the $3.4 million direct aids These include teacher aids for core-area schools, security guards to maintain law and order in junior and senior high schools, retraining programs for core school teachers, special classes for disruptive pupils and after-school programs for core area children.

The third proposal, bearing a $10 million price tag, will be to increase the valuation behind each student from $38,000 to $39,000. Revenues to support this measure may be sought through piggy-back sales taxes to be levied at the county or municipal level.

"I have found no money trees around capitol square," the chief executive commented. "We are all citizens and tax-payers, and I have to be the governor of all the people within a framework of a fiscally-sound budget. Working together, we can continue to provide the best education for Wisconsin's greatest resource — its youth"

After his formal speech, Knowles stated that already he has taken the school matter to the legislators on a bi-partisan basis, and received bi-partisan support. He said the leadership in the Legislature is conversant with property tax problems throughout the state, and central city problems in Milwaukee, and he felt confident that every effort will be made to enact the legislation without delay.

Russia's Last Anti-Red Premier Ailing in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Alexander F. Kerensky, last anti-Communist premier of Russia, has been hospitalized here with a nervous ailment on the eve of the 50th anniversary of his overthrow by Lenin's Bolsheviks.

Intimates said the impact of the observances of the triumph of communism in his homeland had affected the 86-year-old exile.

Authorities at Manhattan's St. Luke's Hospital said Thursday Kerensky was suffering from Herpes Zoster, commonly known as shingles, which has caused blisters and acute pain along the nerves in the right side of his face.

He was admitted almost three weeks ago shortly after his return from lecturing at Stanford University, California.

In interviews lately, Kerensky, who is almost blind, has indicated a deep desire to return to Russia and has said he detects signs of greater freedom in the Soviet Union.

"I am here only physically," he said while seated in the apartment he occupies in the town house of Mrs. Kenneth Simpson, widow of the late Republican leader of New York County.

"Spiritually, I am in Russia. This is the home of American friends I have no home and no memories binding me here," he continued.

Romney Sets Date for Candidacy Declaration

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. George Romney today said he will announce his presidential intentions at a meeting in Michigan on Nov. 18.

Romney, after discussing his cancellation of a proposed television broadcast Nov. 15 told a news conference:

"I will hold a meeting on Saturday, Nov. 18 in Michigan. At that time I will announce whether I will or will not run."

Manuscript Donated To Author's College

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Author William L. Shirer has donated the original manuscript and notes for his book, "The Rise and Fall of The Third Reich," to Coe College, his alma mater.

East German Border Guard Defects to West

BERLIN (AP) — A 19-year-old noncommissioned officer of an East German border unit defected Thursday night by crossing Communist barbed-wire entanglements into West Berlin, police reported today.

Police said the soldier escaped apparently without being detected by his comrades. The defector wore a uniform and carried a weapon.

Nasser Confidant Accuses Johnson Of Hampering Mideast Settlement

CAIRO (AP) — A frequent spokesman for President Gamal Abdel Nasser accused President Johnson today of deliberately blocking a Middle East settlement. His accusation came 24 hours after a meeting between Nasser and a White House envoy.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, a confidant of Nasser and editor in chief of the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram, said Johnson cares little for the Arabs and hopes the Jewish vote will re-elect him. He said the United States is the only power that can achieve a decisive solution to the crisis in the Middle East, but "it appears the United States will not play this role in the foreseeable future"

Heikal's editorial followed the departure from Cairo of Robert B. Anderson, a special presidential envoy who Al Ahram said carried an unspecified feeler to Nasser. He presented it Tuesday, then got Nasser's reaction Thursday, the newspaper said.

Johnson administration sources in Washington said earlier that Anderson's mission was to determine if Egypt would engage in some form of negotiations with Israel through a United Nations mediator.

At the meeting Thursday, according to Al Ahram, "Nasser explained the United Arab Republic's point of view in general, in addition to his opinion on what Anderson had proposed. All this was in conformity with the basic and unalterable previous stands of the United Arab Republic and the recent discussions of the Khartoum Arab summit conference."

The "unalterable previous stands" are no recognition of Israel, no direct negotiations with Israel, and unconditional Israeli withdrawal from Arab territory seized in the six-day June war.

Because a Middle East political solution seems unlikely, Heikal wrote, "the Arabs might revert to nonpolitical means to settle the crisis." This appeared to be a threat of renewed military action.

Once a Master, Now An Ordinary Mortal

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has traveled a long road from master to petitioner.

When he was Democratic leader in the Senate in the 1950s, he had a detailed knowledge of every senator from both parties: his strong points, his weak ones and his special interests.

He made it his business to know, which is one of the reasons why he was probably the most effective Senate leader in American history

In the Senate cloakroom, on the telephone or in his office Johnson twisted the arms of senators who objected to legislation he was shepherding.

Already Indebted

Even before Johnson went to work on him an individual senator was more than likely already indebted to him for a past favor, like Johnson's help in getting through some legislation the senator wanted

If he couldn't get full agreement, Johnson was willing to compromise He took special pride in this It was one of his favorite tactics, perhaps his most important one

His philosophy about getting legislation through the Senate was simple. He was realistic. He didn't operate on Cloud 9, insisting that a majority of the Senate had to give him exactly what he wanted as he wanted it.

If necessary, he was willing to settle for less than all he wanted in order to get some of it, believing that in time he could get the rest of it.

An outstanding example is the 1957 Civil Rights Act, the first such legislation approved in this century. Nobody before Johnson had been able to do it.

Less Forceful

It was the product of compromise, winding up being a lot less forceful than the civil rights measure the Senate started out to consider. Negroes were unhappy about it, and some were intensely angry at Johnson

But Southern resistance, which had been able to block every other civil rights bill in this century, was broken and could never be the same again. Thus the 1957 act, less than perfect, was a foot in the door Other civil rights acts followed

In those Senate years Johnson, completely on top of domestic problems, was never noted as a foreign affairs authority He didn't have to be, since foreign affairs bills had been worked over in detail by specialized committees before reaching the Senate for a vote

Then Johnson moved out of the Senate and into the vice presidency and finally into the presidency where the problems were quite different, as Johnson learned in a hurry, particularly with Vietnam.

Still the Master

For a while time was on his side, letting him still run Congress—now from the White House. The proof was what happened in 1965 after the year-earlier elections gave Democrats overwhelming control of both House and Senate

In 1965 Congress achieved its most productive year, ramming through a miracle of legislation under Johnson's prodding and maneuvering He still had time for that. Vietnam was only just beginning to boil over.

Congress tapered off in 1966, mainly perhaps because by then Johnson had become so deeply involved in Vietnam. His difficulties were compounded by the 1966 elections in which Republicans regained 47 seats from the Democrats

His lack of experience in foreign affairs was one of the biggest monkeys on his back at the very moment expertness was needed in handling the Vietnam war

Far From Graceful

Instead of being a master, as he was in Congress, he had to depend on government experts to advise him Like President John F. Kennedy before him, he was sometimes far from graceful with foreign problems

And bit by bit, as he got more deeply soaked in foreign affairs, his grip on Congress diminished. He has confessed it without saying it in so many words

His news conference Wednesday was a good example There he did what he had done at least once before: He criticized Congress for dragging its feet on major legislation he wanted

For Johnson to have done this when he was in Congress is unthinkable. But he went further.

No president could have more thoroughly admitted his frustration in trying to bend Congress to his will than Johnson did Thursday when he made a public appeal to Americans to put pressure on Congress

Badley (sic) Bent Issued Credit Card

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — When Mrs. Illivaun Miller's gasoline credit card became badly bent recently, a service station representing the company filled out a form asking a replacement and sent it to the home office.

The station noted on the form that the card had been "badley (sic) bent."

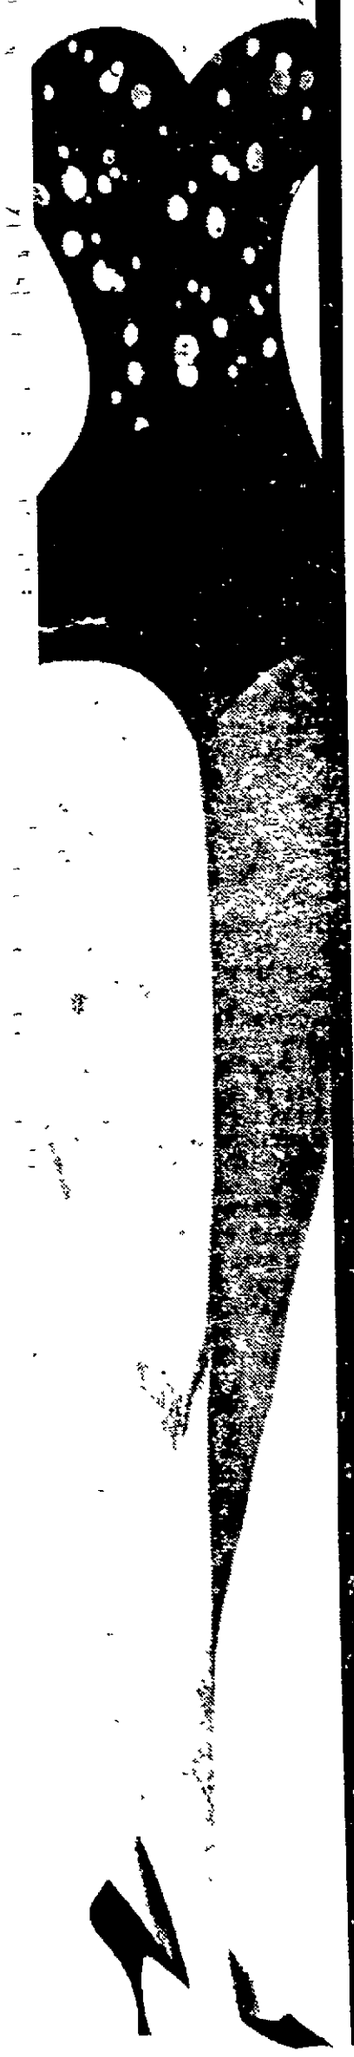

The new credit card arrived a few days later at Mrs. Miller's house. It was made out to "Badley Bent, 3221 Rio Grande Blvd. NW, Albuquerque, N.M."

Newsmaking Is a Game Everyone Can Play

First families, former first families and just folks garnered their share of news space this week.

Lynda Bird Johnson, the girl who works part time at McCall's Magazine, took the weekend off to attend homecoming activities at the University of Wisconsin with alumnus Chuck Robb.

The engaged couple wound up the weekend with a reception Sunday at the home of Capt. Robb's parents, Mr and Mrs. James Robb, Milwaukee.

Receives King

The mother of the bride-to-be had a busy week with the arrival of visiting King Mahendra of Nepal and his wife, Queen Ratna. Mrs. Johnson was hostess at welcoming ceremonies Wednesday at the White House

Former First Lady Mrs John F. Kennedy, is well into her two-week excursion that includes visits in Thailand and Cambodia. Jackie left New York Saturday and stopped over in Rome for two days, where she took in a performance of a Spanish ballet. She was met in Cambodia Thursday by ruling Prince Sihanouk, a critic of U.S. policy.

Parliament Opens

Tuesday marked the 14th state opening of Parliament in England and the first time 18-year-old Prince Charles participated in the event He rode to the ceremonies in a state coach with his mother, Queen Elizabeth.

Halloween is not to be forgotten as one of the major events of the week — for youngsters and their fun-loving parents alike. A group of housewives in Bellevue, Wash., donned their most frightening faces this week for the cause of charity. Each year the Overlake Service League rents an abandoned house, turns it into a spook haven and charges admission to entertain youngsters with their witchcraft.

Halloween to the William Penistons of Latonia, Ky., means only treats. The couple had twins born to them on Halloween 1965, another set on Halloween 1966 and a third set Oct 23 of this year. Also included in the family of seven children is the eldest, 3½-year-old Billy.

Rep. James C. Corman, D-Calif., above, poses in the Capitol with his bride-to-be, Carol Franda, 26, who has been an aide to Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass. Corman, whose wife died about a year ago, and Miss Franda plan to be married Nov. 18 in Washington. Cathy Schmid, left, a journalism senior at the University of Wisconsin, registers this reaction Wednesday as she begins her second week of listening to a Senate probe into Oct. 18 anti-war demonstrations on campus. Below, the wife of Wisconsin's governor, Mrs. Warren P. Knowles, holds two-year-old Rosalind Childs in her lap on a visit Wednesday to the John F. Kennedy branch of the Child Care Centers, Inc. in Milwaukee. (AP Wirephotos)

Singer Eddie Fisher, above, and Connie Stevens took home their four-day-old baby Thursday in Burbank, Calif. Fisher reported through his press agent that he and Miss Stevens had been secretly married for some time but declined to state when and where the ceremony took place. The youngster at right has a queen for a grandmother. Queen Juliana of the Netherlands plays with six-month-old grandson Prince Willem Alexander, son of Crown Princess Beatrix and the first male heir to the Dutch throne in 116 years.

McNamara Called Threat to U.S. Security

Conservative Phyllis Schlafly Talks to Women in Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — "We have to clean house, sweep out the State Department and the Defense Department," said Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly to the Pro America Club at the 20th Century Club in Oshkosh Thursday afternoon.

In a hall decorated with gold eagles, and red, white and blue banners, Mrs Schlafly presented her theories about the troubles we are having in Washington, Vietnam and in our relations with the Soviet Union.

Mrs Schlafly's audience was made up of about 100 men and women who greeted her with a standing ovation at the onset of her speech. Many of the women from throughout Wisconsin were dressed in some variation of the patriotic theme.

Money Bills

Mrs. Schlafly pointed out to her audience the large number of money bills passed by Congress this past week Referring to them as the most fantastic expensive spending bills ever voted by Congress," she asked the audience was "big brother" in Washington should make all our decisions for us spend all our money for us

Pointing to the single biggest piece of corruption if we measure it in terms of money spent" she directed her audience's attention to the TFX contract In 1962 a call for bids to build the TFX plane went out

It was a $6½ billion contract — the largest single contract in government spending. General Dynamics and Boeing submitted bids and proposals to the government. After two years of study by all departments involved, it was decided that the Boeing plane was the better design and the least expensive. The vote of all committees was for this design. But, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara overrode all of these decisions and awarded the contract to General Dynamics.

Geographic Location

Mrs. Schlafly said that the geographic location of General Dynamics was such that they could and would deliver some 80 more electoral votes than Boeing and its location. When Secretary McNamara was queried, he said his decision would save the taxpayers $1 million. He further stated, she said, when asked where his figures were to prove this, "in my head." He said that "he was a $500,00-a-year accountant, the second highest paid in the country."

"This is corrupt politics at its worst," said Mrs Schlafly It was simply a political payoff for the people who delivered votes in 1960 to the Kennedy-Johnson ticket They would do it again in 1964

One of the men who gave out publicity on the TFX contract was Arthur Sylvester who said "it is an inherent right of government to lie" When Mr. Sylvester left government service he quipped, "I was ambushed at the pass."

The cost of this contract has doubled today. For $13 billion, we will receive 400 fewer planes than the original contract would have awarded. We are now more than two years behind and the planes are not meeting any of their performance requirements

Tremendous Spending

Behind the facade of tremendous government spending, we are not getting the weapons that we need for the defense of our country.

Mrs Schlafly stated that only 30 per cent of the strategic targets in Vietnam have ever been hit While military men say that the war could be won in "a day or two," we are not winning

With the question of why President Johnson does not override all of his advisors, mainly Secretary McNamara, and give the order to win, Mrs Schlafly said the answer could be found in a statement made by Dean Rusk, given when he testified before a senate committee The substance of the statement was the administration is afraid to win in Vietnam for fear it will provoke the Soviet Union into an attack on the U.S. that would kill 300 million Americans

The tragic results of seven years of McNamara policy is that we do not have the weapons, that we can't shoot down any missiles.

A report published July 12 of this year by the U.S Armed Services Committee, of which General Bernard Schriever was chairman, stated that this year we have come to the crossroads in "megatonnage" In 1962, the U.S had overwhelming superiority over the Soviet Union. In the years since Secretary McNamara has been Secretary of Defense and under the policies he has established, we have been on a constant downward trend The Soviet Union is building. By 1971, under these same plans we will have lost about 90 per cent of our deliverable megatonnage.

At this time, the Pentagon issued a short and carefully worded statement which did not call the report inaccurate, did not deny that the Soviets are now ahead of the U.S. in megatonnage, did not deny that they would have a 10 to one lead over U.S. by 1971. Mrs. Schlafly pointed out that what was said was that we had enough weapons to convince the Soviets that attack would be foolish.

Vetoes System

Mrs. Schlafly pointed further to Secretary McNamara's insistence that we do not need an anti-missile system. In spite of money voted for it by Congress and advice from military men, he continues to veto this anti-missile system every time it comes up.

He announced that we would start building a thin line anti-missile defense that would be completed in 1972 as a protection against Red China. Mrs. Schlafly stated that this is not what we need, we need a "thick" line against the Soviet Union.

Mrs Schlafly said that our very lives are in the hands of a man who merely guesses what the Soviets will do next. This is a man that has guessed wrong from the days he was part of the automobile industry through the Bay of Pigs to the anti-missile system he won't okay. We must make a clean sweep of the Washington offices She further stated that the enthusiasm of individuals and groups is what our country needs, for "if you don't stand for something, you'll fall for anything."

Worldly Women Speaking Up In United Nations Councils

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y (AP) — When Mrs. Franklin D Roosevelt began her career with the United Nations 22 years ago, women were just beginning to be heard in world diplomatic councils Today they threaten to drown out the men.

Sixty-three women delegates are sitting in the main committees of the General Assembly this year and perhaps two dozen more will speak up in debates on human rights, social welfare and other issues of feminine interest.

The Western world has the larger proportion. There are 30 female envoys from Latin America, Western Europe and the British Commonwealth

The African group ranks next with 13 The Communist bloc, which has always made a thing of sex equality, is third with 10

Seven women are from Asian countries and one is from Israel. The remaining two are from Iraq and Morocco, but the Arab world generally upholds the rules of purdah which have for centuries kept women shrouded from public view.

Few Like Them

The new influx has not so far produced such famous figures as Mrs. Roosevelt or Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India, the General Assembly's only woman president, in 1953.

The group, however, includes a number of women who have attained note, either as experts in some field or purely as personalities.

Among the best known is Alva Myrdal, wife of the Swedish economist Gunnar Myrdal. She is head of the Swedish delegation to the 17-nation disarmament committee in Geneva and has made a name in other branches of diplomacy.

On Her Mind

An energetic, fresh-looking woman in her mid 60s, Mrs. Myrdal has played a prominent role in U.N. arms debates She has also been an able negotiator in the East-West fencing over a nuclear test ban. She served five years as Sweden's ambassador to India.

"Disarmament," she said recently, "is my main preoccupation for the foreseeable future."

A favorite of delegates and gallery audiences alike is Angie Brooks, 38-year-old assistant secretary of state for Liberia, who has been airing her pronounced views in the world forum since 1954

She has spent most of her time in the Trusteeship-Committee. Members there fondly call her "Our Miss Brooks" and named her their chairman in 1962. This year, she advanced to the presidency of the Trusteeship Council.

Miss Brooks complains that the United Nations is still a man's world, despite her rapid rise. "No matter how it goes, men oppose women," she told a reporter

"I don't know where Angie got that idea," observed a male colleague "She has had more to say than any two men delegates in Trusteeship"

For Humanity

Most women delegates serve on the assembly's Social Committee which specializes in humanitarian and cultural matters.

"Such issues as political rights for women, discrimination in education and consent to marriage evoke plenty of comments in the debates from our lady delegates," said a veteran ambassador who happens to be a bachelor

Felt Discrimination

Representing the United States in both the social and legal committees is Patricia Roberts Harris, who had served for two years as ambassador to Luxembourg. As a Negro, Mrs Harris has encountered her share of discrimination.

"It is no less unpleasant to be denied a job because one is a woman than it is to be denied the job because one is a member of a minority racial group," she told a recent session of the Social Committee

On the permanent delegation of the United States is Eugenie M. Anderson, trim former envoy to Denmark.

In recent years, several women have acted as chairman of the Social Committee in recognition of its preoccupation with the fair sex. The current chairman is Mara Radic of Yugoslavia, who has spent four years as ambassador to Switzerland and has represented her government on the executive committee of the U.N Children's Fund.

In Underground

Mrs. Radic's background includes four years during World War II as an underground fighter against the Nazis.

Her predecessor as chairman was Halima Warzazi, pretty brunette from Morocco who created quite a stir conducting debates in flowered native dress of clinging silk with the skirt slit at the knee

One of the current attractions of the Social Committee is Lady Gaitskell, widow of the British Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell, and a peeress in the House of Lords.

A small, bright-eyed woman with a quick wit, she has taken an active role in debates, particularly on child welfare issues.

Another titled representative is Princess Moune Souvanna Phouma, attractive daughter of the prime minister of Laos, who also fills in on occasion as interpreter for her father.

Women delegates encounter odd problems carrying out their job

Mrs Harris refuses to carry the diplomat's customary leather briefcase.

"It tears my stockings," she said

Episcopal Lecture Series

Ceremony Still Plays Part In Bestowal, Use of Power

The medievalist, said William Chaney, has his head in the cosmic clouds of the future and his feet in the clay of the past.

Dr. Chaney was the final speaker in the Women of All Saints Episcopal Church annual fall lecture series. "Ceremony and Power in History" was the topic of the professor of history at Lawrence University Thursday morning at the parish center.

Dr. Chaney traced his subject full circle, beginning with the recent transfer of power in the U. S. upon the death of President Kennedy. He noted that Lyndon Johnson was not without sympathy for the bereaved Mrs. Kennedy when he ordered the presidential oath to be taken aboard Air Force I before the plane left Dallas, nor when he requested the presence of her, other government officials and newsmen.

He was, rather, taking note of the importance of showing, in a time of chaos and confusion, that the transfer of power was orderly and necessary, and the people of the U. S. could be reassured about the state of their nation.

Must Be Seen

By taking the oath in full view of the nation, so to speak, President Johnson recognized instinctively that power must be seen to be real, and that ceremony confirms power. If this is still true in our informal society, Dr. Chaney said, how much more so it was in the past.

The speaker cited as an example the ancient Near East, called "a dead spot in the concert hall of history". In that time, he said the uncharted was everything beyond the immediate community. Everything was considered, alive, including the dead and inanimate, and danger lay in everything.

The natural elements we consider objectively today were all living reality in that time. Myths developed to explain what was happening. Things need not have been that way, but could have been. Man explained all of life through myth, and the stories were not stories or allegories, but truth. Myths were dramatized, put into action — or ceremony. It brought forth the statement, "Primitive religion is not believed, it is danced."

Became the God

New Year festivities in ancient Babylon were cited as an example. Ceremonially, the king became the god Marduch, slaying the goddess of disorder and chaos, Tiama. Thus the king recreated order so the world could go on, and the ceremony gave the king, and Marduch, who WAS the king — power. People saw the taking of power happen right before their eyes. They never questioned what would happen if the ceremony were not performed. Ceremony was not separaetd from the act or situation.

In our time, ceremony and act are separated — as cause and effect. In that time, ceremony merged with what was happening. Cosmic power was meshed with earthly power, symbols merged with what they stood for and became the essence of what they stood for. It is on this premise, even today, that the African native or primitive will not let his picture be taken, for he believes that something of him is in the picture, and what happens to it happens to him.

It is easier to understand some of the ceremonial customs of the Middle Ages, Dr. Chaney said, because so many of them are retained in our own society. Coronations, the lecture system of learning, academic processions and religious rituals are all holdovers. Ceremony was important in the Middle Ages because society was largely nonliterate, though certainly not non-intellectual.

Embody Power

Ceremonies set certain people, such as royalty apart. The king on his throne, with crown and orb, was the physical embodiment of power. Kings were mediators between God and people. He moved between the earthly and the godly.

Middle Ages ceremony reflected power at all levels, including the lord-vassel relationship, where the vassel pledged fealty and allegiance and the lord gave the use of the land. Ceremony bound the lord and vassel together in a relationship blessed by God.

As high churchmen were drawn into the higher social structure (many of them were of nobility) the same emphasis on ceremony continued. Ecclesiastical office came to be considered a gift from the king, just as earldoms were. Today many medieval symbols, suh as the ring and the staff, remain, but the investiture of a churchman resulted in royal domination over the church.

Separation Began

The church fought back, and won, during the 11th and 12th Centuries, when the Papal Revolution placed power with the clergy rather than royalty. The layman was excluded from taking wine with communion, separating him from the ceremony permitted clergymen. The clergy was thus elevated over the laity and set apart in privilege. Until this time the priest had faced the congregation during mass, but, at this time, he turned his back to the congregation, standing between man and God as he alone celebrated the mystery. The altar was moved to the back of the church, which also changed church architecture.

We are now, Dr. Chaney said, living through the repeal of the Papal Revolution. The change began with Vatican II, and the use of non-Latin in the mass and facing the congregation during mass are evidence of the changed spirit.

Direct Proportion

There is also change in the church power structure, with episcopal authority as well as papal power acknowledged. Increasing emphasis is placed on the opinion of the laity. Less formal dress is worn by churchmen. Dr. Chaney pointed out that the greater the difference between clergy and laity in ceremony, dress and custom, the more power the clergy has. The less difference or apartness shown, the less the central power.

The importance of the 'eye' in viewing and thus accepting power has changed in our times, the speaker noted. Society in the early 1500s became more ear centered, as the altar was replaced in importance by the pulpit and the preacher. At that time the 'eye' was orthodox and the 'ear' was heretical. To those involved in the reformation the opposite was true — stained glass and statues were fraught with dangers and only the 'word' was orthodox. Through all this change ceremony became less important and all but disappeared. Today we no longer see cosmic gestures in ceremonial expressions of power.

The eye, however, may be again becoming dominant in the viewing of reality. Our society is eye-centered, with history happening on TV and visual aids in our schools. It's evident in the color of dress, and in the wearing of bells and flowers and pins as symbols. Dr. Chaney predicts that ceremony in the form of expression in our eye-centered society will again be used. It's purpose as an expression of power has not yet ended.

Care-by-Parent Ward Solves Hospitalized Child Problems

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Hospitals can be awful places, especially for little kids who feel all alone in a world of starched white uniforms, hypodermic needes and the smell of disinfectant.

But this needn't be so—and it hasn't been for more than 18 months in the care-by-parent ward at the University of Kentucky's Medical Center.

Everybody involved—the hospital, the doctors, the parents and the children—likes the setup. Maybe the kids like it best of all.

"A kid needs Mom or Dad around all the time," Dr. Vernon L. James, director of the clinic, said, "and he needs them even more when he's sick."

In the care-by-parent ward, that need is answered. Each room includes a bed for the sick child and a studio couch that converts to a bed. One parent stays with the child all the time.

Not Unusual

The idea isn't new. Worried mothers have kept vigils beside bedsides of sick children in hospitals for years, but the university has added some new twists and made it standing procedure.

There are no nurses in the care-by-parent ward unless some urgent need arises. Then a nurse can be borrowed from the pediatric clinic, just next door.

Nurses aides don't wear white uniforms. They're more friendly in blue checked dresses and even have a different title—child care assistants.

Lights go out at 10:30 sharp and all hospital personnel leave. A red telephone is left on a desk as a direct line to the paging operator and help—if it's needed.

"That telephone has been used only eight times in a year and a half," Dr James said.

The absence of nurses and shorter hours for other personnel is a boon to the hospital, of course.

The system is nice on the pocketbook, too. While the average cost per day in the rest of the hospital is $27, the cost in the care-by-parent ward is $17.

Learn How

The nurses aides teach mothers to give medicines, take temperatures and care for the child the way a nurse would. This helps the mother, too. She's much better prepared when it comes time to take the child home.

And it helps the doctor, Dr. James said. "For one thing, the child is more responsive to treatment. For another, the parent is always handy when you have a question about the child or his background."

One service performed by the ward involves premature babies, which are kept in the hospital, after the mother is discharged, until the tyke reaches about five pounds.

"When the mother comes back for the baby, she often is scared about taking it home and caring for it all by herself," Dr. James said. "We let her stay in the ward a day or two and show her how."

The ward has 14 rooms, usually about 80 per cent filled. Dr. James decides who stays there. "Generally speaking, we take any child who has to be hospitalized for any reason, but who doesn't need acute hospital care," he said.

Say Vows in Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Sue Petters

NEENAH — Miss Lana Kae Nelson became the bride of Gary A. Broeske in a 4 p.m. Saturday ceremony at St Paul Lutheran Church. The Rev. Arthur Tingley officiated at the double ring rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Nelson, 309 Third St. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Anthony Broeske, 546 First St, Menasha, and the late Mr Broeske.

The bride chose Mrs. Jerald Christenson, Menasha, the bridegroom's sister, as matron of honor. Mrs Richard Eckrich and Miss Judith Koslofski were bridesmaids.

Norman Nelson, the bride's brother, performed the duties of best man. Donald Broeske and Keith Nelson were groomsmen. Duane Nelson and Myron Nelson Jr., seated guests.

A reception was held at Lakeroad Lanes.

The bride is employed by George Banta Co., Inc., Menasha. Her husband is associated R Sabee, Appleton.

The couple lives in Neenah.

Beta Sigma Phi Initiates Members

Phi Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi initiated five new members at the group's Thursday meeting at the home of Mrs. James Erdmann, 1927 N. Meade St.

New members are Mrs. Calvin Kaufman, Miss Judy Severson, Miss Barbara Brecklin, Mrs. Walter Schmidt and Miss Judy Rankin.

Summer Rite Planned by Miss Petters

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Petters, 16 Crestview Court, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sue, to Ken Hopfensperger. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Hopfensperger, route 4, Appleton.

Miss Petters is a senior at Stout State University, Menomonie, and is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. Her fiance, who is a graduate of Stout State University and was a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity, is serving with the Air Force in Los Angeles.

The couple plans a summer wedding.

Selection Tournament in Atlantic City, N.J.

Six diamonds would have been a far better contract than six spades. Send your objections to Lew Mathe, leading Los Angeles expert, and Ron Von der Porten, of San Francisco, but don't quarrel too much with success.

West opened the ace of clubs. Von der Porten ruffed in dummy, and East signaled encouragement with the ten of clubs. Declarer drew a round of trumps with the king, got to his hand with the king of hearts and led the ace of trumps. When East dropped the queen, declarer's sigh of relief made the windows rattle.

Vonder Porten continued with three more rounds of trumps, discarding low diamonds from dummy. East discarded a low diamond and two low clubs.

Second Thoughts

Vonder Porten next cashed dummy's top hearts. When West showed out, declarer ruffed the fourt heart with his last trump.

South had planned a diamond finesse as his last chance for the slam, but now had second thoughts. It was clear that East still had the king of clubs (he should have thrown it away), and it seemed that East still had K-x of diamonds. With any other diamond holding East would not have discarded a diamond earlier.

Instead of taking a diamond finesse, therefore, Von der Porten led his low club. East had to win with the king of clubs, and then had to lead diamonds, thus giving declarer a free finesse and his slam contract.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: S-Q 3, H-J 10 7 2, D-K 9 5, C-K Q 10 7. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. Show the major suit (even such a weak 4-card holding) first. If partner fails to show any real enthusiasm for hearts, you can later raise diamonds, show the clubs or even try notrump over a rebid in spades.

Promises Exchanged

Mrs. Clara Houle, route 6, Appleton, and William Hofacker, route 2, Appleton, exchanged wedding promises at 10 a.m. Oct. 25 at St. Edward Catholic Church, Mackville. The Rev. Nicholas Gross performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs Henry Hofacker, route 2, Appleton, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, were the couple's honor attendants.

Henry Hofacker and David Houle seated guests.

A reception was held at Romy's New Nitingale, Black Creek.

Mr Hofacker is engaged in farming.

Architect Says White Walls Enhance Colors

TORONTO, Canada (AP) — If you are about to furnish your first home, consider painting the walls white, try to discourage your relatives from giving you an expensive piece of furniture, and remember your living quarters and tastes will probably change.

That's the advice of John Gallop, an architect who specializes as a consultant on interiors. He says you should consider the large areas, walls and floors, first. His approach to walls is basic.

"As far as I'm concerned, you only paint walls white.

Neutral Background

"White gives you the most neutral possible background. We know almost mathematically that all colors and textures look, I don't say best, but look truest against white."

He also says:

"Try not to get stuck with some fine furniture because of well-meaning friends and relatives. It's so good you can't get rid of it and you'll have to live with something you detest.

"Start with things you can change without too much remorse. It's nice to be surrounded with good things, but one of the nicest parts of living is change. That's why people like houseplants, they look lovely, and they're always changing."
